FINDS DETROIT BANKS SOLVENT WHEN CLOSED

Judge Blames U. S. Treasury Stand.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 18.—Judge Harry B. Keidan, who for 3 months has been taking testimony in investigation of reasons for the collapse of Detroit's two national banks, tonight found that the banks were solvent at the time of the Michigan banking holiday and that there was no evidence of criminality on the part of the bank officers.

JUDGE HARRY KEIDAN.

Judge Keidan in his report as a "one man grand jury," acting for the state, said he regretted his inquiry had not received the coöperation of federal officials who have authority over national banks. He added:

"Sensitive to the misery which has been visited upon the innocent depositors of the closed banks, and to the attendant hardships upon commerce and industry, the court caused the weight of this public proceeding to be turned fully upon officials of the government in Washington who were empowered to relieve these conditions in Detroit and Michigan.

"In considering the testimony relating to the solvency or insolvency of the First National bank, Detroit, and the Guardian Bank of Commerce, all available witnesses were called. Obviously, the majority of witnesses were bankers because they alone, outside of federal bank examiners, who were not available as witnesses, had knowledge of the internal condition of these institutions.

Basis of Reports Withheld.

"The so-called yellow sheets, which were confidential reports to the controller of the currency, were introduced in evidence. These sheets contained statements which have not been supported by testimony, and this court has been prevented from inquiring into the knowledge of the examiners who made the reports.

"Critical as these sheets are of the conduct of officials and the management of these banks, this co.rt is t willing to believe that the United States government, whose duty it is to supervise and regulate national banks, would permit an insolvent bank to remain open throughout the several years covered by these yellow sheets, while depositors, relying upon the government's approval, continued to deposit their money.

"More powerfully am I urged to conclude that the government would certainly not permit an insolvent bank to operate in fraud of its citizens, and, with the supporting testimony of the witnesses who appeared before this court, I am constrained to find that the two national banks, on Feb. 11, 1933, were solvent.

"The court further finds that there were no 'smart money' withdrawals by anybody before the holiday. On the contrary, the court finds that there were many heavy deposits made just prior to the holiday, many of them made by persons charged with having intimate knowledge of the internal affairs of the banks, such directors and officers, as well as special depositors, whose interests might possibly be protected.

Clears Banks' Officers of Blame.

"It is the finding of the court that insofar as the facts have been made available, the officers and directors of the two closed national banks are guilty of no acts involving criminality or moral turpitude.

"With respect to the inquiry into the affairs of the two trust companies, the stockholding, or group companies, and other affiliate corporations over which this court has jurisdiction of their books and records, the court directs the attorney general and the prosecuting attorney of Wayne county to continue the independent investigations, to ascertain whether crimes, in fact, exist, with the instructions that if these acts are found to issue warrants, and to prosecute the offenders.

Asks Government Help.

"This court is hopeful that the government will undertake to help the depositors of these closed institutions and the city of Detroit. For, in the final analysis, the public is interested in this help. The task is one which confronts government officials, who are servants of the people, no matter how high or how humble their official

425,957 PUPILS BEGIN SCHOOL ON QUIET FIRST DAY

The public schools of Chicago opened under the economy program yesterday with an enrollment of 425,957 pupils. Supt. William J. Bogan announced at the close of the day's activities that there had been comparatively little confusion or trouble in contrast to the forecasts made in some quarters that there would be rioting and other violence.

Enrollment is expected to increase daily until the end of the week, when nearly a half million boys and girls will be back in the classrooms. The enrollment reports received during the day were not an indication of the final school attendance, according to officials.

Registration on First Day.

Elementary schools	316,647
High schools	107,520
Normal college	1,790
Total	425,957

Of the students admitted to Normal college 1,200 were teachers who are temporarily out of employment because of the operation of the economy program. These teachers will complete intensive courses at the college in preparation for examinations and reassignment in the system as vacancies occur.

The high school attendance is expected to increase by approximately 25,000 students before the week is out. With the conversion of junior high school plants into senior high schools thousands of ninth grade pupils will swell the enrollment in this branch. Grade school enrollment will also increase with the return of seventh and eighth grade pupils from the junior high schools to the elementary schools.

Appear With Strike Dodgers.

Early in the day several youths appeared in the Crane Technical High school at 2245 Jackson boulevard with handbills proposing a strike of students in protest against the retrenchments made by the school board. This building formerly housed the Crane Junior college, closed this year as an economy measure.

Henry H. Hagen, principal of Crane High school, requested several policemen to keep pickets out of the building and there was no disorder. Copies of the dodgers that had been circularized were taken to Mr. Bogan at the central office. He stamped them the work of young communists. The dodger called for "a mass strike and picketing," adding that such activities would "make history."

One report circulated yesterday was that, because of the conversion of the junior high schools into senior high schools, engineers and janitors would receive a higher wage scale in some cases. This was denied by John Howatt, chief engineer of the school system.

Five to Receive Pay Cut.

"Janitors receive the same pay—$126 a month—no matter what school they work in," said Howatt. "The pay for engineers in the senior high schools is the same as in the junior highs. In elementary schools the salary is lower and because of the economy program five engineers or more will receive a pay cut."

This group consists of engineers in former junior high schools that have been changed into elementary schools. The engineers receive salaries this year ranging from $207 to $350 a month.

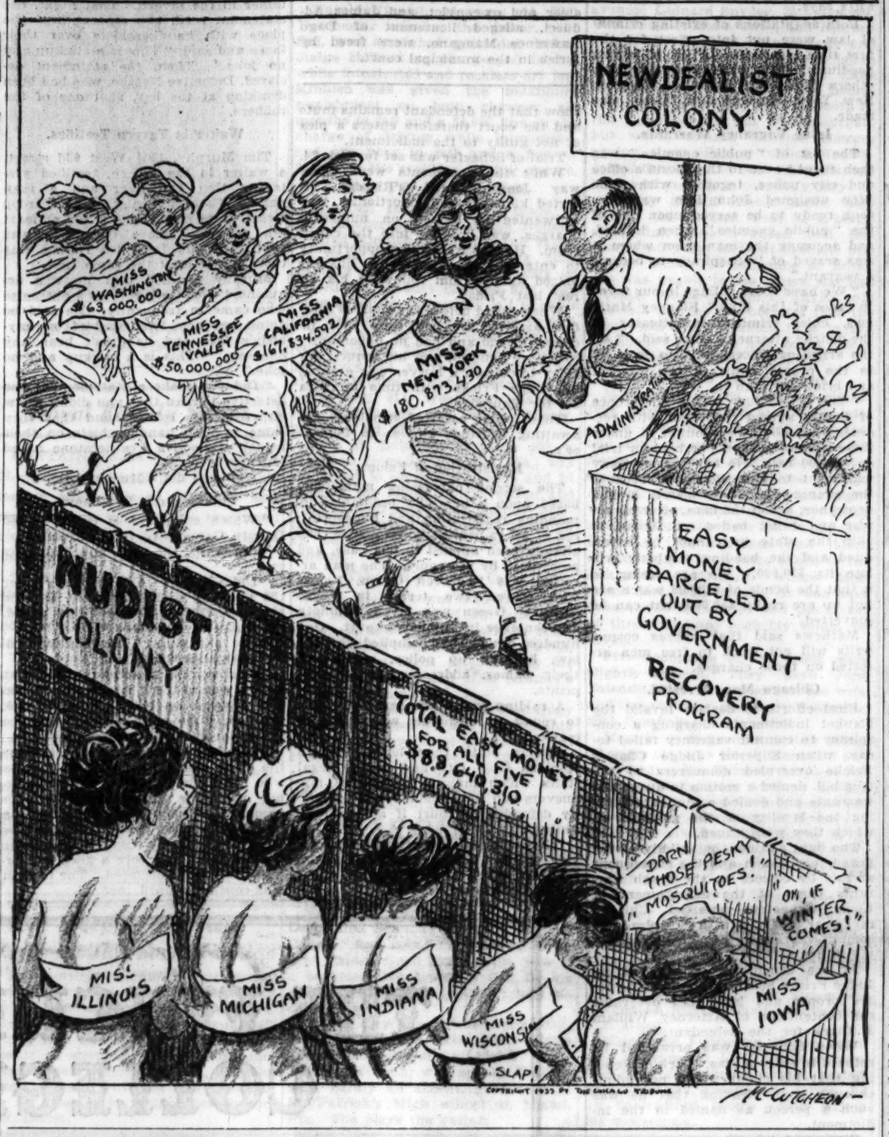
This year's budget for engineer-custodians, assistant engineers, firemen, janitors, janitresses and window washers has been reduced from $5,687,237 in 1931 to $4,304,792.

Continue Protest Charges.

Charges against three youths arrested Saturday during a disturbance at the Herzl High school grounds at Douglas boulevard and Lawndale avenue in protest against the board's economy program were continued to Oct. 4 yesterday by Judge Lambert K. Hayes in the Boy's court.

The defendants, who asked for jury trials are: Julius Hauser, 19 years old, of 5648 Harper avenue, a University of Chicago student; Morris Titelbaum, 18 years old, of 2418 West Division street, who had been a student at the Crane Junior college, and Joseph Arnstein, 21 years old, 2404 West Division street, a graduate of Englewood High school.

THIS NUDIST COLONY NEEDS SOME RECOVERING, TOO



Towns Protest the Flies and Odors of Dump

The redolent ghosts of 200,000 little pigs, which were martyred by the government so that the rest of the swine in the United States might become more valuable, are haunting the residents of Hazel Crest—also the people of Harvey and Homewood, and the golfers at the Calumet Country club.

Every vagrant breeze that blows carries to these southern suburbs a reminder of the agricultural adjustment administration. For the bodies of these unwanted pigs—perhaps not all of them but certainly many millions of pounds—have been dumped in the Markham yards of the Illinois Central railroad at 170th street.

Flies Add to the Plague.

The warm sun has shone and the rains have fallen on this mass of flesh, hastening the natural progress of decay and throwing to the breezes a stench which the people of Hazel Crest declare is "indescribably revolting." Scarcely less annoying to the south end of Cook county are the vast swarms of big blue flies which have bred in this dumping ground and spread over a large area.

For more than a week Mayor Eugene L. Conant of Hazel Crest has been protesting about the nuisance.

"I do not seem to have gotten even to first base," he said. "I went to Dr. W. C. Van Wormer, of the state department of health, a resident of Homewood, and told him about the situation, which he could smell himself. First Dr. Van Wormer said it was a local and not a state matter. Later he said he would take it up with the proper people. But this smell is here still, just as it has been for nearly three weeks."

Three Towns Affected.

It was explained that when the wind is from the east, Hazel Crest, the nearest town, bears the full brunt of the bad odors. When it is from the north, Homewood is overwhelmed with the scent, while Harvey suffers when the breeze is from the south. At Hazel Crest it was said there had never been such a plague of flies as in the dumping period.

The removal of the pig carcasses to the vicinity of the southern suburbs is the outgrowth of the hog and corn plan that was outlined by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace for the benefit of the corn belt a month ago, when he was a visitor at the World's Fair.

Under the plan as first announced the government was to purchase 4,000,000 pigs, each weighing 25 to 100 pounds, at 6 to 9½ cents a pound, and 1,000,000 sows at regular market prices plus $4 a head bonus. The cost was estimated at $55,000,000, to be paid by a tax on pork products sold after Oct. 1.

For Fertilizer, Too.

Also the plan commanded that meat from the larger pigs and the sows should be processed and turned over to relief organizations, while as much as possible should be used in making fertilizer. All the bonus pigs and sows were to be kept out of competition, as meat, with hogs bought and killed in the regular commercial channels.

The little pigs went to market in great droves. Some came in weighing only 5 pounds. The big ones and the few sows that the canny farmers would part with yielded a small amount of side meat for relief clients and for a time there was a great making of fertilizer.

Then storage room for fertilizer ran out. Reports came to Chicago from other points—there were eighteen designated receiving cities—that the bonus pigs were being piled up outside packing plants and were becoming a menace to health. The govern-

CRIME FIGHTING JURY CONVICTS HOLDUP SLAYER

Judges Push Drive on Gunmen.

A jury in the Criminal court last evening returned the fifth death verdict won in the prosecution of killers since the war on crime started early in August. The extreme penalty was fixed by the jurors for a colored gunman who committed murder during a holdup.

Before the war on crime began, Criminal court records show, not a single death penalty was imposed in more than 20 months, although many murders were committed during that period. The last time the electric chair was used in Cook county was early in January, 1932.

Other crime drive developments in the Criminal court during the day included the sentencing of a police slayer to death in the chair and the sentencing of six other defendants to prison terms. The judges speeded up the crime campaign, which has lagged recently during a change in court administration.

Holdup Killer Convicted.

The killer whose punishment was fixed at death by a jury yesterday is Joseph Francis, 35 years old. He was found guilty in Judge Donald S. McKinlay's court after a trial that lasted only one day.

Francis admitted on the witness stand that he killed Joseph Hartel, 28 years old, 3425 North Irving avenue, a milk wagon driver, but claimed that the shooting of Hartel was accidental.

Assistant State's Attorney Leslie Curtis proved, however, that Francis held up Hartel on Aug. 2 at 50th street and Forrestville avenue and that Hartel tried to run away. Francis followed him and shot him three times, according to the testimony.

The usual motion for a new trial was made in behalf of Francis by Public Defender Joseph Power. Judge McKinlay said he would hear arguments on the motion Thursday morning.

Death Sentence for Killer.

The police slayer sentenced to death is Ross King, convicted killer of Policeman Harry Redlich. King was sentenced by Judge Harry B. Miller to die in the electric chair on Oct. 16 after Judge Miller overruled his motion for a new trial. He is a paroled convict. His companion in the murder, John Bongiorno, has been sentenced to 199 years in prison.

Public Defender Joseph Power argued that King had shot in self-defense after the policeman fired at him. Policeman Redlich had arrested Bongiorno during a holdup in an office at Madison street and Kedzie avenue. King, who had escaped, returned to aid Bongiorno and shot Redlich in the back.

"How can you account for the fact that the bullet entered the policeman's back?" said Judge Miller in reply to the argument of self defense.

King showed no emotion when the death sentence was read to him. Later he asked that he be supplied with the court records so an appeal can be made to the Illinois Supreme court.

Judges to Fight Delays.

Some defense attorneys indicated by their actions yesterday that they intend to try all the legal technicalities they know to prevent speedy trials. However, Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan and his ten associates of the Criminal court at a conference agreed to see that obstructionist tactics by defense attorneys do not delay cases.

The slayers of Policeman Maurice Marcusson served notice that they would take a change of venue today when their case is called for trial before Judge Miller. It was indicated by the judge, however, that another judge will be ready to start trial of the case immediately.

The defendants are Tony Rocco, Emil Manzone, Richard Basile, Dominick De Nardi and George Chevas. They are charged with slaying the policeman on Jan. 21 when he prevented them from robbing a dress shop in a building at 323 Jackson boulevard.

Judge Rebuffs Defense.

Efforts to get a minor sentence or an indefinite delay in the trial of three youths charged with robbery were rebuffed by Judge Miller in another case. Just as the trial was to start the defense attorneys said they had changed their minds and would not submit to a bench trial, but would demand a jury.

They did not win a long continuance, however, for the judge announced that the change of venue asked by the slayers of Policeman Marcusson would leave him free to

NICHOLSON AND MARION WOMAN TO BE MARRIED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Meredith Nicholson, Indiana author, recently named United States minister to Paraguay, and Mrs. Dorothy Lannon of Marion, Ind., will be married here Wednesday.

The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. U. G. B. Pierce, pastor of the All Souls Unitarian church, in the apartment of Senator Van Nuys [Dem., Ind.]. The Indiana senator is a long time friend and party colleague of Nicholson.

Nicholson and his new bride will leave Sunday for New York and they will sail Sept. 30 for Asuncion, the capital of Paraguay.

Mrs. Lannon has been a friend of Nicholson and his family for many years and has been associated with him in his literary work. She is now engaged in writing a novel, which she plans to finish after their honeymoon trip to South America.

Wets Claim New Mexico, Idaho Today

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 18.—(AP)—With fair weather in prospect for tomorrow's repeal election in Idaho, leaders of the dry cause were encouraged at the prospect of a heavy rural vote.

Robert H. McCracken of Boise, chairman of the allied drys, predicted a vote of more than 100,000 with "well over 50,000 of them" opposing repeal of the eighteenth amendment. New Mexico also votes tomorrow. On Oct. 3 Virginia votes and Florida on Oct. 10; those to ballot on Nov. 7 are North and South Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, and Utah. Thus far an unbroken parade of 29 states is in the repeal column.

William Healy, one of the repeal candidates for delegate to the Idaho ratification convention Oct. 17, predicted a maximum vote of 75,000, of which he estimated 45,000 would be for repeal and 30,000 against.

Idaho Governor Silent.

With Gov. C. Ben Ross silent on the repeal question, except to ask for a decisive vote, Bert Miller, attorney general, issued a statement, declaring it would be "highly disastrous" for Idaho to fail to join the 29 states that have voted for repeal.

"I know of no reason why any one, irrespective of his personal views regarding the question of liquor traffic, should not vote for the ratification of the 21st amendment," he said.

Senator William E. Borah, who arrived home Saturday after convalescing from a surgical operation, declined to comment on the election other than to say the voters were virtually "on the way to the polls" and "the people of the state already know my views."

Two slates of 21 candidates each, one pledged for repeal and the other against, will be voted upon throughout the state.

New Mexico Votes Today.

Albuquerque, N. M., Sept. 18.—(AP)—New Mexico voters will decide tomorrow whether the state shall join the national repeal parade.

Repeal advocates predicted the state would go wet and that the vote would at least equal the two to one majority by which the state went dry at a special election in November, 1917.

Three delegates at large to a state constitutional convention will be elected at the same time the state votes on repeal or retention of its own dry law. The delegates will meet in Santa Fe Oct. 19.

PEORIA BANKER ESCAPES A PLOT TO KIDNAP HIM

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 18.—(AP)—An apparent attempt to kidnap Milton G. Newman, wealthy banker and president of the Peoria park board, in his home tonight was frustrated when his sister-in-law telephoned police and five gunmen fled.

Newman told police he was called to the front door by the ringing of the door bell and was confronted by a young man with hat in hand. As Newman greeted him the man pulled a revolver and pushed the banker back into the house, saying:

"Keep quiet. This is a kidnaping."

As Newman backed into the residence, he said, four other gunmen followed the first man in.

At that moment Mrs. Newman, who had been on the second floor with her sister, Mrs. Rosa Kahn, descended to the first floor, attracted by the bell. As she appeared one of the gunmen turned on her with a command to halt.

"Stay where you are and keep quiet," he told her.

But Mrs. Newman turned and ran to the second floor, calling to Mrs. Kahn to call police. She did, but by the time officers had arrived the men had fled.

Newman, president of the Jefferson Trust and Savings bank and head of the Arcana Bottling company, was at a loss to explain the motive for the attempted kidnaping. He told police he had received no threatening notes and that no previous attempts had been made to abduct him.

ROOSEVELT HAS COLD; STAYS IN HIS BEDROOM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt was confined to the White House proper today with a cold and a slight temperature.

Although his condition was said to be not at all serious, he remained away from his office in the executive mansion and canceled all appointments, except those with Secretary of the Treasury Woodin and Secretary of Commerce Roper, both of whom he received in his bedroom.

Later the President went to his study in the oval room, where, in the presence of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and other NRA officials, he signed the national recovery code for the soft coal industry.

"In the past the criminal element has been slapped," said Judge Miller in refusing to listen to a plea that the three robbery defendants, Anthony Bulgaris, 16 years old; Frank Gudneck, 24, and James Yaculio, 20, be sentenced to a year each in the Bridewell. "From now on we intend to give them a real licking. Robbery is robbery and not some other crime which calls for a Bridewell sentence.

"No Probation for Robbers."

"It is not my idea of real justice to put robbers on probation or give them minor sentences. This case will be tried tomorrow, if not by this court by some other judge. I will not allow it to be continued."

The defendants are charged with robbing James Soupas, 4241 North Sacramento avenue, of $150 on April 8. Soupas was the employer of young Bulgaris.

Attorney William Scott Stewart said he does not want to try any cases in Cook county because of the crime war. He filed change of venue petitions from the county in behalf of John Ryan, alleged Touhy gangster, who is charged with slaying John Rinelli, northwest side roadhouse keeper, and for Isadore Kahn and Sam Katz, who are charged with tax warrant forgeries.

The Day's Prison Sentences.

The six prison sentences imposed yesterday brought the total to 285 since the crime war started. They are:

Henry Coleman, 37 years old, colored, sentenced to 2 years in the penitentiary by Judge Michael Feinberg for the rape of a colored girl.

Wesley Jones, 31 years old, colored sentenced to 1 year to life by Judge Walter J. Steffen for robbery on July 22 of the None Better Ice Cream company, 4123 Cottage Grove avenue.

Steve Tierney, 22 years old, sentenced to 1 to 14 years by Judge Steffen for assault to rob Joseph Rubenstein, 6930 South Halsted street.

Arthur Proudlove, sentenced to 1 to 10 years by Judge Benjamin Epstein for stealing the automobile of Mandell Berger, 4611 North Kedzie avenue.

George Moeller, 18 years old, sentenced to 1 to 10 years by Judge William V. Brothers for stealing a purse from Mrs. Ethel Brausch, 5633 Wayne avenue.

Thomas Incandello, 17 years old, sentenced to 1 to 20 years by Judge Miller for robbery of Sam Weber, 2538 North Sawyer avenue, driver of a cake wagon.

Incandello was a brother of Sam Incandello, minor hoodlum, who was slain on a gangland ride on the northwest side Saturday. The youth was given permission to attend his brother's funeral before he is taken to the penitentiary.

U. S. DROPS DRY LAW AS BASIS OF PROSECUTION

For the first time since the 18th amendment became effective the government yesterday failed to invoke the prohibition law against an alleged keeper of a Chicago still. Instead of prosecuting Rudolph Accetturo, 3424 Walnut street, under the Volstead act, he was held to the grand jury in bond of $2,500 on two charges of violating the old internal revenue act.

The prosecution of Accetturo under the internal revenue act was started by the government in anticipation of repeal, and United States Attorney Green announced yesterday that hereafter such cases will be so prosecuted without recourse to the prohibition law.

Charges against Accetturo were that he was in possession of mash fit for distilling alcohol and that he had operated an unregistered still and had failed to pay the internal revenue tax on it. Conviction on the first charge carries a fine of $500 to $5,000 and a prison sentence of six months to two years. A fine of $100 to $500 and a sentence of one month to two years in prison may be imposed on the second charge. This charge also carries an additional $500 fine that is automatically imposed with conviction.

5 MILWAUKEE GIRL STUDENTS SAVED FROM LAKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—A sailing party of five 17 year old girls came to a sudden end today when a 15 foot dory, sailed by Marguerite Lindemann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Lindemann, 4451 North Farwell avenue, capsized in Milwaukee bay, a mile off Maitland airport.

The occupants of the dory clung to the overturned boat and were sighted by the coast guard lookout. They were rescued by coast guardsmen, who went to their aid in a high speed picket boat and pulled them from the water.

The other members of the sailing party were Katherine Hamilton, daughter of the socially prominent Reginald Hamilton, 2859 North Summit avenue; Margaret Chandler, daughter of F. E. Chandler, 2204 East Belleview place; Betty Hoff and Doris Burghardt.

MOVIE OPERATOR SURRENDERS ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Emmett N. Quinn, dentist and motion picture operator, surrendered at the detective bureau yesterday on a warrant charging him with assault with a deadly weapon on Clyde Osterberg, an operator who has had difficulties with the union. Osterberg said he was beaten in the offices of the moving picture operators' union when he went there to complain to Tom Maloy, business agent, that Quinn was withholding money Osterberg had earned. Maloy, who is facing disruption of his union, told the police Osterberg was a trouble maker. The full story is expected to be told before Judge Joseph H. McGarry, who issued the warrant.

'NEW DEAL' PIGS HAUNT THREE OF SOUTH SUBURBS

ment announced five days ago that the pig killing quota had been raised another 428,000 head.

Plight of the Packers.

It was about three weeks ago that Chicago's packers had to find an outlet for the useless pigs. Those weighing less than 80 pounds were killed and dumped into tanks almost entire.

The packing industry, which had boasted that it saved all the pig but the squeal, retained the squeal and let the hide go with the hair and meat to the dumping grounds. All that has been saved from the lately slaughtered little pigs is a few cents worth of grease per carcass.

Packers said yesterday that they had squeezed the moisture from the carcasses and that the refuse was ordorless, or at least deodorized, when it left their plants. It was added that the Illinois Central railroad had contracted to remove the debris in gondola cars, and to take care of the dumping.

Filler for a Grading Job.

But Mayor Conant of Hazel Crest said that when he inquired of the railroad officials, he was informed that a construction company which has mechanical clams in the yards with which to dig out the deodorized, but quite dead pigs, would have to take care of the covering up of the ill smelling stuff. The construction concern is grading a part of the railroad yard and using this waste as a filler.

The larger packers said yesterday that they had been informed of the complaints and had interested themselves, although they felt they were not responsible. They added they had been assured that in the future slain piglets would be conveyed 200 miles from the city to sparsely populated sections for dumping.

PLAN TO RESTORE 'BLIGHTED AREAS' OF CHICAGO TOLD

Restoration of "blighted areas" within a four mile radius of the loop is contemplated in a survey of depreciated property in Chicago being conducted by the Chicago Plan commission. Eugene S. Taylor, manager of the commission, described the survey yesterday to 500 delegates of the American Institute of Park Executives in convention at the Stevens hotel.

Between Belmont avenue and 63d street and between Kedzie avenue and the lake, Mr. Taylor said, there are many sections which cost more in the maintenance of streets, lights and in police and fire protection than taxes on the property produce in revenue.

By remodeling or replacing buildings and by developing parks and playgrounds, the plan commission believes that much of the land can be taken out of the "blighted" class.

HOODLUMS FIND LOS ANGELES IS NOT HOSPITABLE

Registration and Vag Laws Passed.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Twin innovations, one put into operation by the district attorney's office and county grand jury, and the other an outgrowth of deliberations between the Los Angeles city council and the new police chief, have within a week started a minor exodus of hoodlums, racketeers and men with records from this city.

"As a result of the conspiracy to commit vagrancy John Doe warrants and the new compulsory registration of all ex-felons Los Angeles has become a trouble spot from the criminals' point of view, instead of a beckoning oasis," District Attorney Buron Fitts says.

Both adaptations of existing criminal law were put into effect for the first time last week. A list of known hoodlums, some natives of this city, others from San Francisco, Detroit, New York, Chicago and Texas, was made.

Issue Vagrancy Warrants.

The list of "public enemies" was then turned over to the sheriff's office and city police, together with some fifty unsigned John Doe warrants, each ready to be served upon one of the "public enemies" when located, and accusing the man upon whom it was served of "conspiracy to become a vagrant."

"We have court rulings in our favor in cases of this kind," Blayney Mathews, chief criminal investigator at the district attorney's office said. "All the arresting officers have to do is fill in the proper name in the warrant and bring the man in.

"The grand jury and a conference of judges agreed that men with records, who should be brought in under these warrants, should be held for trial on $50,000 bail. No bonding company will want to bail them out, because the offense charged is merely a misdemeanor; and if the man, after his arrest and being bailed out, chose to skip the state he cannot be extradited and the bonding company will lose its $50,000. We are seeing to it that the bonds of $50,000 which are put up are really $50,000 that can be converted."

Mathews said that habeas corpus writs will not work to free men arrested on these charges.

Chicago Man Arrested.

First efforts to declare invalid the blanket indictments charging a conspiracy to commit vagrancy failed today when Superior Judge Charles Fricke overruled demurrers to the true bill, denied a motion to quash the warrants and denied a motion attacking the legality of the grounds on which they were issued.

The fight against the validity of the grand jury action and the subsequent arrests by officers on the bench warrants came at the arraignment of Louis Schaefer, asserted Chicago racketeer, charged with conspiracy to commit vagrancy. Schaefer is held in jail in lieu of $50,000 bail.

At the conclusion of his hearing Judge Fricke held that the indictments are proper and legal and overruled the contentions of Attorney William J. Clark for the defendant.

When Schaefer was arraigned he refused to enter a plea, Clark contending that his client would not admit through such pleading that he was such a person as named in the indictment.

Clark said: "I will advise my clients to resist arrest under these warrants by force. I will not consider myself responsible for any bloodshed."

On this action Judge Fricke instructed the clerk to "let the record show that the defendant remains mute and the court therefore enters a plea of not guilty to the indictment."

Trial of Schaefer was set for Oct. 24.

While the arguments were under way Joseph [Red] O'Riordan, asserted kidnaper and extortionist, who is wanted in Detroit on numerous charges, was brought into the courtroom. He was waiting an opportunity to enter a plea to vagrancy charges placed against him following his arrest last Friday.

When called before the court O'Riordan asserted he had been held incommunicado and had no opportunity to secure counsel, and his request for delay to consult a lawyer was granted by Judge Fricke with time for plea set for Thursday.

Three other asserted hoodlums are awaiting hearings similar to Schaefer's.

Registration of Felons.

The second harrassing maneuver, based upon a new city ordinance demanding registration and fingerprinting of all ex-penitentiary inmates, has already been applied in one case, and recognized by the court. The man arrested was Roosevelt Green, Negro, who served two terms in Texas prisons. Green was given a ninety day sentence in Municipal court. One hundred others have complied with the law, hunting up police, registering their names, addresses, and fingerprints.

Officers state they have received opinions from city and county legal staffs which indicate both legal manuevers can have their constitutionality defended in court if attacked by counsel.

"The wholesale registration will provide police with an invaluable check rein on local crime," Police Chief James Davis said.

CRIME WAR TAKES ALL COURTROOMS; 'VAG' DRIVE SLOWED

The drive against Chicago hoodlums under the new vagrancy law received a temporary setback yesterday when it was discovered that the courtroom set aside in the Criminal court building as a vagabond court, had been appropiated by judges of the Criminal court for use in their crime war.

The discovery was made when John [West Side Jack] Barry, saloonkeeper and hoodlum, and James Michelli, alleged racketeer, asked changes of venue when they appeared before Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green in Felony court on vagrancy charges. Judge Green continued the motions until Monday, announced that all similar motions would be set over until that time, and said he would consult Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court on plans for the immediate trial of future vagrancy cases in which venue changes or jury trials are sought.

The delay in the vagrancy drive followed the unsuccessful prosecution of two police characters last week. Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, beer racketeer and ex-convict, and James Adducci, alleged lieutenant of Dago Lawrence Mangano, were freed by juries in the municipal court.

TAVERN WAITER CHANGES STORY IN SLAYING QUIZ

New Testimony Tends to Clear Name of Victim.

Changed testimony at an inquest yesterday on the slaying of James L. Gallagher, 7746 Indiana avenue, who was shot on Aug. 14 by Detective Louis Natzke, tended to remove the stigma from Gallagher's name.

Detective Thomas Featherstone said that Miss Madeline Duffy, 1141 West 63d street, a witness of the shooting, which occurred in O'Toole's tavern, 362 East 63d street, was too ill to appear yesterday. Permission was given to have her statement read into the record.

Miss Duffy's statement, taken at the detective bureau the night of the shooting, declared she was an entertainer in the tavern. That night, the statement read, two men entered the place with handkerchiefs over their faces and said: "This is a stickup and no joke." Then, the statement declared, Detective Natzke, who had been drinking at the bar, shot one of the robbers.

Waiter in Tavern Testifies.

Tim Murphy, 1141 West 63d street, a waiter in the tavern, testified yesterday that Gallagher and a man named Thomas Leahy, 5834 Throop street, were in the saloon for at least ten minutes before Gallagher was shot. He said Detective Natzke was there for at least the same time.

Murphy testified that he was acquainted with Gallagher as a customer who came in frequently. He said he didn't see any handkerchief on anybody's face and he didn't hear any one say: "This is a stickup and no joke."

"Did you make a statement at the detective bureau that you didn't know either of the robbers and that they came in with handkerchiefs on their faces?" Detective Featherstone asked Murphy.

"I guess I did," Murphy said.

Changes His Testimony.

"I'm telling the truth now," Murphy said.

"Did you talk to Miss Duffy after the shooting and if so what did she say about it?" Murphy was asked. "Did she say it was a holdup?"

"No, she didn't," Murphy replied. "I thought it was a joke."

Detective Featherstone said that Leahy was charged with robbery and was released on bail two weeks ago. His case is to come up today in the Felony court, Featherstone said.

Gallagher was 28 years old. He was the only son of a widowed mother who has made an appeal that the stigma of robber be removed from his name. Gallagher was employed as a hoisting engineer by the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company, had no police record, and bore a good reputation, his friends declared. The inquest was continued until Sept. 27.

START PICKING JURY IN STEVENS TRIAL MONDAY

Ernest Stevens Lone Defendant.

Selection of a jury to try Ernest J. Stevens, former official of the Illinois Life Insurance company, on a charge of embezzlement will be started next Monday morning. Judge Michael Feinberg of the Criminal court yesterday ordered attorneys to be ready at that time and announced that he would have a special venire of 100 men in the court room.

The original indictment in the case charged Ernest Stevens, his father, James W. Stevens, and his brother, Raymond, with embezzlement of $1,000,000 of the insurance company assets. Raymond committed suicide in his Highland Park home while the case was pending and the elder Stevens became seriously ill.

Lone Defendant in Case Now.

Ernest Stevens was left as the lone defendant in the case yesterday when Judge Feinberg granted the state a severance in the case of James W. Stevens. The action was taken after Dr. William T. Harsha, the Stevens family physician, told the court that the elder Stevens might "never be able to come to court."

"Mr. Stevens suffered a coma last March as the result of family and other troubles and because of his advanced age," Dr. Harsha said. "He is senile and on the ragged edge. I hesitate to say that he will ever recover."

Asked for a definite statement as to when Mr. Stevens might be able to appear, Dr. Harsha told Judge Feinberg: "All I can say is that he may never come to court."

"How is his mind?" the doctor was asked.

"Not so good," Dr. Harsha replied.

Assistant State's Attorney Earle C. Hurley then requested the severance and the request was granted by the judge, who refused to hear arguments by the defense attacking the bill of particulars already ruled on by Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan.

Federal Judge Sets Hearing.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday set Sept. 26 for hearing on objections to the report of Master in Chancery Jacob I. Grossman holding that the immediate value of the assets of the Illinois Life Insurance company is $4,240,000. Attorney Harry W. Price, counsel for a number of agents of the company, held that the valuation is too low.

Judge Wilkerson also authorized Gen. Abel Davis, receiver for the company, to pay $275,000 in death claims. It was pointed out that this would enable the Illinois Life to collect $113,000 from the other insurance companies with which policies have been placed.

Giggling Gun Girls Rob Oil Station Attendant

Two giggling girl robbers, a blonde and a brunette, took $7.43 from George Randolph, 2521 Milwaukee avenue, a gasoline station attendant, early yesterday morning. Randolph had just alighted from a Kedzie avenue street car and was walking to the station at Bryn Mawr and Kimball avenues when the two women drove up, drew revolvers, and demanded his money.

CUBAN FACTIONS AGREE ON TRUCE WITH PRESIDENT

Havana Rotary Club Acts as Mediator.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 18.—While President Grau San Martin prepared to move into his residence at the presidential palace, his régime having lasted eight days already, an announcement was made this evening that he will be given temporary support by rival revolutionary groups until some proposal for a harmonized provisional government is reached.

Various groups which sat in conference with Grau San Martin at intervals since Friday voted to stop the conversations and put their proposals in writing.

Still Demand Grau Resign.

How long the truce will last is a question. In their written proposals tonight, the retirement of Grau on the ground that his government is in no condition for real economic and political action is the position of the ABC, the Nationalist union, the Menocalistas and the right wing of the OCRR. The radical students' directorate, which is the chief support of Grau, insists he is indispensable.

Miguel Mariano Gomez, head of the Marianistas, as spokesman for other groups which have been urging the resignation of Grau, said that further meetings were called off as they might produce too much friction and that each group had agreed to put down its proposal in black and white.

These proposals were handed to the Rotary club, serving as mediator, and were then delivered to Grau. He will study them with his cabinet in an effort to develop a solution.

"In the meantime the present government will continue in power with the temporary support of all factions," Gomez said.

At the conferences of recent days were former President Mario G. Menocal, leader of the Conservative party; Col. Carlos Mendieta, head of the Nationalist union; Gomez; Martinez Saenz of the ABC, Grau, and others.

As these meetings were so productive of talk in the Cuban style, which utilizes not only the vocal organs but the hands, arms, and shoulders in violent gesticulation, no matter how friendly the talkers, the participants decided to condense and specify in writing.

This evening Grau said:

"The storm seems to be over. I am going to move into the palace."

In an earlier interview with the foreign press the president declared:

"The person who occupies the government is unimportant: fulfillment of the revolutionary program is the principal thing.

"All nonpolitical sectors are collaborating with the government in an effort to bring about a harmonious solution, the prospects for which are bright.

"The Menocalistas, the Mendietistas and the ABC are studying various proposals and will present their solution this afternoon, at which time I am most sure that an agreement will be reached."

Says Welles Clears the Air.

Discussing his interview with United States Ambassador Sumner Welles, Dr. Grau said the talk was "most cordial" and had resulted in reaffirmation of the "good feeling between the two nations and their peoples." He declared he recognized Mr. Welles' "high motives toward Cuba."

Grau said the purpose of his government is "to lead the country nonpolitically until the constitutional assembly has been held, after which all political tendencies can express themselves."

This task, he said, he believed could be carried out in less than a year—possibly in six months.

"The labor problem and the problem of hunger will be resolved with the help of the government and the army," he added. "The problem of strikes is bettering momentarily. Our economic difficulties will be less pressing immediately after political stability returns."

Revolt Rumors Fly.

The usual daily avalanche of rumors descended upon Havana today that a counter-revolt is still operating regardless of any armistices by group leaders and that tomorrow or the next day or the day after that will bring another upset.

Indicative of the crop of rumors was one that American marines are going to land tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. This turned out to be based on the yarn of a cigar peddler who paddled out to the American destroyers in the harbor last night and came back saying that the sailors had told him they hoped to get shore leave Tuesday.

Word from Santiago, at the other end of the island, is that Americans have begun to leave the city, fearing an attack by mobs if the marines should disembark. The Americans are moving to the United States naval base at Guantanamo. Fifty families started for there today.

Workers Seize Mill.

A critical situation is reported in other parts of Oriente province. At Manzanillo a general strike has been declared. Sugar laborers have militarized themselves and taken over the mill at Tacajo. No one is allowed to enter or leave the mill.

It is generally believed that the officials have been made prisoners at their homes or in the mill. The strikers have organized the "army of clubs," an organization somewhat similar to the porra during the Machado régime, to beat up persons trying to break the strike or release the officials. The communist party, through its delegates and supported by striking sugar laborers, have taken over the Mabay mill and established a soviet. Soldiers on duty there have accepted the dictates of the communists.

Communists and striking laborers are reported to have ordered a boycott against American goods and are pressing down on the citizens as part of a campaign against American intervention.

Anti-American feeling is reported getting more intense in Oriente, which is 80 per cent black. Agitators are shouting against the visit of American warships to Cuban waters as "Yankee imperialism."

FORMER KING ALFONSO.

PRESIDENT OF CUBA SHORTENS NAME TO AID HEADLINE WRITERS

HAVANA, Sept. 18.—(AP)—President Ramon Grau San Martin sees no reason why American newspaper headline writers shouldn't abbreviate his lengthy Spanish name.

He's quite willing to have them use merely "Grau." In fact, he signs almost everything "Ramon Grau," as that's quicker and easier than writing out the full name.

"Here we usually employ both our father's and mother's surnames," the president said today. "My father's name was Grau and my mother's San Martin, so that my full name would be Ramon Grau y San Martin. However, I do not write in the 'y'."

Cab Driver Shot as He Resists Negro Bandits

Harry Bacon, 28 years old, 340 West 64th street, a Yellow Cab driver, was shot and probably fatally wounded early today when he resisted two Negro bandits who tried to hold him up in front of 546 East 46th street. Bacon was taken to the Provident hospital with a bullet in his chest. He said he had been hired by the Negroes to take them to the 46th street address. When they reached there they demanded his money and when he resisted one of them shot him.

SENATOR FROM FLORIDA IS HURT AS AUTOS CRASH

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida was slightly injured today in a collision between his automobile and a delivery truck in the downtown section. The elderly senator, chairman of the senate banking committee, was slightly cut on the forehead and hands and received some body bruises.

Former Kansas Leader Killed.

Dayton, O., Sept. 18.—(AP)—James H. Stewart, 79, of Wichita, Kas., identified from papers in his pocket as a former member of the Republican national committee, was killed today when his automobile overturned on a curve near Vandalia, O.; his wife is in a critical condition in Miami Valley hospital here. A hitch hiker riding with them escaped with minor hurts.

Work on Unfinished Bahai Temple Resumed

Workmen were engaged yesterday in placing on the dome of the Bahai temple in Wilmette giant slabs of a special concrete, weighing from one to two tons. Additional funds, the lack of which forced a halt in the work on the temple, have made it possible to complete the dome. Later, similar artificial stonework will be placed in the walls of the building. The concrete is of cement mixed with white quartz.

Royal Family Silent

FONTAINEBLEAU, France, Sept. 18.—(AP)—A reconciliation between former King Alfonso of Spain and his eldest son, who for love renounced his claim to the throne, is believed imminent.

"The royal family asks nothing but silence in this matter," the Marquis de Torres, spokesman for Alfonso, said today. "Comments could only hinder the negotiations."

The count of Covadonga, who renounced his title of prince of the Asturias to marry the former Edelmira Sampedro, a Cuban commoner, is remaining in Paris with his bride. He is hopefully awaiting his father's invitations to come to Fontainebleau with his wife and be officially welcomed back to court.

Alfonso and his son had a secret meeting Saturday in a Paris hotel. What happened at the interview was not divulged, but at its conclusion father and son seemed deeply affected.

Treat Sleeping Sickness Victim with Fever Machine

An electrical machine for producing artificial fever was installed yesterday in the home of Miss Patricia Maguire, 28 years old, 523 Clarence avenue, Oak Park, who has been in a coma as a result of sleeping sickness for more than a year. Her physician, Dr. Eugene Traut, will use the machine in an attempt to restore her to consciousness.

JUDGE SEES AUTO CRASH AND JAILS DRIVER FOR YEAR

Drunken Autoist and Four Friends Also Fined.

Judge Eugene Holland, who presides in the Traffic court, stopped his automobile last Sunday at 31st and State streets to wait for a traffic light change before making a left turn. A second car, in which five men were riding, crashed into a car parked in front of the judge.

Gustave Trojanowski, 50 years old, a passenger in the parked car, suffered a fracture of the skull and possible internal injuries. The automobile which caused the accident sped away, but was overhauled by a police squad and the five occupants arrested.

Harold Kinnish, 26 years old, 5311 Dorchester avenue, the driver, who fled, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Holland on charges of driving while intoxicated and reckless driving. Kinnish was given the maximum punishment on both charges; six months in jail and a $1,000 fine on the charge of driving while intoxicated, and one year in jail and a fine of $1,000 on the reckless driving charge.

Must Pay Fines in Full.

The jail sentences were made to run concurrently, but Judge Holland ordered Kinnish to pay the full $2,000 in fines. Each of Kinnish's companions was fined $200 and costs on disorderly conduct charges and they were taken to the county jail to serve out the fines on their inability to pay.

They are Rudolph Hazelbauer, 28 years old, 341 West 42d place; Joseph McIntyre, 23 years old, 1532 119th street, Whiting; John McIntyre, 21 years old, 314 West 42d place, a cousin of Joseph, and William Sheely, 21 years old, 219 Root street.

John B. Lanahm, 29 years old, a salesman from Jacksonville, Fla., was sentenced to serve six months and 10 days in the House of Correction and fined $125 on charges of larceny, driving while intoxicated, and operating an automobile without the owner's consent.

Takes His Host's Car.

Judge Holland was told that Lanahm left the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kramer, 7620 Sheridan road, where he had been a guest for a week, on Thursday night after taking his host's automobile and Mrs. Kramer's purse containing $22.

Lanahm was arrested Saturday after the automobile had crashed into a car driven by Christ Buckberg, 7752 South Ashland avenue, at 78th street and Ashland avenue. Lanahm said that he had been drinking.

17 YEAR OLD GIRL MAY BE CUBA'S "FIRST LADY"

HAVANA, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Señorita Leopoldina Grau, 17 years old, may be Cuba's "first lady." A niece of President Ramon Grau San Martin, who is a bachelor, she probably will be his official hostess, the executive said today.

"She's very young," he commented, smiling, "but she likes social affairs and should get along all right."

KILLED AS AUTO DRIVEN BY TIPSY GIRL CRASHES

Policeman Injured in Collision Dies.

Benjamin Budda, 23 years old, 7711 Summerdale avenue, was fatally injured yesterday when the automobile in which he was riding ran off the road and overturned on Milwaukee avenue one mile south of Lake Villa. The driver of the car, Miss Mary Franzen, 23 years old, 7659 Summerdale avenue, told the police that the six occupants of the car had been drinking for several hours in Lake Villa and that she was so intoxicated she was unable to see the road.

The accident occurred, she said, when Budda jerked the wheel in order to avoid a collision with an automobile driven by James Simpson, a Negro, of Twin Lakes, Wis. Budda was dead when he was taken to Condell Memorial hospital in Libertyville.

Others in the Car.

The others in the car were Miss Fern Mae Hutz, 22 years old, 7659 Summerdale avenue; Miss Laurel Boston, 30 years old, 77th and Catalpa avenue; Leonard Snyder, 25 years old, 7656 Summerdale avenue, and Edward Block, 25 years old, 76th avenue and Higgins road. The women were taken to an emergency hospital at Lake Villa suffering with bruises and lacerations. The men were held 12 hours in the Lake county jail at Waukegan, but were released without charges against them after a verdict of accidental death in the case of Budda had been returned by a coroner's jury.

Deputy Sheriff Albert Maier testified at the inquest, held in Libertyville, that Miss Franzen told him shortly after the accident that she was so far under the influence of liquor she was unable to see where she was driving. Coroner John L. Taylor said she told him at the hospital that the party had been drinking in a tavern for about two and a half hours before the accident on their way home.

Girl Killed; Aviator Hurt.

Miss Agnes Kroes, 28 years old, of 1034 North Mansfield avenue, a telephone operator, was fatally injured, and John Casey, 38 years old, 507 North 6th avenue, Maywood, an aviator and superintendent of the Chicago Airport, was severely hurt last night when an automobile driven by Casey crashed into the rear of a chicken truck at Cicero avenue and 116th street, Aslip. Both were taken to the Oak Forest infirmary, where Miss Kroes died early today. It was said Casey, who is married and the father of three children, probably would recover.

Five occupants of the truck were slightly injured. They were John Dziedzic, 3039 Throop street, his wife, and two children, and Tony Schipione, 3055 South Bonfield avenue.

Motorcycle Policeman Arthur Wing, 49 years old, 4258 North Mansfield avenue, died at the Belmont hospital last evening of injuries suffered several hours earlier when his motorcycle collided with an automobile at Elston and Francisco avenues. The driver of the car was Thomas Hannagan, 5017 South May street, a deputy clerk of the Municipal court.

The deaths of Wing, Miss Kroes and one other raised the 1933 Cook county motor toll to 736. The other victim:

Edward J. Gallagher Jr., 24 years old, 7114 Eggleston avenue. Killed early today when he lost control of his car and it crashed into an automobile parked on Stony Island avenue near 81st street.

Motorcycle Policeman Melvin Johnson, 34 years old, 12345 Perry avenue, was injured, probably fatally, yesterday when an automobile driven by an unidentified Negro youth struck his motorcycle.

THE NEWSPAPER GUARDS LIBERTY: COL. McCORMICK

Traces Its Growth with That of Nation.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, today described the growth of the American newspaper and the development of its twin functions, the sale of the world's goods and the protection of liberty as guaranteed by the constitution, before the fifth annual Boston conference on retail distribution.

"When an American born in a western state has occasion to travel in the east," Col. McCormick said, "it is his inestimable privilege to travel in the footsteps of his ancestors and live over in their lives the priceless history of our heritage.

"Whenever I visit Boston my mind harkens back to those ancestors who came in the army of George Washington that drove the British from this city. I wonder if they ever met or even saw each other before the one followed Arnold to Quebec, and by what road I do not know, to end his career at Guilford Courthouse; the other to follow Washington for a last visit to his native Long Island and Valley Forge, and finally end his days in Ohio, minus the leg he lost at Stony Point.

Cradle of Revolution.

"For here in Boston started the American revolution, the second of history's three outstanding events; the first, the voyage of the great discoverer, which opened up to the persecuted peoples of Europe an escape from oppression and from prejudice worse than oppression.

"During the three short centuries which separated the first from the second event, the lot of mankind advanced on this side of the ocean more than it had advanced in Europe in all the years of recorded history. Men learned to aspire, to be free, and, from being property, to own property.

"The vast improvement of their lot is shown by the fact that the English king was able to rent subjects from a German prince, to shoot down his own subjects or themselves to be shot down in the attempt; the king being unable to find a sufficient number of subjects of his own for this purpose because they were escaping overseas to become Americans.

"The revolution was soon followed by the third great event of history: the adoption of constitutions by the several states and by the United States to maintain for manhood the freedom which they had secured by escape and by successful war.

"During the following century the lot of mankind again improved as much as it had in all previous times. Transportation, which before was furnished more by the legs of man than by those of animals under saddle or in the shafts, was succeeded by organized railroads. The hazardous ventures of puny sailboats were followed by organized and efficient steamship lines. The drudgery of human industry was beginning to yield to the factory system. Slave labor had given place to the paid workman.

Newspapers Start Growth.

"Newspapers, free by revolutionary arms, were opening up to the multitude the information which hitherto had been a priceless privilege of the few. Trade and industry, largely centered in New England, was producing many kinds of things theretofore unknown, and was finding in the newspaper then as later the best means of announcing them to a community ignorant of their value and therefore indifferent to their purchase. And yet the achievements of that century were but an indication of what was to come.

"Steam was in its infancy; electricity in embryo. It is proper to accentuate again that all of this development was made possible, first, by the escape from Europe, and, second, by the war of independence from European feudalism, and that whatever advance occurred in the stubborn old world was merely an infraction from the new, and that at the end of this period there had appeared upon the scene the leaders of two great schools of reaction, of not dissimilar names—Otto Bismarck and Karl Marx.

"In the years since they ruled and wrote, our civilization has again taken a stride equal to all that has gone before. Whereas the list of wares open to purchasers in the days of Bunker Hill could be carried on the back of a man, easily memorized and cried, as he walked down the road, he would have needed a wagon at the time that specie payments were resumed and today, a train, while the names could not be repeated in twenty-four hours by the fastest of peddlers.

Freedom of Press Preserved.

"Fortunately the enterprise of a free press has kept up with a free industry. Hence, the topic you have chosen for my address today, 'The Growing Importance of the Newspaper to Distribution.'

"In the day of Bunker Hill there were few newspapers, and not many people could read them. Today newspapers are numbered in the thousands; their circulation far up in the millions. Everybody reads them.

"In the old days, with few things to offer, the simplest announcement in type sufficed. Today with a swarm of offerings, the newspaper has expanded its usefulness. Drawn illustrations were added to type long ago, and to them photographic reproduction by the aid of half tones. Ben Day offset, rotogravure and printing in color, first in special sections in Sunday papers, now in all sections seven days a week.

"In the fourth period of mankind the newspaper has progressed, like transportation, from hand power, through horse power, and steam power, to electricity. In the last fifteen years the improvement in newsprint paper itself has doubled the attractiveness of newspapers and the selling power of their advertisements, although I regret to say the quality in this country still drags behind the achievements of the English paper makers.

Stimulates New Demands.

"In a day when the demands of man appear to be supplied to the point of surfeit, a newspaper is a ready stimulus to a new demand.

"The newspaper can put the offerings of the producers before the consumers in every way, shape, and color. By skillful and consistent advertising the individual producer can solve his problem, and the composite producer solve the queer psychology called the depression.

"The newspapers are a powerful force with which to combat the reaction in Europe which led to the unbalancing of our economic balance here. Realizing this, Mussolini, Hitler, and especially Stalin, have clamped down a severe censorship, but so elastic and virile a thing is a newspaper that censorship never succeeds. It merely whets the public appetite for such information as the learned editor steers past the vengeful and inevitably stupid censor.

Bulwark of Liberty.

"The newspaper remains in our own land under our constitution the bulwark against the conspiracy of foreign agents to reintroduce among us the tyranny from which our earliest forebears escaped and later ones revolted. For it appears that reaction, in ascendance in the old world, seeks to reimpose the fetters thrown off by our ancestors in the war of independence. We cannot afford to stop at their grim determination. We cannot forget that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.

"Our newspapers will not forget that the special protection afforded them in our constitution imposes upon them a corresponding duty to protect those occupations not so safeguarded. For experience has shown that the press alone has been able to impose that check upon the excesses of government which no constitution alone has been able to provide."

New York Primary Today to Test Tammany Hall Rifts

New York, Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Beset from within, Tammany goes to the polls tomorrow expecting to put over its primary candidate for mayor, John P. O'Brien, in the usual manner.

There were indications tonight, however, that even if John F. Curry and his cohorts do succeed in nominating O'Brien, it will be with such a reduced majority that his election over the fusionists in the fall will be in doubt.

Congressman Loring M. Black Jr. of Brooklyn, who is running independently for the Democratic mayoralty nomination and has been making bitter attacks, both on Leader Curry and John H. McCooey, the Brooklyn boss, claims that he will actually defeat Mayor O'Brien. Likewise Frank J. Prial, deputy city controller, contends that he will win over John N. Harman, the Tammany candidate.

The fusion forces are supporting Fiorello La Guardia, who will be nominated without opposition on the Republican ticket. He has the backing of Samuel Seabury, counsel of the Hoffstadter committee, whose inquiry preceded the removal of Jimmy Walker as mayor.

All Safe, Curry Says.

On the other hand, Mr. Curry insisted that his reports satisfied him that the Black-Prial claims were absurd, and that O'Brien and Harman will roll up the usual Tammany pluralities.

There have been persistent "inside" rumors that unless O'Brien gets a great plurality Tammany will withdraw him and nominate either Grover Whalen, former police commissioner and now NRA chief in New York, or Joseph V. McKee, who resigned as president of the board of aldermen to become head of the Title Guarantee and Trust company. Curry, however, has denounced this report and Mayor O'Brien was angry today when reporters asked him again concerning the rumor.

"I'm tired of answering that question," the mayor said. "I don't want to say what I think of a city editor who will publish such a thing as 'inside information.'"

This city is on the brink of bankruptcy. Only a few weeks ago it was saved by the state treasurer, who advanced $5,000,000 so this city could meet interest payments on short term bonds and avoid default. Now the bankers are pressing for pay roll cuts and economies, on pain of withholding $72,000,000 loans which the city will need a few months hence.

Fail to Satisfy Bankers.

Gov. Herbert Lehman, some months ago, held a special session of the legislature to enact legislation authorizing the city to adopt new taxing measures. These measures—calculated to raise about $25,000,000—have not satisfied the bankers. They are demanding not only new revenue to bolster up the city's funds, but reduced operating expenses. The governor has been called into the breach again and will come from Albany tomorrow to consult regarding further steps that may be taken to relieve the city and pacify the bankers.

The most important Republican contest is that for control of the New York county Republican committee, which will elect a successor to Samuel S. Koenig, who has been chairman for 22 years. Mr. Koenig, who is a candidate for reëlection, claimed the election of more than two thousand of the 2,964 county committee members. A similar claim was made by Chase Mellen Jr., candidate of the anti-Koenig faction for county chairman.

N. Y. CANAL WILL GET 27 MILLION FROM U. S. FUND

Precedent for Purchase of Chicago Seaway.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt has given a promise to his home state of New York that he will see about the setting aside of $27,500,000 of the public works easy money for improvements to the state owned Erie barge canal.

This project is being cited by some advocates of the Chicago sanitary district as establishing a precedent under which the President and his public works administrator, Secretary Ickes, can hardly turn down a plea of Chicagoans for the government to purchase the drainage canal.

One member of the sanitary district board, Howard Elmore, has proposed that the federal government buy the canal. It was built for carrying off sewage, but it is now the major link in the lakes to the gulf waterway.

Original Purpose Destroyed.

The United States Supreme court has decreed that within a few years Chicago must build sewage disposal plants so that the diversion of Lake Michigan water through the drainage canal can be reduced to a point necessary for navigation. Thus the canal soon will become strictly a channel of navigation, and no longer of any value for sanitary purposes.

The sanitary district is without funds to build the disposal plants, however, and the Elmore plan is brought forward to provide the money through the government purchase.

The plan has not been brought formally to Washington, and consequently Secretary Ickes has not made a definite decision on the proposal. But he has let it be known that he opposes the plan, chiefly, it is reported, because he is not satisfied to allow the present sanitary district board to have the spending of the large sums involved.

N. Y. Canal State Project.

In New York state Gov. Lehman has proposed that the federal government give outright to the state $27,500,000 to be spent by the state and by New York state contractors in making improvements, deepening the channels and raising bridges on the Erie barge canal between Oswego on Lake Ontario, and Waterford on the Hudson river.

A bill giving the federal government the "privilege" of donating the $27,500,000 to the state was introduced in the last session of the New York legislature, but because the project did not carry the deepening of the canal to upstate, and possibly due also to some railroad lobbying, it was opposed and permitted to die in the house after passage in the senate.

Gov. Lehman, expressing his deep chagrin over the failure of the bill, is continuing his efforts in its behalf, and will push the bill again at the regular January session of the assembly.

Tells of President's Support.

Gov. Lehman on Sept. 5 announced that he had taken up with President Roosevelt the question of the grant for the New York barge canal, and that the President had given the governor assurances that he would see if action could be taken to reserve a sufficient portion of the federal public works fund for a later grant to New York state, should application be made in January.

"All I can say" said Gov. Lehman, "is that the President will look into it and see if some money can be reserved until after the state takes action."

From this it is assumed that the President would have seen to it that the money was provided if the legislature had acted, and that he will see to it that it is put aside in case the legislature acts in the future.

The New York state engineers, promoting the case for the canal, said:

"Inasmuch as it will be shown that the canal is an important interstate route, the federal government should assist the state financially in making the limited improvements now recommended."

Chiefly of Local Value.

The Erie barge canal is chiefly a New York state carrier. The Illinois waterway, which is already under control of the federal government, would actually serve the entire great lakes region. Yet, while funds are offered the state of New York for improving the New York canal, the government will not grant Illinois' plea for the purchase of the sanitary canal. The federal government sought to take over the Erie canal two years ago, but the state legislature declined to pass it over.

A direct precedent under which the government could buy the Illinois canal is provided in the purchase by the United States government in 1925 of the Cape Cod canal, for 17 million dollars, from the Cape Cod and New York Canal company, a private corporation.

Secretary Ickes has sent financial and legal experts to Chicago to investigate the possibility of the government taking over the functions of the sanitary district, building the sewage plants itself, and operating them until the moneys spent by the government are returned either through existing or additional taxation.

800 CANADIANS IN RELIEF CAMP STRIKE FOR HIGHER WAGES

LONG BRANCH, Ont., Sept. 18.—(AP)—With 23 mounted and provincial police on the grounds and 40 constables ready in Toronto for an emergency call, 800 workers in the federal relief camp here retired hungry tonight, adamant in their refusal to work any longer for 20 cents a day and keep.

The strikers refused an ultimatum issued by Gen. F. C. Ashton, commander of the military district, that they return to work or else leave the camp. The camp superintendents announced that the men would stay overnight at least.

Gen. Ashton told the strikers' representatives it was impossible for the authorities at Ottawa to met their demands, which include wages of 35 cents an hour for an eight hour day for unskilled laborers, union rates of pay for skilled workmen employed in their own trades and inclusion under the provisions of the workmen's compensation act.

No meals were issued to the men following breakfast. A few boos and hisses greeted the arrival of the police, but the strike leaders had no difficulty in keeping order.

3 BOYS RESCUE CRIPPLED PILOT OF LOST PLANE

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Three boys playing in a swamp near Leoni, north of here, this afternoon found Harold Neff, 25, air mail pilot who disappeared while flying a mail plane between Chicago and Cleveland early Saturday morning. Neff was brought to a hospital here, where an examination showed he has a broken arm, a broken leg, and is suffering from exposure.

Neff told hospital attaches that he got off his course while flying from Toledo, O., to Cleveland. He was above a thick layer of fog, flying on the radio beacon, when he strayed far north of the beacon, then turned west in an attempt to get clear of the lake, over which he knew he had strayed. When he tried to land he released a parachute flare. The landing was made in a swamp and the plane crashed, injuring him. He tried to crawl to a farm house nearby, but could not make it, so returned to his plane and wrapped himself in his parachute.

The 400 pounds of mail Neff carried in the single place plane he flew was not injured. Neff was to have flown a passenger transport plane on a regular United Air Lines schedule, but the trip was canceled because of the weather.

EX-MAGISTRATE OF OAK PARK IS SUED BY OFFICIAL

A suit for $20,000 was filed in the Circuit court yesterday by Henry W. Austin, treasurer of the village of Oak Park, against James M. Feron, formerly a police magistrate in the suburb.

Frederick W. Pringle, attorney for the village, said that it was hoped, through the action, to collect money with which to cover an alleged shortage in Feron's accounts as a magistrate.

In March, 1931, Feron pleaded guilty in the Criminal court to a charge of petit larceny. It was said at that time he had agreed to pay the money, and he was put on probation.

ROOSEVELT SIGNS SOFT COAL CODE; ISSUED AS ORDER

Hailed as Greatest NRA Achievement.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt signed the bituminous coal code late this afternoon, promulgating it as an executive order which puts the code into effect in two weeks.

The President thereby set up machinery for federal supervision of the soft coal industry which may be a prelude to governmental control if the industry does not rise to the opportunity for self government provided in the code.

In his executive order the President eliminated from the code the interpretation of the labor clause (section 7 (a)) of the recovery act, which has been written in as paragraph B of the coal code. Such interpretations "led to confusion and misunderstanding," the President said.

Victory for Green and Lewis.

This exclusion, the President asserted, did not indicate disapproval of the statement on the labor clause attached by Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, and Donald Richberg, general counsel, as schedule B. But the statement was not allowed to be part of the code.

The interpretative labor paragraph, now eliminated, was attacked on Saturday by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers. Last Friday the President had refused to accept the interpretation of the collective bargaining section of the recovery act agreed to jointly by the labor advisory board and the industrial advisory board of the NRA.

Upon making the executive order public this evening, Gen. Johnson declared that the approval of the code was "the greatest achievement of this recovery administration."

More Federal Control.

Possibility of greater federal supervision of the soft coal industry than it has ever before been subjected to appears in the section of the President's order which provides that coal producers shall furnish the government with all statistical information it may require. Hitherto statistical information has been furnished by the various industries under codes only to the code authority. Now any governmental agency designated by the President may require such information from the soft coal industry.

This is regarded as of the utmost importance for the consumer, since it will enable the consumer to keep track of prices and to watch the working out of the code, which is expected to raise the price of coal.

The reporting provision was inserted in the code upon the request of the consumers' advisory board, which drew up its proposal and rushed it to Gen. Johnson upon receiving a copy of the code.

New Control Board.

Instead of a national bituminous coal board of fourteen members, as previously written in the code, the President provides for a control board of eighteen members with nine representing the industry and nine representing the government. The administrator would be ex-officio chairman of the board, and the nineteenth member, without vote.

Gen. Johnson took the code to the White House for the President's signature after receiving it in final form from Kenneth M. Simpson, deputy administrator.

In a letter transmitting the code Mr. Simpson remarked that "in numerous ways the bituminous coal industry has furnished more convincing evidence of the need for the integrating force of the national industrial recovery act than any other industry in the nation."

Prices to Go Up "Markedly."

In reply to a question Gen. Johnson said it was likely that under the code retail prices would increase "markedly," because the operators could not pay the increased wages provided in the code without increasing their prices.

"Once we were on the verge of a national strike in the course of these negotiations," he added. "I thought I had bought a strike. It almost scared the wadding out of me."

He explained that western Kentucky and Alabama were not included in the code, but that they would be covered by its provisions "just the same as Henry Ford is covered in the automobile code."

"The contracts with the United Mine Workers of America which are about to be signed should go a long way toward assuring industrial peace and toward assuring stabilization of the industry," said Gen. Johnson.

Another Seized

Denver, Colo., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Sergt. Orson B. Lowe of the Denver police department left tonight for Peoria, Ill., to return Clyde Culbertson, former prohibition agent, to stand trial on automobile theft charges and probably on charges in connection with a plot to kidnap Adolph Coors Jr., wealthy Colorado brewer.

Lowe is taking with him extradition papers, as reports here from Illinois are that Culbertson will fight removal here.

Paul Robert Lane, also a former prohibition agent for the federal government, is under arrest here on auto theft charges. He pleaded guilty in District court today.

Police say he has confessed his part in the Coors' abduction and implicated Culbertson. A third former prohibition agent is sought in the Coors case but police refuse to reveal the identity. Coors was to be held for $50,000 ransom.

Henry Dierks, former prohibition agent now at liberty on bail on murder charges brought after the death of a youth he arrested, will be questioned by Chief of Police Albert T. Clark in his investigation of the Coors case. Lane told police Dierks introduced him to Culbertson.

lot. To them this court directs an appeal from the depositors and from those who are interested in the welfare and future prosperity of this community, to cooperate to the fullest extent in a genuine service of helpfulness."

Thus ended the one man grand jury hearing that opened on June 14 and during which literally scores of witnesses appeared.

All but a few of them blamed the crash on the treasury department which, they testified, during the late months of the Hoover administration and the early part of the Roosevelt administration, appraised the assets of the banks by "depression standards."

The Reconstruction Finance corporation was blamed for its refusal of a $45,000,000 loan that they claimed would have saved the situation, and Senator Couzens for his opposition to that loan.

But Senator Couzens, lashing back at his critics from the witness stand three weeks ago, said that no Washington official approved the proposed loan and that the arrangement under which it was to have been obtained was considered "immoral" by high officials.

COURT GUARDED AS BAILEY TRIAL OPENS IN SOUTH

Select Jury to Try 12 for Urschel Kidnaping.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Twelve small town business men and farmers were chosen tonight to hear the trial of Harvey Bailey, desperado, and 10 other men and one woman accused of conspiring and kidnaping Charles F. Urschel, one of the oil country's richest men.

The jury, with two alternates added, was selected in the tense setting of Judge Edgar S. Vaught's small courtroom at the top of the new federal tower here, where entrances and exits were constantly under the muzzles of submachine guns and shotguns in the hands of stern-eyed deputies.

At 9:30 a. m. tomorrow the jurors will hear five separate statements from the prosecution and the various attorneys for the defense before Urschel, big personable chap of 40, takes the witness stand to tell his story of the kidnaping and his ransom for $200,000.

Throughout the day of questioning of nearly twoscore talesmen guards watched the government's two principal captives, Bailey and Albert Bates.

Bailey, Bates Unmoved.

These two, accused of being the "brains" and the "muscle," with the missing George [Machine Gun] Kelly, in the abduction of Urschel, sat nonchalantly through the proceeding, occasionally whispering to their lawyers, occasionally laughing quietly at a lawyer's question or a juror's answer.

Dressed in a new suit of dark gray, Bailey gave no overt indication that he was the fellow who kidnaped a jailer at pistol point in Dallas two weeks ago in an abortive escape, or who robbed banks and acquired a general reputation for bitter enmity against society.

Bates, coatless, was equally at his ease, apparently giving no thought to the possibility that conviction would bring a life sentence under the new federal "Lindbergh" law.

Shannons Appear Uninterested.

The Shannons, R. G. [Boss] Shannon, Wise county, Texas, farmer, his plain middle aged wife and his 17 year old son, Armon, sat near their lawyers, apparently paying little attention to the proceedings.

Tomorrow, Herbert K. Hyde, district attorney, will tell the court that Bailey conceived the kidnaping scheme which resulted in the holding of Urschel for nine days on a north Texas farm, and his subsequent release after payment of ransom. As for Bates and Kelly, a son-in-law of Mrs. Shannon, Hyde will accuse them of the actual abduction at the point of machine guns from the sunporch of the Urschel home here the night of July 22.

Sam Sayers, Fort Worth lawyer defending the Shannons, has indicated his statement will be that the three were coerced into harboring criminals and holding Urschel on their farm.

J. B. Dudley, of Oklahoma City, counsel for the seven men brought here from the twin cities, will assert his clients were innocent of the origin of the marked money when it reached their hands.

Survivor Stands Guard.

Frank Smith, survivor of the machine gun slaying of four officers and Convict Frank Nash at the Union station in Kansas City June 17, another crime of which Bailey is accused, stood guard at the eighth floor stairlandings as jurors, lawyers and others approached the hall of justice today.

To pass each had to have a written permit signed by Marshal W. C. Geers. Those who wore coats in spite of the warm weather were searched before they could get by and climb the next flight of stairs to the courtroom proper.

MRS. MURPHY ROUTS FIVE 'PATRIOTS' WITH HER TRUSTY SHILLALAH

DUNDALK, Irish Free State, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Raiders who have been smashing stocks of British ale in various parts of the free state found more than they bargained for today when they tried to break into Thomas Murphy's saloon. They found Mrs. Murphy.

"I couldn't use anything more Irish," Mrs. Murphy said. "I gave them plenty of it and don't you think they were looking for it."

Raiders have been smashing British ale in demonstrations against the importation of British goods into the free state.

"HE STRUCK ME," MRS. LUER SAYS AT KIDNAP TRIAL

Points Out Fitzgerald for Jurors.

Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Helen Luer, wife of August Luer, wealthy packer of Alton, Ill., today identified Percy M. Fitzgerald as one of the men who kidnaped her husband the night of July 10. Fitzgerald and five co-defendants are on trial in the Circuit court for the abduction.

Mrs. Luer, who is over 70 years old, pointed out Fitzgerald as the kidnaper who struck her twice, throwing her down so severely that she fell against a mantel and suffered a deep scalp wound.

"My husband and I were playing solitaire when we heard a car drive up outside the house," said Mrs. Luer. "I thought we had company. A man and a woman came to the front door and the woman asked to use the telephone. I asked them in and the man went into the living room."

Mrs. Luer then described how the man and a woman seized Luer. Another man came in and pushed Mrs. Luer out of the room into another room, she said.

"I tried to struggle with him," she testified, "then he knocked me down and I cut my head on the mantel. They took Mr. Luer out of the house. He was wearing only his shirt, pants and house slippers. He kept screaming for help."

She pointed to Fitzgerald when asked if she saw any of the kidnapers in court and said: "I don't know his name, but that's the man who knocked me down." Under cross-examination, she insisted she could not be mistaken in her identification.

Luer followed his wife on the stand but could not identify any of the defendants. His eyes were taped by the kidnapers as they carried him from his home, he said, and he never viewed any of his captors during his imprisonment.

SCIENTISTS EYE MAMMOTH STAR; IT'S BRIGHTER

Pasadena, Cal., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Astronomers here are watching Nova Ophiuchi number 3, a star many times the size of the sun, for clues as to the nature of the catastrophe which has caused it to increase 100 times in brightness.

"Two theories are offered to explain this sudden change," Dr. Walter S. Adams, director of the Carnegie institution's Mount Wilson observatory, said today.

"It may have collided with another star. Or it may have come suddenly into a cloud of gas, the friction of which would cause it to heat, like a meteor coming into the earth's atmosphere."

Nova Ophiuchi number 3 suddenly increased in brightness in 1898 from 10.8 to 7.7 magnitude. Then its brilliance dulled rapidly, and for more than twenty years its magnitude was 10.3 to 11.8.

With Two Trousers

Subdued, the gun club check with blue, grey, or russet brown for its background, is one of the most likable of Autumn patterns. It is too just such a pattern that the conservative, consistent wearer of plain suitings could change to and feel just as much at ease as if he were wearing his conservative "blue." Lacking in boldness, the pattern lends itself well to the double, as well as the single breasted jacket. Both tailored of an unfinished worsted suiting that is in keeping with the "go rough" tendency in men's clothing for fall.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of sufferers from piles have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money back guarantee.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Walgreen's invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

"L" RECEIVERS SUPPORT DRIVE FOR SINGLE FARE

Agree to Meet Mayor and Council Group.

Officials at the head of the Chicago Rapid Transit company, which operates the elevated lines, declared yesterday thaty they will coöperate in bringing about a universal transfer system as the first of the benefits specified in the long pending consolidation of Chicago's transportation facilities. Britton I. Budd and Col. A. A. Sprague, co-receivers of the elevated lines, said they thought the plan feasible.

On the other hand Guy A. Richardson, head of the Chicago Surface Lines, took the position that nothing could be done to give the public any of the improvements embodied in the unification plan until after the consolidation ordinance had been accepted by the transit companies and the companies had been reorganized into the new Chicago Local Transportation company. The ordinance was approved in a public referendum three years ago.

Banker Is Pessimistic.

It was further indicated by A. W. Harris, chairman of the board of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, that the chances are slender for financing the unification project and making it a near reality. Mr. Harris is one of a committee of three appointed by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, before whom the transit companies are in receivership, to bring the various groups of bondholders together under a financial reorganization plan.

In spite of the pessimism expressed by Mr. Richardson and Mr. Harris, Mayor Edward J. Kelly and Ald. James B. Bowler, chairman of the city council's local transportation committee, declared they will proceed with their plan to force improved transit service. The first of these improvements, declared the mayor, will be an interchangeable transfer system between the street car and the elevated lines.

Do It Now, Mayor's Idea.

"There can be no excuse for making a person living at 79th street and Western avenue take a street car all the way down to the loop of compelling him to pay two fares by taking a street car and then an elevated train to save a half hour's time," declared Mayor Kelly. "There isn't any reason why the transportation interests could not put a universal transfer system into effect tomorrow."

"Plans have been worked out to bring about the adoption of this transfer exchange and the city has the means of compelling the companies to do it," said Ald. Bowler. "I am glad to hear that the receivers for the Rapid Transit lines stand ready to coöperate with us. We will proceed with our plans and we expect to carry them to a favorable conclusion. We are ready to meet all obstacles placed before us."

View of Col. Sprague.

Col. Sprague asserted that the universal transfer system could and should be established. He declared that there no longer is any reason why the traction companies cannot accept the unification ordinance and be reorganized into a new system.

"It is an excellent proposal on the part of Mayor Kelly and Ald. Bowler to get action," said Col. Sprague. "Great good will result from the instituting of the exchangeable transfer system, and I see no reason why the companies cannot now proceed to consummation of the consolidation of their facilities. The transit unification plan was worked out with great pains and should not be permitted to lapse and die."

This last references was to the fact that under the transit ordinance the companies must agree to accept its provisions not later than the end of this year. Both Mayor Kelly and Ald. Bowler have pointed out that if the ordinance is allowed to die the city will be no nearer a solution of its transportation problems than it was many years ago.

Agree to Attend Meeting.

Both Col. Sprague and Mr. Budd, as receivers for the Rapid Transit lines, said they would attend the meeting called by Bowler with their engineers and advisers. At this meeting, to be held Sept. 27, the officials of all the traction companies will be requested to make known what plans have been made for putting into effect a universal transfer system, what authority would be necessary to bring it about, and how soon it might be put into practice.

Officials of the elevated lines said that the interchangeable transfer plan had been studied jointly with a committee representing the street car lines. They estimated that with further details to be worked out it would take from sixty to ninety days. No estimate of the cost of making the change was obtainable, but it was indicated that this would be comparatively small.

3 Cent Extra Charge.

The provisions of the transit ordinance require the payment of an additional 3 cents by persons transferring from the street car lines to the elevated, but no extra charge for transferring from the elevated to the surface cars. The added charge represents the difference between the 7 cent street car fare and the 10 cent elevated fare.

Mr. Richardson said it was not likely that any of the improvements and extensions specified in the unification plan can be carried forward until the ordinance is accepted by the companies and the companies become merged.

He declared that one obstacle to the consolidation is the federal securities act, which is said to make impossible the carrying out of the original plan of Samuel Insull for the issuance of securities by the reorganized transportation company.

Report to Court Delayed.

This same view was expressed by Mr. Harris, who with Melvin Traylor and D. F. Kelly, other members of the financial reorganization committee, was to have reported yesterday to Judge Wilkerson on their progress in bringing the various transit bondholders' committees together in agreement on a plan.

The report was not made, however. The committee members indicated that a full agreement had not been reached, and that the report would be made at a later date.

The following statement was issued by Mr. Harris in reference to the plan of the city officials to force action in the transit situation:

"It is difficult to determine what action can be expected from the receivers. It is only after the ownership of the properties has been acquired by a new company that the new franchise can be accepted.

Sees a Money Difficulty.

"Mr. Insull developed the plan and some of the money he borrowed went into it. It was just one of the causes of the collapse of his companies. The security holders are as anxious as the city is to find some one who can and will raise millions of dollars necessary to carry out such a plan.

"It may be, as the city officials claim, very easy for some one to raise these millions, but probably no easier than it will be for the city to raise its share of the money. Incidentally, some one must have overlooked the federal securities act, which would make it difficult just now to get any one to take the responsibility for putting out securities to the public on the basis of the plan formerly proposed by Mr. Insull.

"There can be no amendment to the act expected before the next session of congress. In the meantime it is hoped that some way can be arranged to raise the money necessary for the preliminaries, but if for this time is not granted it will be just too bad."

Halsey-Stuart Position.

Charles F. Clarke, vice president of Halsey, Stuart & Co., which under the original setup was to act as financial reorganization manager of the consolidation plan, said yesterday that the company's position in the matter was the same as two months ago.

At that time the company, in a communication to Judge Wilkerson's committee, offered to withdraw completely from its official capacity if the committee and the bondholders did not wish to amend the plan to fit changed conditions.

The transit unification plan provides for the expenditure in ten years of $200,000,000 by the new company for 300 miles of street car extensions, 65 miles of rapid transit extensions and other improvements. On its part the city would spend $100,000,000 for the building of a subway, part of the cost to be borne by special assessments.

VIRGINIAN ADMIRES FASCISM AND WILL BE ITALIAN CITIZEN

New York, Sept. 18.—(AP)—George Nelson Page, one of the Virginia Pages, whose name has filled chapters of American history, will adopt the fascism of Italy, where he was born, Mr. Page said tonight he would assume Italian citizenship as a gesture of admiration for fascism. He already has applied and expects to be admitted into the covenant of that nation when he returns to Rome in October.

Mr. Page's grandfather, Thomas Jefferson Page, was the naval officer who cast his lot with the Confederacy and lost his fortune. He was an "unreconstructed rebel" and went abroad after the civil war. He never took the oath of allegiance to the Union.

Five Loop Bankers Called as Witnesses.

Five loop bankers, 25 lawyers and about 150 Insull investors swarmed into court yesterday before Garfield Charles, federal referee, to witness a renewal of the frequently postponed hearing on the bankrupt Insull Utility Investments, Inc.

Samuel A. Ettelson, former corporation counsel, who has charged that the Insull bankruptcy setup was framed by Samuel Insull Sr., had subpoenaed the bankers to tell what they knew of a conference reputedly called by Insull two days before his companies went into receivership. He has also subpoenaed Samuel Insull Jr.

Bank Heads at Hearing.

Seated among the investors in the court were Solomon A. Smith, president of the Northern Trust company, and Albert W. Harris, chairman, and Howard Fenton, president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank. Insull Jr. was present with his attorney, Floyd Thompson, former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court.

Before addressing himself to the frameup charges, Referee Charles said he wished to rule on the application of the law firm of Rosenthal, Hamill & Wormser, counsel for the trustee of the bankrupt company, for an allowance of $25,000 on account for fees. There being no objection from other attorneys, the referee allowed the firm $17,000 on account.

Mr. Ettelson announced he was ready to put the first of his witnesses on the stand. At this point the referee consulted his calendar and announced that a hearing of such ramifications would require several days, a period he could not allot to the case at this time. He thereupon continued the hearing to Oct. 18 at 2 p. m.

Witnesses Present Are Sworn.

Observing that two of the subpoenaed witnesses were absent, Mr. Ettelson then requested that those present be sworn and be held subject to call when the hearing was resumed. Attorney Thompson objected, saying the request was "unfair."

"Then I'll have to be unfair," the referee remarked. "Let the witnesses be sworn. They will be afforded ample notification before the hearing is resumed."

Following the swearing of the witnesses, the referee continued to Oct. 18 also the petition of Mr. Ettelson for a denial of fees to other parties in the case who, he contends, were nominated for their posts by the elder Insull. The parties and fees involved are Galvin Fentress, former receiver for the company, $17,500; Allen and Dalby, former attorneys for Mr. Fentress, $9,000; Lewis F. Jacobson and Harold F. White, attorneys for petitioning creditors, $15,000.

Federal Judge Wilkerson yesterday continued until Dec. 1 a motion for a bill of particulars for the nineteen defendants in the Insull mail fraud case growing out of the collapse of another Insull concern, the Corporation Securities company.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green agreed to the continuance because most of the defendants in this case, including Samuel Insull Sr., Samuel Insull Jr., and Martin J. Insull, are also under indictment on charges of violating the bankruptcy laws.

The government hopes to win the extradition of Samuel Insull Sr. from Greece, and if this is accomplished the bankruptcy case will be tried first. Insull cannot be tried on the mail fraud indictment, for such a charge is not extraditable, and he can be tried only upon the charge under which he is extradited.

JEAN HARLOW FLIES TO YUMA; MARRIED AGAIN

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 18.—(AP)—The platinum blonde siren of the screen, Jean Harlow, was married for the third time today. In a romantic early morning airplane elopement to Yuma, Ariz., the southwest's "Gretna Green," she became the bride of Harold G. Rosson, film cameraman.

The 22 year old star and her 38 year old husband, flying back to Hollywood shortly after the ceremony at 4:30 o'clock this morning, said they would return to work tomorrow at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio at Culver City.

Trips to Mexico Likely.

Miss Harlow said she may go to Mexico for a picture, and if so, that will be their honeymoon trip. If that does not materialize they may go to Honolulu later.

"I love him so much I don't even care when he beats me at golf! And that just about tells it all, doesn't it; if you care that much about a man, of course you want to marry him," Miss Harlow said.

"Hal's and my romance began on the job. He has been my cameraman ever since I went to M-G-M studio. I remember seeing the first 'takes' of 'Red Headed Woman' and realized I was in the hands of a wonderful photographer. You know a photographer can almost make or break a girl in pictures.

World's Best Cameraman.

"That feeling of confidence in Hal as a photographer grew and widened to other things until now I am as confident in him as a husband as I am that he is the best cameraman in the world.

"Our first real date, however, was for a game of golf—about six months ago. My stepfather, Marino Bello, had wanted me to take up the game for a long time and finally he got up a threesome consisting of Hal, himself, and me. He and Hal were old friends.

"I remember I was pretty terrible—dubbed shots and made the usual mistakes—but from that time I realized that here was a man who would make a wonderful friend—a man who was interesting, considerate, and charming.

Like Music and Books.

"Later I found that our natures were wonderfully compatible — that we both liked music and the same books, that we liked to go sailing, and that we could laugh together over maybe nothing at all. We were mentally and spiritually attuned.

"And so it was natural that we should fall in love, I think. To me love always has meant friendship, understanding, mutual tastes. And there was our work to bring us closer together.

"We never have been exactly 'engaged,' but we decided a week ago to get married some time in the near future.

Romance of the Desert.

"That happened one night while we were on location on the Arizona desert, working on my new picture.

"The day's work was over. The picture was going well. And the stars were out in the desert sky.

"Hal said, 'Let's get married,' and I said, 'All right.'

"We thought at first we would be married in Los Angeles, but that would have meant that people would find out about it beforehand on account of California marriage laws.

"So—we went to Yuma."

Justice of the Peace E. A. Freeman performed the ceremony there and Miss Harlow and Rosson returned here.

First Mate Chicagoan.

Miss Harlow's first husband was Charles McGrew II., Chicago broker, with whom she eloped in 1927 to Waukegan, Ill. She was born in Kansas City and christened Marlean Carpenter. They came to California, and Miss Harlow, visiting a studio one day, attracted the attention of executives, who offered her a small role. She reached stardom in the feminine lead in "Hell's Angels."

After divorcing McGrew she married Bern, film studio executive. The motive for Bern's suicide never has been disclosed.

Rosson came to motion pictures from New York in 1914 and in 1924 married Nina Byron, an Australian girl, who was not in pictures. They were divorced two years later.

FOUR LINERS SURVIVE TERRIFIC STORM ON OLD NANTUCKET

New York, Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Four Atlantic liners—the Brittanic, Dresden, Carinthia and Western Land—arrived in port today after passing through the center of the storm on Sunday on Nantucket, which the respective captains described as being about the worst they had ever encountered.

The wind blew with hurricane force at more than 100 miles velocity, they said, and the seas were between 60 and 70 feet from the bottom of the trough to the crest. Capt. Peter A. Murchie of the Carinthia said he had received warning of the hurricane forty hours in advance and had everything battened down. Passengers were warned not to go on deck.

Fifteen North Carolina Dead.

New Bern, N. C., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Fifteen dead, many missing, hundred homeless and a property loss of millions of dollars were listed tonight as the North Carolina coast cost of the ravaging hurricane of Friday and Saturday. Many small communities were almost wholly desolate, lacking food and shelter. Sanitary conditions over a wide area threatened disease. Restoration of roads and communication systems was only beginning. Here in New Bern alone the property loss was estimated at a million dollars. It was half that in the twin communities of Morehead City and Beaufort, 30 miles away, and hundreds of other smaller communities suffered loss.

Mexico's Death Toll, 135.

MEXICO, B. F., Sept. 18.—(AP)—The death toll from Friday's tropical hurricane mounted tonight to 135 as swollen streams receded and troops recovered 45 more bodies in San Luis Potosi and 21 in Tampico. In addition to the 32 persons drowned in the suburbs of Tampico at least seven members of the crew of a launch were drowned when the boat went down. Telegraph services have been resumed to Tampico, and railroad service partly resumed. Word from San Luis Potosi was that four small villages had been wiped out and that the collapse of the San Jose dam cost $1,000,000.

VOLSTEAD BALKS AT STATE RUM CONTROL JOB

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Andrew J. Volstead, co-author of the federal dry enforcement act, refused today to serve on the state liquor control commission appointed last week. He wrote to Gov. Floyd B. Olson:

"The suggestion that the state may become the sole dispenser of liquor does not interest me. It is a toss up whether the so-called Canadian liquor control system is better than the saloon. In some respects it is worse. In this country, with its much less effective machinery for punishment of law violators than possessed by Canada, the high liquor tax now proposed would make this a bootleggers' paradise."

Volstead added that the foes of prohibition should be given a free hand and held responsible for results. Two other dry leaders also have refused to serve, giving reasons similar to those advanced by Volstead.

MRS. CRANE OF SPRINGFIELD O. K.; NEIGHBORS, NOTE!

Mrs. T. V. B. Crane's friends and neighbors in Springfield, Ill., are really solicitous about the affairs of one another—not nosey at all, but interested in each other's business. Though Mrs. Crane realized that, she was just a bit irked when routed out of bed in the middle of the night at the home of friends at 2618 North Spaulding avenue, where she has been staying while visiting the World's Fair.

At the door was Sergt. John Kratzmeyer of the detective bureau, who wanted to know if she was all right. Indeed she was, she informed him, and what of it? But she softened when she learned that the Springfield police chief just wanted to know if she was getting on all right in the big city. The chief had wired the Chicago police that the Cranes had sent home for money several times and their friends were fearful lest they had been victimized by confidence men.

Mrs. Crane said she had forgotten to tell the folks back home that her husband, who is a doctor, took sick while here and is in St. Mary's hospital recovering from an operation. She needed the money for bills. Next time, she said, she'd tell every one the news.

C. A. C. TO SWELL ATTENDANCE AT THE FAIR TODAY

First of Chicago Days to Draw Thousands.

Sunday, Sept. 17, 1933	221,505
Sunday, Sept. 17, 1893	41,245
Total including Sept. 17, 1933 [114 days]	15,609,136
Total including Sept. 17, 1893 [140 days]	12,522,022
The Columbian Exposition opened May 1; A Century of Progress opened May 27.

Today is Chicago Association of Commerce day at the Fair, designated thus in recognition of the part played by commerce and industry in the development of Chicago from a frontier trading post to the fourth greatest city in the world during an eventful span of 100 years.

This is the first of a series of unofficial "Chicago days." It is the purpose of the Association of Commerce to urge residents of the city and of Chicagoland to visit the attractions which have lured visitors here from all over the world. Officials of the Fair and business leaders ask native sons and daughters to delay their visits to A Century of Progress Exposition no longer.

It is pointed out that the Fair has awakened business activity in Chicago after three years of depressing times. Heads of the business world and Fair officials unite in asserting that the Fair now merits the support of the city during the 43 remaining days.

Send Out Invitations.

More than 50,000 men and women, officials of concerns which are members of the Association of Commerce, employés of these business houses and their families, are expected to come to the Fair today. Invitations to the celebration were dispatched weeks ago in the form of 3,500 letters sent out by the association.

Association officials purposely have planned no elaborate ceremonies during the day. The visitors will not find it necessary to choose between attending speeches and receptions or going to see the exhibits which attract them most. For one hour, between 7:30 and 8:30 p. m., George W. Rossetter, president of the Association of Commerce, will speak, and the association glee club, under the direction of Arthur Dunham, will sing.

Mr. Rossetter said yesterday: "Every member of the Chicago Association of Commerce owes it to himself, his industry and his city to become acquainted with the most successful world's fair ever held on the American continent."

Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair, disclosed yesterday that, despite the cold and rainy weather of the eight days prior to Sunday, the attendance during September has averaged thus far, 171,000 daily. The Columbian Exposition of '93 averaged only 155,000 daily for the thirty days of the month.

In September of '93 some 4,600,000 visitors attended the Columbia Exposition. This number should easily be exceeded by A Century of Progress. At the closing of the gates Sunday evening 2,902,000 visitors had already attended this month. At six o'clock last evening the three millionth visitor this month entered the turnstiles. Twelve days of the month still remain in which to attain the 1,600,000 attendance needed to exceed the mark of September, 1893.

Plan Another Bond Payment.

Maj. Lohr yesterday said that the Fair officials are preparing to make another payment on A Century of Progress bonds against which a 20 per cent payment recently was made. Approximately $1,000,000 for this purpose has been accumulated in loop banks.

To date the Fair corporation has had an income of slightly more than $7,000,000. Of this sum approximately $3,000,000 was used to make the first 20 per cent bond payment, operating expenses have accounted for another $2,000,000 and $1,000,000 has been expended in paying back bills, leaving the accumulation of $1,000,000, which will be used to pay off the second bond installment.

To be a financial success A Century of Progress Exposition must have 25,000,000 visitors, Maj. Lohr said yesterday. Whether this mark will be reached depends largely on the weather man, he said. He explained that the Fair expects to pay off its bonds from gate receipts, 40 per cent of which are the security for the bonds.

HOOVER ARRIVES TODAY FOR VISIT TO WORLD'S FAIR

Ex-President Herbert Hoover of Palo Alto, Cal., and Mrs. Hoover will arrive here at 10:30 a. m. today at the North Western station to keep a promise to visit the World's Fair, which Mr. Hoover made last March 18 when he stopped in Chicago on his way to the coast.

Mr. Hoover's earlier visit was made with President Rufus C. Dawes of A Century of Progress exposition during a heavy rainstorm. The two men toured the grounds of the Fair, which was not then completed, for two hours. At the end of that time Mr. Hoover said: "Mr. Dawes, I want to tell you that I am going to return and bring my wife to see your Fair in full swing as a good American citizen should."

Fair officials last night discussed the problem of whether or not Mr. Hoover would wish to receive a 21 gun salute as ex-President or whether he would prefer to visit the Fair merely as a private citizen. It was decided to let Mr. Hoover decide when he arrives. He will be the house guest of Arch W. Shaw, investment banker, while in Chicago, and will be accompanied by Lawrence Ritchie, one of his White House secretaries.

BODY RETURNED TO HOME.

The body of M. E. Taylor, 60 years old, a Fair visitor who died on Friday of heart disease in the Burnside hospital, was returned to his home in Ogden, Ill., yesterday.

TRUCKING FLEETS GET FIRST FINES FOR HARD TIRES

$10 Penalty Imposed by Judge in 27 Cases.

BY HAL FOUST.

The first fines were imposed yesterday on large truck fleet operators for violation of the statute that requires pneumatic tires on vehicles driven on public streets or highways faster than ten miles an hour. Judge Eugene Holland of the Traffic court assessed the minimum penalty of $10 in 27 cases.

The law, passed by the 1931 legislature, has been in effect since Jan. 1, 1933. Since the first of this month, motorcycle police on orders of Capt. David Flynn, head of the traffic division, have arrested 500 truck drivers, but before yesterday's convictions the only fine assessed was against Alex Doroski, 8601 Princeton avenue.

210 Continuances Granted.

Continuances were granted by the judge to 210 defendants who asked for time to produce evidence of efforts to obey the tire law. Some pleaded they did not know the law was going to be enforced. Others said they needed a few more weeks to equip their trucks with pneumatic tires. Some protested the law was unjust.

"If this law is enforced," said a representative of the Crane Coal company, "it will force Chicago business to return to the horse and wagon."

"I'm not here to argue the merits of the statute," said Judge Holland. "The statute was enacted by the legislature to protect the public's pavements. I'm aware of the economic conditions that have made it difficult for many to obey. But I'm here to administer the law."

Express Agency Fined Twice.

The Railway Express Agency, Inc., was fined in two cases. The attorney said the company has 589 trucks, 267 with pneumatic tires.

The Arthur Dixon company, one of the city's largest cartage concerns, won continuances on a dozen cases. An attorney, in response to questions from Judge Holland, said the company has more than 100 trucks and that about 40 of them have pneumatic tires.

The Consumers company was fined on testimony that one of its hard tired trucks was timed at 18 miles an hour. The company owns 133 trucks, the judge was told, and 76 of them have air cushioned wheels.

Packing Companies Fined.

Armour & Co. and Swift & Co. each received three fines. A case against the Hydrox company was dismissed on a showing that the concern is converting its fleet from solid to pneumatic tires and has made the change on all but one of its 57 vehicles.

The Forbish Truck company also won a dismissal with a showing that it has converted the tire equipment on 15 trucks since March.

H. Bairstone company, which has 15 trucks doing contract hauling for Lincoln park, was fined in two cases. Police testified they clocked two of the trucks pounding their uncushioned wheels in Ridge road at 18 and 20 miles an hour.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Plans for the celebration of Marconi day, Oct. 3, are now complete and await only the approval of officials at Rome, Commander Luigi Ranieri, general director of the Italian pavilion, announced yesterday. Sen. Marconi is expected to visit Chicago and the Exposition Oct. 1, 2, and 3, as the representative of the Italian government to the American Legion convention. One feature planned for Marconi day at the Fair is a repitition of the Arcturus lighting ceremony with rays from the star Arcturus picked up at the Italian observatory at Arcteri, Italy, and transmitted to the Fair.

An average daily attendance of 3,000 is reported by the National Association of Miniature Painters in their exhibit in the Graphic Arts section of the General Exhibits group. There are 311 miniatures by 160 artists on display there.

Glenn Ward Dresbach, nature poet, will read some of his poems at 4 p. m. today in the Illinois Host house. Mr. Dresbach has been awarded the George Sterling poetry prize of the Book Fellows and the Gypsy Sonnet prize selected by the late John Galsworthy.

Lusien Rollin, French architect, has been making a study of the architectural and lighting effects of the Fair and will make a report to the French government commission now making plans for a fair in Paris in 1937. M. Rollin approves of the novel features in the Fair buildings.

The outline of events for Illinois Achievement week in the Illinois Host house was announced yesterday by the committees in charge of the eight day program which will dramatize the accomplishments of Illinois. Art day will be held Saturday, Sept. 23. Sunday and Monday will be Music days; Tuesday, Education day; Wednesday, Literature day; Thursday, Science day; Friday, Welfare day; Saturday, Sept. 30, Architecture and Allied Arts day, and Sunday, Oct., 1, will be Drama day. Elaborate programs are being arranged for each day.

The official art exhibit of A Century of Progress in the Art institute has been visited by 998,000 persons since the opening of the Fair, a daily average attendance of nearly 8,000. The 1,000,000th visitor is expected to enter the exhibit before noon today. Plans for his or her reception include the presentation of a large framed reproduction of Whistler's "Mother," and an elaborate handmade map.

MONKEY CAUGHT AFTER HE GIVES FAIR NEW THRILL

Capuchin, the World's Fair migrating monkey, was cornered for the second time late yesterday afternoon and returned to his cage in the monkey village on Northerly island.

His capture was effected only after half a dozen Fair employés had chased the diminutive sightseer from the roof of the Dairy building to the Agricultural building, to the Federal building.

Earlier in the day Capuchin was caught after he had spent the night on the east tower of the sky ride.

ENJOY THIS WELCH WAY TO REDUCE

Noted food authorities have now worked out the ideal way to reduce—and the beautiful thing about their plan is that all the time you are losing weight you are actually gaining new-found health and energy.

This delightful new method takes advantage of the amazing health-properties in Welch's Certified-Pure, Pasteurized Grape Juice, a product long recommended by physicians the world over. They insist that Welch's belongs on every reducing diet, because its non-fattening grape sugar forces the body to burn up its fat . . . at the same time satisfying that craving for sweets and rich, fattening foods.

Welch's contains minerals vital to one's health. It helps make red blood. It contains more Vitamin B than orange juice. It cleanses the entire system. People everywhere report that after following the Welch way to weight reduction they feel more vigorous and alert than they had felt in years.

Start today. Drink a glass of Welch's with and between low-calory meals, and before retiring. Welch's may be diluted with one third water. Continue—and experience the wonderful difference.

Send for booklet, "Keeping Your Weight Down," yours free for the asking.

If You Have Children

Welch has published another booklet, called "Red-Blooded Children." It describes a wonderful method of building up run-down youngsters. If you will send your name and address to The Welch Grape Juice Co. Dept. 1447, Westfield, N. Y., you will receive either or both of these booklets, FREE.

IMPORTANT: Insist on Welch's. It is the exclusive Welch Process that retains in the bottled juice the healthful properties of ripe grapes so essential to the system. Only Welch's is Certified Pure and Pasteurized. It contains no adulterants, no synthetic flavors, no artificial coloring, no preservatives, no water, and above all, no tartaric acid crystals. It is selling at the lowest price in 35 years, and is even cheaper by the case. Send for free booklet TODAY.

Not like any other cigarette

The United States Government granted Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company the right to use "Chesterfield" for cigarettes

THIS means that the Chesterfield formula—that is, the leaf and the manufacturing formula—is different from that of other cigarettes.

For a cigarette to be milder and to taste better, it has to have in it ripe, mild, mellow tobacco, and the right quantity of the right kinds of Turkish tobacco. Then the cigarette has to be made right.

You can prove for yourself that Chesterfields are not like other cigarettes. They're milder . . . they taste better.

FRANCE 'SELLS' BRITISH ENVOY ANTI-NAZI PLAN

Scheme May Wreck Hopes for Disarmament.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 18.—France tonight appears to have won points all along the line in today's conversations on disarmament at the Qui d'Orsay, if not definitely with the British cabinet, at least with Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign undersecretary.

It is reported in authoritative quarters that the French case was so well put by Joseph Paul-Boncour, French foreign minister, and by Premier Edouard Daladier, showing how it is impossible to disarm now in view of Germany's rearmament as well as the Nazi attitude toward their neighbors, that Capt. Eden telephoned Prime Minister MacDonald urging him to convoke a cabinet meeting at once to discuss the situation on the basis of the French arguments.

Expect London to Back France.

One well informed source said that England "ended by finding our warnings well founded and our desired precautions legitimate." Thus, it is likely that London will support the French plan for international arms control and a substantial trial period before any disarmament is carried out.

An equally important French victory was reported from Rome. Premier Mussolini has been championing the German demand for prototypes of arms prohibited to her by the Versailles treaty so that they could be manufactured without delay in case of war from the samples on hand.

Now Italy has so modified her stand on this point as to amount to abandoning it altogether. In view of this Capt. Eden, it is reported, dropped his plan to go to Rome from Paris and will return to London to take part in discussions with the cabinet.

Davis Reaches Paris.

Today's preliminary disarmament talks between France and England are to be followed by Franco-American discussions, for which Norman H. Davis, President Roosevelt's ambassador-at-large, arrived in Paris from London tonight.

Today's developments represent a complete about face for the British representative. Before Capt. Eden began his conversations with the French officials it was clear that French and British views were far from similar and that the latter were in favor of handling Germany with silk gloves to avoid a breakdown of the Geneva disarmament conference. The United States was said to be supporting the British viewpoint.

The French were determined, however, to back up their demand for international control by making public the famous secret dossier showing Germany's rearmament in violation of the Versailles treaty. The French felt this would leave no doubt of the necessity of her arms control plan and that it would justify her refusal to do any disarming at present.

A Bone of Contention.

This was one of the principal bones of contention between the British and the French. The former held that publication of the dossier would inevitably cause collapse of the arms conference by driving Germany out forever. Britain as well as France possesses a copy of the dossier, but Prime Minister MacDonald wanted to bury it in the hope that this and other concessions to Germany would lead to the signing of an arms convention and assure an atmosphere of peace, temporarily at least.

Davis has a message from President Roosevelt to Premier Daladier which also is understood to suggest a way out. American quarters in Paris affirm that the advent of the Nazis in Germany has not changed American opinion on the need of disarmament sufficiently to bring Washington to the support of France in her desire to abandon any attempt to disarm at present. Thus, unless France is able to alter her position, she will have to shoulder the blame for any breakdown of the conference arising out of her insistence on a control plan, trial period, or publication of the German armaments report.

MacDonald Gets Message.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Norman H. Davis, American ambassador-at-large, had a two hours' talk over bacon and eggs with Prime Minister MacDonald this morning before he rushed to the station to catch a train for Paris with his retinue streaming after him.

What was scheduled as a piece of pleasant informal diplomacy lengthened into one of the longest conversations the two statesmen ever had. Davis arrived at 10 Downing street at 8:15 a. m. to deliver a personal disarmament message from President Roosevelt. The two men remained in conference until after 10 o'clock.

What the talk was all about was not revealed. While it is denied that British government officials protested against the American naval program, there is no question that a number of British suggestions to Davis have been reported to Washington. It is probable that among other things involved is an Anglo-American understanding on the arms supervision plan advocated by the French.

SWITCHMAN KILLED BY TRAIN.

Fred C. Ludke, 30 years old, 105 East 148th street, Harvey, a switchman for the Indiana Harbor Belt railway, was fatally injured by an east bound passenger train of the Grand Trunk Western railroad near the Ashland avenue crossing in Harvey early yesterday.

WASHINGTON DENIES BRITAIN ASKS U. S. TO HALT NAVY PROGRAM

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Reports from abroad that Great Britain had suggested to the United States abandonment of its naval construction program tonight drew a definite disclaimer from Secretary of State Hull, while from naval quarters came word that there was no intention of altering or holding up the $238,000,000 building plan.

Observers who followed the course of recent disarmament discussions felt certain that any suggestion from Great Britain concerning naval building by this country would not concern the entire program, but would center instead upon the construction of 10,000 ton cruisers or similar ships.

Under this country's $238,000,000 plan provision is made for four cruisers within the so called class B type that would reach the maximum of 10,000 tons with six inch guns. In the past Great Britain has contended that cruisers in this class should be limited to around 7,000 tons on the ground that such ships would be cheaper to operate in fulfilling England's police needs.

Informed quarters, taking into account the American contention that 10,000 ton cruisers were needed to provide long cruising radius, believed there would be little chance that this country would accede to such a British suggestion.

NAZIS ACCUSE 'BLUE BLOODS' OF PLOTTING REVOLT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—Authorities of the state of Wuerttemberg today charged that certain members of the aristocracy, the intelligentsia and high civil servants have been conspiring to sabotage the Hitlerite rule.

Following reports of a raid by political police on a castle near Heidenheim, the local newspaper De Grenzbote announced:

"The suspicions of the police were fully confirmed. A fine company of intellectuals, 41 men and women from all elements of Germany, were assembled in the castle posing as health-seekers and exploiting the hospitality of its owner. Political training courses, lectures and discussions lasting a week developed their philosophical outlook in opposition to the Nazi régime with the aim of secretly working against the National Socialist state constructed by Adolf Hitler.

Titled Persons Involved.

"Amazement was evoked by the discovery that the company included a prominent high official of the university, legal and administrative officials, and also members of titled families."

The names of the accused conspirators were not disclosed nor what has happened to them.

Meanwhile Dr. Astel, head of the racial department in Thuringia, announced that every German will be compelled to possess a family genealogical tree. The tree must be traced back to ancestors at the time of the French revolution. Thus, Dr. Astel points out, it will be impossible for anybody to marry a person in ignorance that he or she is not of pure racial descent.

Dispatches from Marbach, Wuerttemberg, today said that a milk dealer was arrested because he suddenly ceased business, "thus endangering the milk supplies of consumers." The owner of a weaving mill at Berthelsdorf, Silesia, another dispatch said, was interned in a concentration camp for failure to pay his workers full wages and insurance fees.

Jews Bolt Congress.
[Copyright, 1933: By the New York Times.]

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 18.—The Jewish group withdrew from the minorities' congress before it ended its annual sessions here tonight. They bolted because the congress failed to condemn the German government's policy toward Jews as they had demanded. Two days were spent in trying to find a compromise formula. The German minorities group held the congress could not condemn the German government.

The Jewish statement pointed out that violations of elementary rights found approval from these German minorities only when the violator was the German government and the victims were Jews.

The minorities, congress always has been strongly under the influence of the German minorities and the German government. The Polish minorities withdrew from the congress five days ago. The congress took no action on the Jewish move today. Its chief resolution denounced the soviet government for alleged famine conditions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 18.—With two unnamed "witnesses" heard in secret the unofficial committee of lawyers which has been sitting for five days investigating the German reichstag fire of Feb. 27 completed its hearings this afternoon.

A draft report is being framed and by Wednesday the unaccredited "commission," which has no jurisdiction anywhere, hopes to release its findings. The five men accused by the Nazis of setting the fire go on trial Thursday at Leipzig.

The last batch of "testimony" was taken in a rush. Women were introduced into the investigation for the first time. For the most part it was a dreary recital by womenfolk of communist revolutionaries who told, between halts for interpretation, what their credo has cost them since the war.

U. S. Girl Is Mentioned.

An "unlocated" American girl, Pauline Harvey, figured in the testimony when a witness, trying to establish an alibi for Georgi Dmitrov, a Bulgarian communist, one of the accused men awaiting trial in Germany, declared he had introduced the two in Munich on the night of the fire. She no doubt will be sought by individual members of the commission to get her side of the story.

The first woman heard was Eleanora Dmitrov, a sister of the Bulgarian communist. She stood mumbling communist catch phrases in Russian while she told the story of her brother's revolutionary activities, leading to his exile after an abortive uprising in Bulgaria in 1923. She said that another communist brother was killed in street fighting at the same time.

She was followed by Frau Illia Schutz, wife of a former communist member of the reichstag. She claimed that her husband was the subject of an attempted assassination first and then was beaten to death by Nazis after the fire. Her 11 year old son stood by her side while she introduced a hospital report which she said she obtained after her own release from arrest. The report, according to her "testimony," said that every bone in her husband's body was fractured and that he had no chance to live.

Charge Nazis Started Fire.

Both women were called to "prove" that the communists did not set fire to the reichstag and suggest that the Nazis did. The German press has linked Dmitrov with the bomb outrage at the Sofia cathedral in 1926, but his sister declared he never was accused of the crime by the Bulgarian government and that he opposed individual acts of terrorism.

Frau Schutz asserted that when the first attempt was made on her husband's life he believed, as a communist, that the Nazis should be given the same medicine. Later, she said, her husband heard Ernst Torgler, leader of the German communist party and the chief defendant at the Leipzig trial, deliver such an impassioned speech against violence that he changed his opinion.

The "commission" also heard Kurt Torgler, the communist leader's 15 year old son. He declared his father did not return home on the night of the fire through fear of arrest. After Torgler was locked up his son visited him in his cell. There were no chains on his hands but marks of manacles were visible on his wrists, young Torgler said.

Otto Kuhnen, floor leader of the communists in the reichstag, then was called. Behind locked doors he repeated previous statements by Wilhelm Koenen that Torgler left the reischstag an hour before the fire was discovered a. l had been in his office continuously for two hours before his departure. He reiterated claims of Torgler's innocence.

Alibi for Bulgarian.

Georg Cvizic, a Croatian communist from Jugo-Slavia, also tried to establish an alibi for Dmitrov. He told how he had introduced him to Miss Harvey on the night of Feb. 27 before Dmitrov caught an 8 o'clock train for Berlin. He maintained that Dmitrov knew nothing about the plot to fire the reichstag nor did the other two accused Bulgarians, Blagio Popoff and Wassil Taney. (Marinus van der Luebbe, former Dutch communist, is the fifth man who will go on trial at Leipzig Sept. 21.).

After the public hearing ended, D. N. Pritt, British chairman of the "commission," announced that a draft of the findings would be written tonight by himself, Arthur Garfield Hays, American attorney, and George Branting, Swedish member of the "commission."

DISMISS WAR CHIEF IN AUSTRIA, FASCIST DEMAND

Cabinet Shakeup Sought by Heimwehr Leaders.

VIENNA, Sept. 18.—(AP)—A list of demands, including reorganization of the ministry, was reported to have been drawn up today by leaders of the Fascist Heimwehr at a meeting at Innsbruck.

Although there was no official confirmation, it was said the Heimwehr insisted on the resignation of War Minister Karl Vaugoin, the outsting of Vice Chancellor Franz Winkler and other Agrarians, and the appointment of Maj. Emil Fey, minister of security, as "executive minister," with authority over the army, the police, and the gendarmerie.

Dollfuss to Get Demands.

It was reported the next step in Austria's political controversy would be the submission of these demands to Chancellor Dollfuss.

Newspapers, despite censorship, featured dissensions within the cabinet, but the public refused to take things too seriously. The Viennese were enjoying the prize current witticism, a story to the effect that Chancellor Dollfuss, worried sleepless by the cabinet quarrels, spends every night pacing up and down under his bed. The chancellor is barely five feet tall.

Vice Chancellor Winkler has denounced the Fascist Heimwehr wing of the Dollfuss support by declaring that "we are not going to fight the Nazis merely to help Austro-Fascism into the saddle."

The Mittagszeitung said this speech constituted the vice chancellor's declaration of war on Prince Starhemberg, leader of the Heimwehr and supporter the Dollfuss régime.

Calls Row "Mostly Oratory."

An official spokesman for the government asserted, however, that the controversy was "mostly oratory" and pointed out that no matter how bitterly Winkler and the Heimwehr assail each other they both recognized Dollfuss as the leader.

"As a matter of fact, there is only one real issue in Austria today—the fight against Hitlerism," this spokesman declared. "All other questions, such as what form the Austrian state is to take, whether Fascist dictatorship or democracy, are merely academic until the new constitution has been revealed, which will not be for some time."

The executive committee of the Christian social party will meet Wednesday to draw up a definite enunciation of policy. Thereafter the cabinet is scheduled to meet, with the aim of reaching a workable solution.

Representatives of several Nationalist groups will meet tomorrow to explore the possibilities of founding a "national front," aiming at absorption of the outlawed Nazis, with an anti-Jewish platform and the slogan of peace with Germany.

Vaugoin told the troops at Salzburg garrison tonight that there is no misunderstanding in the government.

"Speeches of the leaders of the two groups interested in the government," he said, "have created the impression that there is dissension in the government. I want to remove these anxieties at once. The movement is too important, the aim is too high, for any other solution that the complete solidarity of the government groups."

Danzig, Poland Agree on Equal Treatment in Ports

WARSAW, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The governments of Poland and the Danzig territory today signed an agreement under which the free city of Danzig and the Polish port of Gdynia will receive equal treatment on a basis of free competition.

11 JAP CADETS GET 4 YEARS IN ASSASSIN CASE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 19.—[Tuesday.]—A Japanese army court today sentenced 11 cadets on trial for participating in the assassination of Premier Tsuyoshi Inukai and other acts of violence on May 15, 1932, to four years in prison. The cadets have already been in jail one year and are expected to be released within two years.

The official procurator had recommended that the defendants be sentenced to prison for eight years. The Japanese criminal code provides that those who rebel under arms shall be subject to punishment ranging from death or life imprisonment to prison terms exceeding five years.

The light sentence appears to have been a recognition of the sympathy looked for the cadets in Japan during the trial. Thousands of petitions for leniency were presented to the court. The official procurator in the navy trial of ten naval officers involved in the May 15 violence has asked death for three, life imprisonment for three and from three to six years' imprisonment for the others. Few Japanese, however, expect that such severe sentences will be meted out.

PREDICTS BOOST IN GOVERNMENT COST UNDER NRA

Cincinnati City Manager Speaks at Convention.

The NRA is sure to increase the cost of all government, and the public can no longer insist upon reductions of public employés' salaries under the new conditions, City Manager C. A. Dykstra of Cincinnati said yesterday before the International City Managers' association. Mr. Dykstra is president of the association, which opened a three day convention at the International house at the University of Chicago. Three hundred members are attending.

First, the NRA is increasing the cost of purchases and contracts, and secondly it is causing higher costs of living, which will be reflected in the salaries of public employés, Mr. Dykstra pointed out.

To Increase Public Costs.

"The logic of the NRA will drive up our public costs," he said. "Cities can't lag far behind business and industry in restoring wage levels in keeping with living costs."

City government is "in the jaws of a nut-cracker," with lessened revenues to meet the rising costs, he said. He pointed out that liquor and beer taxes are usually directed to state and national capitals.

City Manager Dykstra said he assumed "we are talking about actual working employés and not political supernumeraries." He declared that the movement to cut out red tape must go on, as well as the simplification of all governmental activity.

He urged constitutional amendments to make these ends possible, and proposed that a federal commission be appointed to map out a new allotment of taxes and services for all levels of government.

Want to End Overlapping.

"We believe," said Mr. Dykstra, "that only by a thorough reorganization will it be possible to eliminate the overlapping jurisdictions and the overlapping taxation that are so burdensome today."

Fred Telford, director of the Bureau of Public Personnel Administration, attacked the reputation of civil service commissions as hiring agencies for public employés. He asserted that the depression showed civil service systems to be unable to meet requirements in determining the number of employés, rates of pay, and individual value. Most civil service commissions, he said, have been "engulfed by the political powers."

NEW AIR BOARD MEETS; FAVORS PORT PROJECT

The new Illinois aeronautics commission met yesterday at the Congress hotel for the first time and the members expressed themselves in favor of the lake front airport proposed for Chicago by the city plan commission. The commission is composed of L. P. Bonfoey, Quincy, chairman; Prof. Fred Fagg of Northwestern university, Commander Eugene F. McDonald of Chicago, Edward J. Lorenz of Belleville, and Carl P. Slane, publisher of the Peoria Journal-Transcript.

Elwood Cole of Springfield was reelected secretary of the commission and Maurice L. Horner Jr., president of Durand-McNeill-Horner company, wholesale grocers, was appointed executive secretary for Chicago. Mr. Horner is a cousin of the governor. His position carries no salary. He was an army flyer during the war.

A study will be made by the commission to determine what airway improvements are needed in the state, so that a request may be filed with the public works administration in Washington, Mr. Bonfoey said. The next meeting of the commission will be held at Cincinnati Oct. 13.

The police yesterday were seeking a man who slugged Miss Bernice Daigle, 25 years old, 10752 Langley avenue, a saxophone player. Miss Daigle was attacked as she returned to her home after she had appeared at a Hammond theater. George Hrikovski, who lives at 10678 Langley avenue, said that he heard a struggle and saw a man flee. Later Miss Daigle was found unconscious with her skull fractured and a deep wound in her head. Her injuries may prove fatal. The police expressed the belief that she had been attacked by a rapist, who fled when she screamed.

DRUGGISTS PLAN FIGHT TO AMEND RETAILERS' CODE

The retail store code will "probably have to be accepted" by the National Association of Retail Druggists, convened at the Hotel Sherman, it was said yesterday by W. Bruce Philip of Washington, D. C., general counsel for the association.

"But we will immediately try to amend it," Mr. Philip added. "The compulsory addition of 10 per cent to the invoice price of goods does not meet the requirements of an average 28 per cent overhead in drug stores. Those officials in Washington are fine, but they try to run other people's businesses that they know nothing about."

The Druggists' association has 12,000 members, of whom about 4,000 are attending the convention. The sales tax and the problem of what to do about the sale of liquor when the 18th amendment is repealed will occupy the delegates in business sessions beginning today.

Wine sales have more than doubled since prescription purchases were made easier by the Copeland-Sellers act in April, according to Samuel Adams, representative of Fruit Industries, Ltd., and the Italian Vineyards company. An assortment of all the old wines, including champagne, which may now be purchased by prescription is on display at the convention.

CHAS. H. SMITH GRAND COMMANDER ILLINOIS KNIGHTS TEMPLAR

Chicago was chosen for the next convention city.

Smith's election was a matter of form. He succeeded Louis Eugene Wangelin of Belleville.

SENATOR DAVIS RETRIED UNDER NEW INDICTMENT

Lottery Case Charges Against Him Revised.

New York, Sept. 18.—[Special.]—A jury was sworn in today in United States District court for the second trial of United States Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania on charges of violation of the federal lottery laws. He is on trial this time together with Theodore G. Miller, head of the propagation department of the Loyal Order of Moose, of which the senator is director general.

The second trial began almost a year after the opening of the first trial, in which Senator Davis was the sole defendant, although three others had been indicted with him.

The first trial began on Sept. 19 last year, ending on Oct. 3 in a mistrial, after it had been brought out that one juror had approached a defense attorney with a tale of prejudice. The present trial is before Federal Judge Johnson Hayes of North Carolina, sitting here temporarily.

Indictment Is Changed.

The indictment on which Senator Davis is now being tried, however, is not the same. In June of this year the federal grand jury handed up a superseding indictment combining the two previous indictments. The new indictment has fourteen counts, one charging conspiracy, eleven the use of interstate carriers in the promotion of a lottery, and two the use of the mails for the purpose. A motion to test the validity of the new indictment is before the court for decision tomorrow.

Two of the defendants are not on trial at present. One of them, Bernard C. McGuire, promoter of the Moose charity drives, pleaded guilty some time ago. The other, Raymond Walsh, was granted a severance at the request of Assistant United States Attorney Louis Treadwell.

Two Alternate Jurors.

Two alternate jurors were selected to sit with the jury and act in case of illness of any of the regular twelve jurors. This is a custom operative in the federal courts here.

Senator Davis, arriving at the courtroom, said he felt "pretty good," but had not fully recovered from an operation for appendicitis. The retrial, originally scheduled for last December, was postponed because of Senator Davis' condition.

BOYS BURN $5,000; THINK IT'S ONLY 'STAGE MONEY'

Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Quirk walked into police headquarters today with $100 in gold certificates and said if that paper was real money it was just too bad for words, because her boys and some other boys had burned up a lot of the same kind, probably about $5,000.

The money was real enough, the police said, and to confirm their opinion they took it to the Providence Savings bank.

Eddie Quirk, 9, and his brother, Tommy, 10, and the other boys found the money under the rear seat of a touring car body in a junk yard. They thought it was stage money, divided it and played with it.

Tiring of this they decided to burn the money, Mrs. Quirk said they told her. A $50 bill, half burned blew away. A passing mechanic picked it up, became excited until the boys told him it was fake money; then he tore it into strips and fitted it around a faulty washer.

TREASURY ACTS TO END DUMPING BY 3 COUNTRIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Acting to protect American industries from the dumping of foreign goods, the treasury department today slapped down anti-dumping penalties on four classes of imports coming from three nations.

Hardest hit in the treasury's first batch of rulings was Japan whose million dollar trade in rubber soled shoes and electric light bulbs with this country was convicted of dumping charges and faced with greatly increased tariff duties.

Thumb Tacks Included.

In addition to the orders against rubber soled shoes and light bulbs from Japan, the treasury issued "finding of dumping" orders against celluloid covered thumb tacks from Germany and stearic acid from Holland.

Six other anti-dumping orders are awaiting final approval on Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin's desk. Included among the imports yet to be acted upon is a crucial case involving steel from Germany, France, and England which was started a year ago upon complaints from the largest American steel mills.

Charge Price Too Low.

In each of its orders against the four commodities covered today, the treasury declared that an investigation had revealed injury to the American industry from imports originating in three countries involved. The orders also declared that in each instance the imports had been selling here "at less than fair value."

As each shipment of the commodities included in today's orders reaches American ports, customs officials will determine the amount below cost of production at which the goods are valued by the importer. A tariff sufficient to make up this difference will then be assessed, and it is believed that in most cases it will amount to an embargo.

Chinese Take Oath to Avenge Japan's Seizure of Manchuria

SHANGHAI, Sept. 18.—(AP)—China observed its newest "humiliation day" today to mark the second anniversary of the Japanese occupation of Mukden, which presaged the establishment of the Manchukuo government in Manchuria.

At the same time Japanese officials accused the Chinese of occupying the Jehol border town of Kuyuan in violation of the Tangku truce which in May brought an end to the Japanese campaign in Jehol province.

Chinese reports said Japanese threatened to expel the Chinese from the area but military officials, both Chinese and Japanese, said no clash was foreseen because Chinese troops entered the district to drive out bandits and then withdrew.

Swear to Avenge Humiliation.

Under orders of the government, millions of Chinese were said to have repeated a prescribed oath: "I swear to avenge this humiliation."

Many meetings commemorating the loss of Manchuria were held throughout the country today. Flags were flown at half staff. Places of amusement were closed. In some respects the country was in mourning. Business, however, was not interrupted, for the government had decreed that "production must be maintained."

In Nanking, the capital, the day was signalized by the public burning of Japanese goods seized by an anti-Japanese association. Vernacular newspapers urged the public to "remember Japanese aggression and prepare for more."

Japs Eye Chinese Region.

In Shanhaikwan Japanese directed inhabitants in a celebration of the incorporation of that Great Wall town into Manchukuo, as a delegation returned from giving a petition, asking such a move, to Gov. Pu-Yi of Manchukuo.

Propaganda material was dropped from Japanese airplanes. It urged that the whole region be taken into Manchukuo. The city was occupied early this year at the beginning of the Japanese drive in Jehol and North China.

Gov. Yu Hsueh Chung of Hopei province, meanwhile, charged Japanese military authorities with trying to force inhabitants of the Shanhaikwan area to ask its annexation to Manchuria.

He said Japanese control of the city enabled them to "force celebrations with the object of presenting the appearance that the Chinese desire annexation."

Have Pinkerton Detectives Protect Your Car

A new service available only to members of the Chicago Motor Club

MOST motorists carry insurance, but no matter what insurance you carry, you must lose money should your car be stolen. In addition to this first loss, there is the loss of use to be considered. Between the time you report the theft and the insurance company pays the claim, sixty days or more must elapse. During this time you are without a car.

What would you pay to have an assurance that your car would not be stolen?

A member of the Chicago Motor Club, commenting on the Pinkerton Protective Service, recently placed at the disposal of members, said: "I'd pay a hundred dollars to know that my car was protected."

For the first time in the history of the great Pinkerton Detective Agency, automobiles are protected in the same manner that jewelry stores, banks and other business houses are protected. This service is available only to members of the Chicago Motor Club.

When you join the club, you are given a Pinkerton sticker, which you place on your windshield. This emblem is a warning to thieves. Pinkerton uniformed men patrol the streets of Chicago. The Pinkerton force guards the cars displaying stickers. But should your car be stolen, or stripped of its accessories, special operatives are assigned to the case.

Protect your car with this money-saving service today. The cost is small, about 4 cents a day, newspaper money. Mail the coupon now, and get those two emblems of protection on your car, the Pinkerton sticker and the Chicago Motor Club emblem.

Other services of the club are: American Automobile Association; World-Wide Emergency Road Service; World Wide Towing Service; Travel and Outing Department; A. A. A. Hotels; Car Forwarding; Free Notary Service; Home District Department; Telegraph Services; Brake and Headlight Testing; Legislative Work; Accident Prevention; Motor News; Certificate of Title Depository; Highway Engineering and Sign Department; $1000 Personal Accident Policy; Insurance Department; Legal Department; Protection against Speed Traps; and World Wide Bail Bond.

Do the Rockefellers and the Duponts Choose the

Automatic Oil Heating System?

ARE you confused by the claims being made in behalf of various types of automatic heating equipment for your home? If so, read this announcement and investigate the QUIET MAY Automatic Oil Heating System before you permit anyone to install any equipment in your home.

35,000 home owners have taken the QUIET MAY Automatic Oil Heating System into their homes. And such home owners! The Rockefellers; the Duponts; the Raskobs of General Motors; the Simmons', of bed fame; F. T. Bedford of Standard Oil Company of New York; Paul Fleischmann of Standard Brands; Glenn Martin, the airplane builder; Daniel Willard, President of Baltimore & Ohio Railroad; Kenneth Brownell, Vice President of the American Smelting & Refining Company; J. B. Duke, the Tobacco King; The Vatican at Rome; The Japanese Government; and Lloyds Bank at London . . . and thousands of others as outstanding.

The Rockefellers and the Duponts can't be wrong. They are able to obtain the most expert advice. And they selected QUIET MAY to heat their homes automatically because QUIET MAY represents the highest advancement in automatic heating engineering principles; because it saves money in fuel consumption; because it has outstanding features which are patented!

QUIET MAY uses less fuel . . . uses low grade oil . . . has the gerotor pump which cost $300,000.00 to perfect . . . has a sapphire jeweled atomizer. And with the Water-Backed Combustion Chamber—an exclusive QUIET MAY feature—installed in your old boiler, you have a complete, modern oil heating system with an operating efficiency as great or greater than other systems requiring new boiler installation—at approximately one-half the cost.

The QUIET MAY Automatic Oil Heating System can be installed in any type furnace or boiler—hot water, steam, vapor or warm air. A small amount monthly pays for it. You can't afford to buy any home heating system without investigating QUIET MAY. Call or phone.

BROCKTON STRIKE DELAYS SHOE INDUSTRY CODE

Several Thousand Men Quit Work.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—(AP)—A strike of several thousand shoe workers at Brockton, Mass., today added to the difficulties of National Recovery administrators in removing obstacles threatening to delay promulgation of a code of competition for the boot and shoe industry.

The Brockton strike, carried out despite a tentative agreement between employés, representatives, and Senator Wagner, chairman of the national labor board, gave added importance to a clause in the proposed shoe code providing that labor contracts existing on June 16 be recognized for the life of the agreements.

The Brockton walkout was in protest against such contracts between manufacturers and the boot and shoe workers union. A number of workers who withdrew from the union to join the Brotherhood of Shoe and Allied Craftsmen were dismissed for non-payment of union dues and other workers walked out in protest.

Agreement Fails to Hold.

Wagner last week announced an agreement with leaders of the disputing unions whereby all strikers were to return to their jobs, with dues of workers not in good standing with the union to be deducted by manufacturers and held in escrow pending a decision by the labor board on the issues involved.

Wagner expressed disappointment at the action of the Brockton workers, but said the board would take no further steps until its decision was made on the inter-union dispute. He said he might start work on the opinion tonight, but added that because of the complicated legal questions involved it probably would not be completed for two or three days.

"There's nothing more we can do until final adjudication is announced," the senator said. "We assume all the parties will abide by our decision."

Meanwhile, C. C. Williams, deputy NRA administrator in charge of the shoe code, requested a ruling from the legal division on the labor contract clause, which was assailed by representatives of the Brotherhood of Shoe and Allied Craftsmen at the public hearing of the shoe code.

A revised draft of the code, containing minor revisions agreed upon at conferences between officials of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers and the American Shoe Manufacturers association, was expected by Williams tomorrow.

Differ on Merit Clause.

The merit clause remained an important issue. Williams declined to say whether he had requested the manufacturers to withdraw the provision, but the employers have freely expressed their intention of insisting on its retention. Labor has been equally as emphatic in demanding its elimination and announcing it would oppose any interpretive language.

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor said today he hoped some action would be taken soon to merge the five largest of the numerous shoe workers unions and indicated he would attend any conference that might be held for that purpose.

FIRE IN HALIFAX FAMOUS PIER 2; LOSS IS $300,000

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Fire in Halifax's famous pier 2 early today had caused about $300,000 damage. A consignment of flour recently landed from the great lakes was destroyed.

The flames were spreading rapidly and dense smoke from the burning freight was holding fire fighters at bay.

Two steamers moored at the pier when the fire started, the liner Newfoundland and the Freighter Moyra, had moved out into the stream to escape the flames.

GEORGE WICKERSHAM, 75 TODAY, WARNS OF PRESENT TENDENCIES

New York, Sept. 18.—[Special.]—George W. Wickersham, United States attorney general in President Taft's cabinet, will be 75 years old tomorrow.

In his offices today he looked back over more than half a century of professional and official activity and forward toward the hidden patterns of the new era that is beginning.

Looking at the turning point in history, he weighed present tendencies in the political, economic and social fields and issued a warning of grave dangers ahead if these tendencies are not checked.

He found the federal government appropriating powers over state and local governments and individuals by means of money grants to which it has no right under the constitution. He found the government entering into competition with private business, thus discouraging private initiative and threatening to make us a nation overburdened with functionaries, like France. He found a menace to small businesses in the national recovery program and an invasion of private rights under it which would not be allowed if attempted by non-governmental agencies.

He found the government rapidly drifting into a state of socialism in which, as he put it, "the activities of the government are devoted to affecting class relations, the conditions under which men may labor, telling men who shall work for them and for how much, and even how much profit, if any, they may earn."

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 60; recovered, 78; stripped, 8. [From police records for the twenty-four hour period ending at midnight Sunday].

Four young automobile thieves were overpowered and arrested yesterday when they returned to a private garage at 1016 North Winchester avenue to get the parts they had stripped from two automobiles. At the Racine avenue police station they confessed that they had stolen the cars. They are suspected of being members of an organized gang of automobile thieves.

The thieves are Eugene Wojcik, 26 years old, 2115 Crystal street; John Melos, 19 years old, 2255 Armitage avenue; Edward Kendzierski, 18 years old, 1819 Girard street, and Albert Mazek, 16 years old, 2051 North Albany avenue.

Sergts. Joseph Ponicki and Edward Kennedy received information that the automobiles had been stripped in the garage which the youths had rented on Sunday from the owner, Joseph Liss. The policemen watched the place for 13 hours and were waiting when the four backed another car into the garage and began to load on the stripped parts. Wojcik, their alleged leader, resisted, but was subdued by a blow on the head with a shotgun.

A man who gave his name as Carl Miller, 23 years old, 1315 North Sawyer avenue, when he was arrested in a stolen car on Sunday, was identified yesterday as Carl O'Neil, who fled from the Pontiac reformatory two months ago. He was serving a term for robbery.

RELIGIOUS EDITOR SEES U. S. HEADED TOWARD FASCISM

Paul Hutchinson, managing editor of the Christian Century, interdenominational religious journal, yesterday told members of the Methodist Ministers' association at the Chicago temple that the United States is headed toward Fascism. Dr. Hutchinson has just returned from Germany where he has been studying the Hitler régime.

"We are headed for a Fascisti social revolution in America," said Dr. Hutchinson. "There is an increasing belief in the 'leadership principle' in this country particularly among the members of the middle class. This belief arises from the conviction that a Fascisti type of dictatorship is the only way a society as complex as ours can be governed."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Hundreds of registrations of gold holdings were pouring in upon Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin tonight as the deadline for filing returns on gold held in amounts over $100 fell at midnight.

Although the investigation by the department of justice had revealed only 342 known defiant gold hoarders, the number of returns coming into the treasury department tonight was said to be many times that total. A brisk demand for the forms on which to make returns continued late into the evening, coming from all sections of the country.

Uncovers Many Holders.

Treasury officials were hopeful that the device of requiring returns had uncovered many gold hoarders whom the government had been unable to find. Gold variously estimated up to half a billion dollars is being held outside the treasury, with government agents previously unable to locate it.

Success of the anti-hoarding campaign still hangs in the balance, both the treasury and justice departments admitted, however. Gold holders who cannot qualify for government permission to keep the metal have until Oct. 3 to surrender their holdings.

Prosecutions in Doubt.

Prosecutions for not making returns would be fairly simple, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings declares, but he confesses also that if a large number of hoarders make returns and still refuse to give up their gold, they will have the government on more uncertain legal grounds.

The constitutionality of the law requiring gold holdings over $100 to be surrendered has never been tested, and the government has twice put off dead lines for action against hoarders, giving rise to rumors that the attorney general is not anxious to take the law into the courts.

Thus far the government has succeeded by persuasion and investigations in rounding up 698 million dollars in gold. No estimate of the additional number of returns or the amount involved will be possible for a few days, according to the treasury.

HOLD UP DRUG STORE.

BRITISH LABOR CHIEFS EULOGIZE ROOSEVELT AND RIP MACDONALD

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The national executive council of the labor party, in a report to be submitted at its annual conference in Hastings next month, will eulogize President Roosevelt's program for industrial recovery in the United States. The report censures what it calls the "supine attitude" of the MacDonald government in face of Britain's pressing problems.

"Here in Britain," the council will report, "the national government, even with a docile parliament, fails utterly to shake off its self contentment except to preach and practice false economy, to protect still further those who live on profits and rents, whose faithful servants they appear to be.

"Roosevelt, by public construction schemes, reduced hours and abolition of child labor, seeks a way to escape from the deepening crisis of American capitalism. Here in Britain the most hopeful word so far is Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain's assurance that 10 years hence unemployment may be reduced to its normal proportions."

5,000 Wayne County Men to Get Places.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Swarming out into the streets, paralyzing traffic for three blocks in downtown Detroit today, a good humored throng of veterans, estimated by police at one time to number 5,000, answered the call of the Ford Motor company. That concern offered employment to 5,000 war veterans, to be hired through the local American Legion council.

Some of the veterans slept all night on the pavement in front of the American Legion Memorial hall; others brought campstools, magazines and playing cards. There was little disorder.

Rex Humphrey, comander of the Wayne county council of the Legion, said 800 were interviewed today, from whom 300 will be selected for employment at the Ford plants. Three hundred will be selected each day, he said, until the 5,000 quota is filled. The veterans must come from Wayne county.

One spokesman of the Ford company when questioned, said the new hiring plan had nothing at all to do with the company's position in the NRA." The company has not yet signed the NRA automotive code.

Previous to the announcement that the 5,000 veterans would be hired, the company had 45,000 men on its employment roll.

Several veterans during the day protested to Humphrey that they were told they would be admitted to the interviewing room only if they paid $3 for a Legion membership, but Humphrey declared such a complaint was "absurd."

NEW DISORDERS IN COAL FIELDS IN PENNSYLVANIA

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 18.—(AP)—New outbreaks of violence in the Scranton anthracite miners' strike were marked today by a bombing, clashes between pickets and miners, wounding of a 17 year old boy bystander, and destruction of 20 workers' automobiles. Explosion of a dynamite charge at the home of William J. Brennan, former president of district 1, United Mine Workers of America, damaged Brennan's home and an adjoining dwelling. No one was injured there.

FEDERAL COUPONS GIVEN

To An American Manufacturer:

Dear Mr. Manufacturer:

Detroit is a responsive market to good advertisers--for instance: Media Records reports total advertising in Detroit newspapers for the first seven months of 1933 as follows:

The Detroit News	7,600,403
Second paper	4,094,381
Third paper	3,379,526

National advertisers find Detroit to be about the Fourth Market in the United States and Media Records reports the collective choice of this class of advertiser for the first seven months of 1933 to show--

The Detroit News	1,262,811
Second paper	739,837
Third paper	620,218

Of course, Detroit is the great motor city of the United States and this classification of advertiser, for the first seven months of 1933, taking advantage of Detroit consumer potentials, distributed advertising patronage thus:

The Detroit News	524,116
Third paper	313,414

Detroit has splendid department stores--on a par with similar retail outlets anywhere. These department stores have found it to their advantage to distribute their advertising among Detroit newspapers, during the first seven months of 1933, in this wise:

The Detroit News	2,109,536
Second paper	886,353
Third paper	649,245

Of course, grocery and food product manufacturers must watch the advertising dollar carefully. They do so and during the first seven months of 1933 expended it for newspaper display advertising on the following division:

The Detroit News	625,834
Second paper	408,556
Third paper	183,937

The Detroit News trading area, which is your immediate market, contains about 48% of Michigan's total population—and in this Trading Zone, The Detroit News is favored with the largest circulation reception by 42,000 Sunday and 33,000 week-day copies. The News uses 4500 carrier boys to distribute to their regular customers every day. Each of these carriers is bonded and delivers no other newspaper. 76% of the News City Circulation is home delivered, covering 71% of the financially able homes of Detroit.

The News always welcomes the national advertiser in the Detroit market. It is a proved market; a repeat market; a profitable market. Employment, automobile production, and wages are showing most favorable trends.

Home circulation and public confidence is a fulcrum by which success may be achieved in Michigan's leading city. The News provides those requisites.

Sincerely yours,

The Detroit News

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

NOT ON BUT BEHIND THE SCREEN.

A motion picture operator, complaining that his pay was being taken from him, was beaten up in the union headquarters. The man who beat him, using a gun butt, was one of Maloy's favorites. He was also the fellow who was taking the operator's pay. Maloy, the business agent of the union, is tough and strong politically. What might be serious trouble with the law turns out to be very little trouble when he gets into it. The union and the moving picture business together have been ruled by bombing, assaults and murder.

A union operator who went to headquarters to protest because he was not allowed to work was killed, and although preponderant evidence showed that he had been an unarmed man with a just complaint, Ralph O'Hara, another Maloy favorite, was cleared in court. When moving picture exhibitors, needing only one operator, were resisting the attempt of Maloy to put two in each theater, many of the theaters were bombed. No real protection was given them nor were the criminals brought to book. The crimes were altogether above board, there being no possibility or pretense of concealing what the purpose was, and yet the exhibitors were quite helpless until an arrangement was made with the union boss. The authorities were interested in compromise and not in punishment. Maloy even had a brother in the city hall, in charge of the licensing of the operators.

Moving picture exhibitors are particularly vulnerable to criminal attack because their patrons can easily be frightened away by bombing and other acts of violence. Terrorism is ruinous to the business and when the law breaks down the owners are compelled to get immunity where they can. The modern mechanism of projecting a moving picture is simple and easily handled, but the operators' pay has been kept at a high standard, and the union management has been able to collect a great deal of money which it can use to sweeten the protection it needs for its immunities. Nearly all the conditions produced by this scandalous management controlling a popular amusement industry are well known and the acts of violence are never involved in any doubt of authorship.

For years Mr. Maloy has been asking this city what it proposed to do about it and the answer has been just what he expected—nothing. Honest members of the union have suffered from his manipulation of permits and jobs, the industry has been levied upon, and the public has been exposed to violence. Nothing really adequate can be said of such a situation permitted to exist in control of the most popular amusement offered in the town.

GOOD WORK BY MR. EASTMAN.

When the railway emergency act became law last June many transportation men expressed the fear that the so-called coördinator act was a long step in the direction of government ownership of railways. The administration of the act so far has shown that the effect is likely to be quite the reverse. Railway men are being given opportunities to suggest changes in operating as well as traffic schedules that have all the earmarks of an effort to restore traffic initiative, now assumed by the interstate commerce commission, to railway officers. The fact that these ideas are in the form of anonymous communications shows that Mr. Eastman knows the railway man's mind and has adopted this means of obtaining the best thought.

Those who expected that the coördinator would assume a managerial attitude, with sheaves of orders emanating from his office daily, have been badly disappointed. The coördinator has not yet issued a single order of any importance, but has contented himself with suggestions which will be adopted only after full discussion by practical men. Nevertheless the threat exists and is spurring railway men to double their efforts to improve the condition of the carriers.

Possibly the most encouraging feature is the apparent doubt in Mr. Eastman's mind that rates based on mileage and percentage theories as followed by the interstate commerce commission in recent years are beneficial to the carriers. The commission has never set up any machinery for checking the results of its orders. The coördinator is making such an inquiry.

NEW YORK'S TOWER OF BABEL.

When edificial insanity disturbs otherwise well ordered minds ancient counselors, past the age of enthusiasm but not arrived at the border of senescence, should be allowed to take matters in hand. When Trajan's disease begins to run a fever in a noble mind the prudent and considerate habits of a lifetime may take to the wind and the victim may be in luck to come to in the hickory blankets of a stout barrel.

Rockefeller center is proof enough that no one can rely on natural immunity for protection because, although John D. Jr.'s father still regards ten cents as a lot of money, the center with its seventy story monument and Radio City for Roxy and his Gang is evidence of the insidiousness of the edificial microbe. A man may begin like Russell Sage believing that two pairs of trousers is too much money tied up in pants and end by building a marble pants pressery to preserve his name. The wistfulness for the immortality of granite, marble and steel is melancholy evidence of the conscious fragility of life. The moth would be a bronze eagle.

One glorious eccentricity commissioned Rivera, the Mexican artist and communist, to do murals for the Rockefeller cloud buster and he, being a proletarian evangelist, did the head of Lenin as the inspiration of Red labor. It was boarded over to spare the emotions of the Rockefeller tenants. The hubbub over this is renewed when the English mural painter, Brangwyn, is asked to modify his painting of the Sermon on the Mount so as to leave out the person of the Divine Preacher. Some misgiving may have been caused by the discovery that Brangwyn once did the figure of Christ in modern clothing. The intimation might be rejected as incredible.

One mural is required by its appropriateness. It should represent the Tower of Babel, an early model for many reproductions.

GERMANY AND THE NAZIS.

Hitler's Germany is surrounding itself with unfriendly and apprehensive neighbors. The opinion of the world is again turning against the Germany of chauvinist enthusiasms, persecuting zeal and repressive and provocative government policies. The legend of Teutonic fury, widespread during the war, but later modified by the moderateness of the German republic, is being revived to the detriment of the nation in the thought of the rest of the world. Again it seems probable, even if incredible, that the Germans in control are determined to face their future with the rest of the world aroused against them. And again the rest of the world tries to understand the contradictions of a people who produce so much that is admirable, humane, scholarly and intelligent, distorted by so much that is furious and disturbing.

In many respects German government produces a genius of lawful order, stability, honesty, and respect for the common good, justly admired by other people who have found it more difficult to obtain these virtues of administration from their own political action. These German virtues were found in the smaller political units such as the municipalities and some of the constituent states. It is the German nationalist who is now obsessed by the mystic puerilities of Hitler and who gives alarm everywhere by the excesses of speech and action.

A German protesting against severe criticism and condemnation of the present state of his country might say that the rest of the world drove him into these courses, and he will not be easy to answer. Certainly he was promised more than he was given. Mr. Wilson, apparently speaking for all the enemies of monarchical Germany, told the German people that, once they dethroned kaiserism and set up democracy, a friendly world would welcome them without a reproach and without an injury. They accepted this word as good and tried a liberal government of the people. They found that the word was not made good. It wasn't a responsibility of the peacemakers that Moscow attacked the new republic on every open front, but it was the fault of the peacemakers that the Germans who might have resisted this found themselves constantly weakened by peace conditions imposed on them. The feeling grew that if Germany did not succeed in resisting it was doomed to an inferiority which would destroy the spirit and strength of the people. These fears may not have been justified in any long view of the future, but they could undermine government in Germany, which seemed to be accepting such consequences.

Hitler and the excesses of his Nazis may be the products of the treaty of Versailles. If so, that does not make the folly wise or brutality condonable. But it spreads responsibility into quarters which must assume a share of it, although it cannot relieve the present governors of the German people from facing their accountability if the consequences of world criticism and opposition have serious effect. No one who has any hope for the future of organized society can believe that the brutal, liberty destroying governments of absolutism to which so much of Europe has turned as to a new model can prevail. They too much degrade individual worth and too much destroy the value of life as modern man has learned to demand it. Society under the terror is a plunge backward into miseries from which humanity has struggled too long to escape. Confidence in the future must assign this new type of savage emotionalism and mailed fist to a passing insanity, caused by fear and temporarily powerful fallacies.

LESSON OF THE TEXAS VOTE.

[The Texas Weekly.]

With respect to a majority of its population, Texas is wet; with respect to a majority of its counties, Texas is dry. Paradoxical as this appears to be, it is a far healthier situation than that which existed under universal prohibition. Never has the futility of the 18th amendment been so strikingly revealed as it was in the Texas election. If one state can emerge from a prohibition election with most of its people wet and most of its counties dry, even the most ardent defender of the 18th amendment should realize the absurdity of any attempt to impose the same rigid standards of liquor control on all sections of the country when it is undeniable that divergence in behavior and customs is much more pronounced within a nation as a whole than it can possibly be within a single state. For this reason, if for no other, it is extremely gratifying that Texas voted to repeal the 18th amendment. Texas today should not be classed either as wet or dry. The issue is merely in the hands of the people where it belongs. And the issue in other states is in the hands of the people of other states, likewise where it belongs. The lesson to be derived from the prohibition struggle throughout the nation was unwittingly supplied by the mandate of the Texas electorate—the right of local subdivisions to determine their own standards of temperance and public deportment and to guide the liquor traffic as they will. Thus is the new liberalism born in the reversion to the principle of personal rights.

IMPORTANT MEMBER.

"Now, be sure and write plain on those bottles," said the farmer to the druggist, "which is for the horse and which is for me. I don't want anything to happen to that horse before the spring plowing."

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

AUTUMN, when all's said and done, is the best time of year. In the spring you go out and peer around and some one says, "Oh, there's green grass over there," and you go over in great glee, but there's no green grass; somebody spilled a can of green paint. And in summer the woods are lovely and full of leaves that rustle in the wind and the shadows dance in the glades, but also the woods are full of mosquitoes and the ants get in the cake and the butter when you spread the picnic lunch. But autumn, that is the time! There's no joy in the world like walking through great piles of brown and red and russet leaves and kicking them this way and that.

THERE'S A TANG in the wind and the squirrels make an awful fuss in the trees storing up nuts for the winter. It hasn't happened yet in these parts, I rode around in the old bus Sunday and it seemed more like the beginning of June than anything else. The leaves are as green as though they had just been dyed, and they hang on to the trees like a Republican postmaster to his job. But you just wait, leaves. It won't be long now. Old Jack Frost is sneaking closer and closer every night. Pretty soon you will be chasing each other all over the place and doing a huddle in every hollow. And I'm going to walk around among you and give you an extra kick for staying up on the tree so long.

Here in the weary nights when you are dead,
I shall not weep the childish tears of grief,
Remembering you told me life was brief,
And death of love the only death to dread.
I shall walk gayly down the way you led;
Hold your high code of honor and belief,
And wear as lightly as a laurel leaf
The burden of your hopes upon my head.

And if they say I have forgotten soon
They cannot know this gift of grief is best;
For, dying, I might seek you in the moon
Or find you in the sunsets of the west.
They cannot know, as you, beloved, do,
That all my living is in love of you.

"ORIGINAL LITTLE EVA in 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' Hale and Hearty at 85."—Headline. Well, well, well! That makes me remember that I took a Little Eva to supper twenty-five years ago and she was billed as the "Original Little Eva." She brought her grandson along—he played Simon Legree in the show—and her son, who was Marks the Lawyer, and a granddaughter who played Eliza. Little Eva also brought the four bloodhounds along who chased Eliza across the ice. And the bloodhounds ate a steak apiece. It was quite expensive taking Little Eva out to dine. Of course the Little Eva who is now 85 must be another of the original Little Evas, for the one I took to supper in those days long gone would be a hundred and ten by this time.

TIME SETS all things right. December will settle this nudist cult. Anyhow, they'll have to put on their ear muffs.

TALK ABOUT this changing world! It's fairly spinning these days and one gets dizzy trying to keep up with it. Right up on Delaware place a sign has blossomed out and the passersby who see it rub their eyes and pinch themselves to be sure they're not dreaming. But there it is, "BARROOM." Why, a few years ago if you put out that sign you'd get your rear tires shot right out from under you and then go to Leavenworth for life. But there the sign is and old timers who thought they'd never draw a free breath again take one look at it and burst right out into hot scalding tears.

IMPARTIAL.

The mighty sleep as soundly
As those of lesser breed,
Nor stir with old ambition
Nor have a different need.
For death enthralls the warrior
As sure as peasants' sleep,
Dame Sans Merci shall hold them
And all their travail keep.
A common level finds them
And thus their heritage,
Beyond these mortal confines
Of earthly pilgrimage.

AND ANOTHER THING I'd like to say to the board of commissioners who are to decide how to handle hard likker when it's put on sale (that is, legally). If 15 cents is the price of a drink, make the dealers sell two drinks for a quarter as the old saloons used to do. That gives a man a chance to save money. I used to know a broken down financier who hung around saloons but would never accept a free drink because he was poor but proud. He would stand around the end of the bar until some customer came in alone and laid down 15 cents on the bar and ordered a drink. Then the impoverished but haughty one would walk up to the bar and lay down 10 cents and say to the barkeep, "Make it two." Saving five cents on each drink doesn't seem much, but in a week or a month or five years it would run up to a very considerable sum.

THROUGH A GLASS CLEARLY.

This lens through which men scrutinize the stars,
Their hearts of fire that throb against the night,
Through which they may behold the stride of suns
Across the firmament, reveals His might.

And this through which they look on loveliness
The dandelion's silk, the beetle's gauze—

ADELAIDE LOVE.

CONSTITUTION WEEK is over and I didn't know about it until it was too late. Gosh! I meant to send flowers even if I didn't go out to the cemetery.

THE FORTIES ARE IN LUCK.

DR. W. B. PITKIN has written a very interesting book entitled "Life Begins at Forty." His thesis is that middle-aged persons are or should be the most efficient as well as the happiest of all peoples. However, he is fair. In setting down the losses occasioned by the progress of the years he gives the following facts:

The metabolic rate is a measure of the rate of combustion of the human fires. The thyroid secretion is the agent which determines the rate at which the fires burn, the fuel used is the food eaten and certain parts of the tissue, and the product is heat and energy. The metabolic rate is measured by catching the expired breath for a specified time, analyzing it to determine how much smoke—in this instance called carbonic acid—it contains, and using this and the body weight to calculate the metabolic rate. We set the normal metabolic rate as 100. Pitkin says if the rate which is normal at age 12 is set at 100, that which is normal at age 17 is 80. There is no further decline until age 35. Between that and age 40 there is a slight decrease. This decrease is somewhat more rapid from age 40 to age 53. From that to age 60 it is more rapid.

At age 60 the normal rate is 56, assuming that of age 12 to be 100. The decline in the efficiency of the endocrine glands, Pitkin says, begins at age 45. However, that depends on which endocrine we have in mind as well as on the individual. The thymus, if it is an endocrine, has dried up, and, physiologically, is inactive years before age 45, or even 30. The pineal, if it has an endocrine function, is inactive after the years of pubertal growth.

Myxedema, an inactivity of the thyroid, is most in evidence around age 50. The ovary becomes inactive at a somewhat earlier age. It is claimed that enlargement of the prostate, which is much in evidence at age 60, is due to inactivity of the male gonads and of the anterior pituitary.

Pitkin says the brain grows irregularly and slowly up to age 35. At that time it begins to lose weight slowly. At age 65 it has suffered a loss of 1,500 grains in weight. The reference is to change in size and weight of the brain and not to its capacity.

There is a condition of the eyeball, going by the name presbyopia, in which the organ has less than the normal amount of resiliency and springiness. In a sense its machinery for adjusting the lens to distances is decreased. Some presbyopia can be detected after age 40, and, as the years go by, it increases. One reason why baseball players fall down in batting at about 40 or earlier is because their eyes get stiff and they cannot tell just where the ball is headed for as they stand at bat.

There is some loss of keenness of hearing soon after man passes age 30. The ear muscles are slow in adjusting the tension of the ear drum.

Pitkin sets ages 37 and 38 as the period in which there is greatest decline in physical energy. The loss in dexterity and manipulative skill depends very much upon the nature of the effort required and the person under test. Pitkin found that the people who were engaged daily in doing certain work had suffered no loss of dexterity at age 50 in the doing of that particular task. However, when set to doing another task the story was somewhat different. We hold on to our skill when it comes to doing the things we are trained to do.

A group of a dozen or more people of the average age of 79 had suffered only a 25 per cent reduction in dexterity in doing a job for which they were trained.

SLEEPING SICKNESS.

REPLY.

It is caused by infection with the virus of the disease. The virus locates in the midbrain. The disease is classed as contagious and infectious, though it is always difficult to prove how a given case was exposed or that it has caused another case.

Some cases are mentally dull and sleep a good deal. Others go through just the opposite mental state. Double vision is an early and very suspicious symptom.

Convalescence is apt to be very long—several months. A change in personality is liable to be an after-effect. There are no paralyses and no wasting.

Nature cures the majority of the cases. The physician's task is to meet symptoms.

Mrs. L. B. T. writes:

1. A man 43 years old had a severe nosebleed not due to injury. The next morning he had a black eye, also not due to injury. Were they due to the same cause?
2. Could high blood pressure be the cause?
3. Is it dangerous?

REPLY.

1. They could have been.
2. Yes.
3. Neither the nosebleed nor the black eye is. High blood pressure is.

NRA Question Box

Requests for information concerning the NRA will be printed in this column. It is urged that questions be stated briefly. Following are some typical questions occasioned by the national recovery act and their answers:

Question: There is a firm flying the Blue Eagle which hires help at $12 a week and after employés are there a week or so they are cut to $9. Is it right for them to do this?

Answer: It is in distinct violation of their signed agreement with the President. The minimum wage to be paid in that industry is $12 a week. The violation should be reported to NRA headquarters at 201 North Wells street.

Question: What are the minimum wages of a salesgirl in a five and ten cent store? I work from 10 o'clock in the morning to 6:30 in the evening, six days a week.

Answer: Five and ten cent stores flying the Blue Eagle come under the modified President's reëmployment agreement for retail stores. The minimum wage is $14 a week for cities the size of Chicago. Maximum hours are 40 per week except at Christmas, during inventory, and other peak periods.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

MUST BE IN WRITING.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About four years ago a mother borrowed $125 from a friend. She signed a note for this amount. In January of this year she died and only $20 of the amount loaned was repaid. When she secured the loan she asked that nothing be said to her husband. Her daughter was there at the time and [1] made a verbal statement that if her mother did not pay she would pay. Now this is in the hands of a collector, and he is trying to get the money. He has threatened to sue her husband. 2. Can they collect from him? 3. Does a man have to pay this debt? 4. Is her daughter liable on this bill? J. C.

1. Under the statute of frauds an agreement to answer for the debt or default of another person must be in writing and signed by the person to be charged.
2. Not unless the debt represented family expenses or necessaries.
3. See 2.
4. See 1. Of course, the creditor is entitled to collect out of the assets of the deceased if those assets are sufficient.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

INSURANCE BENEFICIARY.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When my father died my mother, brothers, and sisters were left pretty well destitute and then we found that my married sister held my father's insurance policy, paying the premiums on it. My father left no will. Is there some way in which we can compel her to give at least half the money to my mother? C. R.

If the sister was named as beneficiary in the policy she could keep the money unless she had made some agreement to the contrary. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

AIR ROUTES.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is there a certain defined route for airplanes coming to the Municipal airport at 63d and Cicero? 2. Are they required to fly at a certain height? A. E. M.

1. Yes, in the sense that there are landmarks making it easier for the flyer to follow a certain route. No, in the sense that there is no law requiring him to follow a certain route.
2. They must fly high enough to be safe.

A TAX BILL.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Assessor Jacobs is making a splendid fight to collect personal property taxes, but some of his rubber stamp subordinates are comic.

His office sent my flat but one blank—that addressed to "M. D. Crafton." The household consists of wife and self as renters and two young working girls, Misses Dries and Crafton; the mail box has our names simply "Meagher, Dries, Crafton," accounting for the "M. D." in Miss Irene L. Crafton's name. She has no personal property aside from a couple of suitcases of clothes, and worried her little head sick trying to fill out the schedule. It was patent the schedule should have been mailed to meager me, Meagher, but who am I to pipe up like a sap: "Here I am, Mr. Tag-it; pin a rose on me," when nobody called to inquire, but simply copied names on mail box and evidently went to the ball game.

Today, under date of the 11th, comes a mimeographed letter from rubber stamp subordinates, requesting some "M. D." Crafton to appear in room 319 within five days else the office will make an assessment "from the best information available," and add penalty of 50 per cent. Reason? "The schedule submitted by you, in our opinion, does not include a full, complete listing and valuation of your personal property as of April 1, 1932."

Miss Crafton was making $4 to $6 a week until the NRA forced a rise of wages to $12, which has a joker compelling the girls to lay off in rotation a week or so, thus leveling total earnings; and Miss Crafton is even now spending her week's lay-off with a sister in Milwaukee. Hence she cannot possibly "appear within five days" as requested to "give further details" when she already gave full details.

Trusting you can print this case of haphazard assessment procedure, so it may come to the eyes of Mr. Jacobs—one of the few honest men in our whole city government—I remain,

J. FREDERICK MEAGHER.

BY AND WITH.

Mattoon, Ill., Sept. 13.—If the way newspaper writers and others lately are using the prepositions, especially the preposition "by," is correct, then I shall have to learn my grammar over.

I noticed this statement in an item of news:

"A man was struck by a brick in a fight with two other men."

I never knew before that a brick had the power to strike any one. But it is perfectly reasonable to me that any person could strike another with a brick.

I also noticed not long ago in some paper this statement: "A man was killed by a gun." A gun cannot kill a man unless it is in the hands of some one, or it goes off accidentally. Therefore the person who held the gun was the real killer and used a gun to do it with, and I think the sentence should have read, "He was killed with a gun."

WILLIAM GARDNER.

WE SHALL RUN THEM OCT. 22 AND OCT. 29.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—I have just received another letter referring to the color reproductions of paintings from A Century of Progress art exhibition which appeared in THE TRIBUNE a few weeks ago. I believe you have several of these World's Fair plates still unpublished, made by your Mr. Lundberg. May I say with certainty that no reproductions made during the course of this notable exhibition have been of such value to the Art institute and to the art loving public in general as the series published in THE TRIBUNE? I hope we are going to see more of them during the month of October, when we shall open the museum at night to give Chicagoans employed during the day an opportunity of seeing this great exhibition.

ROBERT HARSHE,

DRINKING HABITS.

Oak Park, Ill., Sept. 15.—I just want to tell your correspondent, Mr. Henry Patterson Jones, that there has been a noticeable decrease in drinking of cocktails both by young and old since beer came back. If Mr. Jones could have seen a modern cabaret a year ago and then see one today he would quickly be convinced. A year ago every one in these places drank hard liquor. Today they drink beer and remain at least partially sober.

HOME

...that is where the needs are!

And this newspaper covers the greatest home market at one of the lowest advertising costs among all newspapers in America

Ask almost any woman what she plans to do when spending money becomes more plentiful and she will recite a list of things for the family: Mechanical refrigerator, new floor coverings and hangings, automatic water heater, new clothes, new furniture to replace the old, a new car, perhaps . . . .

Most women have been on restricted budgets for some time, but there have been no restrictions on dreaming and planning. Just as soon as budgets permit, those plans will be translated into sales in some retail store.

Home is where the needs are! Find the home markets, sell the family, and you'll have a permanent volume of sales.

In Philadelphia, the home is the center of interest around which activities revolve. More than 90% of the people live in individual homes; only 5% in apartments; 3% in lodging houses and hotels.

Philadelphia is the greatest home market in America! And it may be developed at an exceptionally low cost because of an unusual newspaper condition.

The Philadelphia Bulletin is edited to interest the entire family, and nearly every family in Philadelphia reads it. Nearly every business man and woman; nearly every doctor and lawyer; nearly every merchant and sales person; nearly every employer in industry, and nearly every worker; nearly every banker and broker; nearly every housewife.

Day after day, year after year, The Philadelphia Bulletin goes into nearly half a million homes. Without premium, prize or circulation contest, without sensationalism in the handling of news . . . . without any inducement other than reading interest in its pages.

The Bulletin's circulation is two and one-half times that of any other Philadelphia evening newspaper, more than any Sunday newspaper, more than all morning newspapers combined.

Philadelphia has many claims to distinction as a market. But from a sales standpoint, these two features are outstanding: First—Philadelphia is a great City of Homes. Second—Nearly every home may be reached through The Philadelphia Bulletin at one of the lowest advertising costs among all newspapers, anywhere.

National advertisers recognize the advantages and economies of the Philadelphia Market by placing more advertising space in The Philadelphia Bulletin than in any other six-day newspaper in America.

10,000 Receiver Petitions Heard by Judge.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $1,239,050, making a total of $69,304,787 collected since the enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act was started on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

Uncollected ..	17,532,091	47,298,725
	1930.	1931.
Sept. 18.....$	128,929	$ 1,013,205

County Judge Jarecki yesterday entered upon the twenty-first week of his enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act. An examination of records disclosed that approximately $24,000,000 in 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxes have been paid into the county treasury as a direct result of his efforts.

The statements of tax collections issued by County Treasurer McDonough during this period have produced perhaps an uncertainty in the mind of the citizen as to the actual effects of the law, which was adopted last April 27. An effort was made to determine exactly what the Kerner-Skarda act has done in the collection of delinquent taxes which otherwise would not have been paid.

This question was asked: "Just how much better off are the city and county as a result of Judge Jarecki's hearings?"

Legal Record Established.

Almost 150 days have elapsed since the county judge began to appoint the county treasurer as receiver for tax delinquent properties. In that time more than 10,000 receiverships petitions have been heard by Judge Jarecki, a record which, lawyers say, has made legal history not only in Illinois but in the United States.

At the present, the county judge is hearing approximately 1,000 tax receivership cases a week. At one time he was hearing 1,500 a week, but was forced to cut down this number because a corps of assistant state's attorneys could not keep up with him.

While Cook county seems to have regarded the hearings with a certain amount of apathy, other states have become interested in this unusual record, and in the states of Michigan, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey legislation patterned after the Kerner-Skarda act is being considered. Hundreds of letters come weekly to the judge from all parts of the nation asking for information concerning the workings of the new law.

Other Tax Figures Involved.

The statements of tax collections emanating from the county treasurer's office have been burdened with figures concerning 1931 tax collections which do not figure in the Kerner-Skarda tax drive and concerning personal property and railroad tax collections which are also not affected. The act applies only to uncollected real estate taxes for 1928, 1929, and 1930.

When the act was passed the collection of delinquent taxes for these three years was at a low ebb. Many large property owners were in open defiance of the tax collector and tax strikes were a subject for popular discussion.

Survey Shows Tax Payments.

In the period between April 27 and Sept. 15, a survey revealed yesterday, $2,724,882 in 1928 real estate taxes has been paid. The 1929 taxes in the same period totaled $7,469,305 and the 1930 taxes paid totaled $13,592,601.

The grand total of $23,786,788 is directly attributable to Judge Jarecki's hearings, tax experts declared. The hearings have also had an indirect result upon personal property tax collections and 1931 real estate tax collections, it is said. The county is thus nearly $24,000,000 richer than it would have been if the Kerner-Skarda act had not been rigidly enforced.

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday announced that all 1931 county corporate tax anticipation warrants held by the public, totaling $800,000 had been retired with recent tax collections. Most of these warrants were held by creditors of the county. Only a few were in the hands of the banks.

The county treasurer also announced that within recent weeks his office has retired all of the 1930 county highway warrants which were in the hands of the public, totaling $3,198,000.

LABORATORY TESTS CHECK EFFICACY OF KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

Show Why This Delicious Cereal Overcomes Common Constipation

There are scientific reasons for the success of ALL-BRAN in preventing and relieving common constipation. Laboratory investigations show that it supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines; and vitamin B to promote appetite, and help tone the intestinal tract.

These two important food-elements aid regular habits, and help do away with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy, so often the result of constipation.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is mild in action—much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using pills and drugs—so often habit-forming!

Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's daily—enough for most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Besides, ALL-BRAN brings your body twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. Equally tasty as a cereal, or used in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

CRA Asks Horner to Call Session on City Tax Muddle

The Chicago recovery administration, through its executive committee, yesterday petitioned Gov. Horner to include in his expected call of a special session of the legislature a broad legislative program for the financial reformation of Cook county governments and their tax system. Gov. Horner is expected to summon he legislature to a special meeting Oct. 3 for the passage of a bond issue for relief of the idle.

The salient points in the suggested CRA program include amendment of the revenue section of the constitution, tax rate limitation, budgetary control, consolidation of local governments and a series of laws to reduce local governments from their present financial morass.

It was emphasized yesterday, however, that the program presented by the CRA subcommittee on legislation was merely a blanket proposal designed to cover all of the ground, for inclusion in the governor's call of the legislature.

Plan to Discuss Program.

The recovery administration, organized by Mayor Kelly and including in its membership the heads of all the large Cook county governments, will hold detailed discussion of the program advanced yesterday, and make specific recommendations regarding it to the governor and legislature at a later day. Gov. Horner was asked to include the following subjects in his call:

1. A joint resolution or resolutions submitting to the electorate of the state at the November, 1934, election an amendment or amendments to the revenue article of the state constitution.

2. Enactment of laws or amendments to existing laws providing for further limitation of tax rates. [The Juul law, passed a quarter of a century ago to limit tax rates, is virtually a dead letter because the majority of rates have been exempt from its restrictions.]

3. Enactment of laws or amendments to existing laws providing for the improvement in regulation of appropriation and tax assessing powers of municipal and quasi-municipal corporations. [This amounts to budgetary control of local governmental expenditures.]

4. Enactment of laws or amendments to existing laws to provide for: [a] greater equity and uniformity in assessments, levy, extension and collection of taxes; [b] installment payment of back taxes; [c] authority for a consolidated tax anticipation warrant of all local governments; [d] funding of floating indebtedness and refinancing of funded debt; [e] application of any surplus from deferred tax collections to abatement of future tax levies; [f] modification or cancellation of debts between governments.

5. Legislation providing for coördination and consolidation of governments.

Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the city council finance committee and a member of the CRA executive committee, said that he will urge the council to petition Gov. Horner to include in his call legislation empowering the council to use discretionary power in fixing the Municipal court budget. That, he said, would relieve the present situation, under which the judges of the court dictate their own budget and have refused to take salary cuts, while other city employes have been cut 78 days' pay.

Presents Committee Report.

Alfred Cowles, president of the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency, is chairman of the legislative subcommittee. He presented its report at a meeting of the executive committee in the county building at which Newton C. Farr, its chariman, presided.

The proposal to cancel intergovernmental debts is new to discussions of governmental finances. The city would be the government principally affected. It now holds in its aggregate of funds more than $20,000,000 in school board tax warrants, purchased to finance school pay days. On the other hand, the city owes the sanitary district between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000 for electric current used for street lighting.

John O. Rees, director of the committee on public expenditures, told the executive committee that the city and school board must meet bond maturity and interest payments totaling about $24,000,000 on Jan. 1 and Feb. 1. The city has legislative authority to refund its bonds, if it can arrange such a deal, but the school board lacks such authority.

UTILITIES GET INJUNCTIONS TO HALT SALES TAX

Supreme Court Ruling Is Needed, Says Judge.

Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher granted temporary injunctions yesterday restraining Joseph J. Rice, state director of finance, from collecting the retailers' occupational tax, or so-called sales tax, from 21 public utility companies.

The plaintiffs include the Commonwealth Edison company, Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, and Western United Gas and Electric company, serving Chicago and suburbs, and 17 downstate concerns, some of which do a business of only a little more than $1,000 a month. The total of taxes involved, on the basis of the July business of the companies, exceed $3,000,000 a year.

Requires Bond by Companies.

Attorney General Otto Kerner represented Director Rice and was given leave to file demurrers to the utility companies' bills preliminary to a full hearing on the injunctions. Judge Fisher required each of the plaintiffs to post a bond for the amount of taxes owed since July 1, when the 2 per cent tax went into effect.

The utility companies assert that they are rendering service and not selling tangible personal property, and that consequently their income is not subject to tax under the provisions of the law.

Wants Supreme Court Ruling

"There should be a ruling by the state Supreme court on the constitutionality of the sales tax," said Judge Fisher. "If it is declared unconstitutional no further procedure will be necessary in this case. But if it is not, we wish to keep these cases in status quo and go into them at that time to discover if public utilities are exempt."

RULES BALLOT BOARD CANNOT CALL ELECTION

Lacks Power to Order Mayoralty Vote.

The board of election commissioners was advised yesterday in a formal opinion written by its attorney, former Gov. Edward F. Dunne, that it has no legal right to call a special election to fill the office of mayor of Chicago.

The opinion was written after a short hearing before Attorney Dunne on a petition filed with the election board by Attorney Leo D. Dolan. The petition held that the election of Mayor Kelly was illegal. Dolan also has instituted mandamus proceedings to compel the holding of a mayoralty election. A hearing in the mandamus action will be held on Friday before Circuit Court Judge George F. Rush. Tolan's client in both actions is Andrew O'Donnell, 2100 East 72d place.

First Request in 39 Years.

At the hearing yesterday, Attorney Dunne remarked that the petition constituted the first proposal to the board in thirty-nine years that it initiate an election. Attorney Dolan made a plea based on his petition after which Corporation Counsel Sexton, who represented the city, declared that he had found nothing to show that the board has any power to call a special election.

"I have examined the petition and the laws relating to elections and have by invitation listened to the arguments of the petitioner in support of said petition," Attorney Dunne's opinion said, "and hereby advise you that I cannot find either in the laws or constitution of Illinois or in the arguments of counsel for petitioner any authority giving the board lawful right to issue an immediate call for a special election to fill the vacancy in the office of the mayor of the city of Chicago.

Power to Conduct Elections.

"This board is purely a ministerial board given power to print the ballots and conduct the election when the date of the election is fixed by some statute or in the case of special elections, where the date of the election and the call is made by the officer, board, or commission having that power and duty. It cannot issue a call for an election or fix its date."

The petitioner, O'Donnell, filed suit about a month ago for false arrest following his detention in connection with the police and federal search for Public Enemy Murray Humphries. O'Donnell, a director of the Taxpayers' Civic Forum, admitted at that time that Humphries had lived on an upper floor of the O'Donnell home before he became a fugitive from justice and that Humphries' mother has continued to reside there.

JOBLESS WOMAN HITCH-HIKER ASKS A SMALL FAVOR

Mrs. Luella Mattson, 41 years old, an unemployed milliner, came to Chicago Thursday evening aboard a motor truck on which she had begged a ride from her birthplace in Mercer county. She carried a small brown suitcase which contained all her belongings. After spending the night in the Dearborn street railroad station waiting room she started to walk to the postoffice.

Her suitcase was quite a load, so she stopped in a small store and the owner allowed her to leave it there. After her trip to the postoffice she tried to return to the store, but she could not remember where it was.

Three policemen helped her hunt for it Friday, Saturday and yesterday, but they were unsuccessful. Mrs. Mattson hopes that the friendly shop owner will write to her in care of general delivery, Chicago.

URGE JACOBS TO PUT "Y" HOTELS ON TAX ROLLS

Representatives of the North Shore Hotel Men's association yesterday urged County Assessor J. L. Jacobs to place the Y. M. C. A. hotels at 30 West Chicago avenue and 826 Wabash avenue on the tax rolls at once. The assessor had previously announced that the hotels would be assessed because their profits showed they were exceeding the benevolent and religious purposes which made them tax exempt under a charter granted 72 years ago.

At the conference yesterday George B. McKibbin, president of the Chicago Y. M. C. A., contended that rooms at the hotel at 826 Wabash avenue rented for an average of 50 cents a night and that residents had been aided in financial difficulties.

J. L. Vanderslice, secretary of the hotel association, declared that the untaxed Y. M. C. A. hotels offered unfair competition to commercial hotels and did no more charitable work than other hotels. The hearing was continued to tomorrow.

Delays Moe Rosenberg's Plea in Income Tax Case

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday continued until Sept. 26 a motion for a bill of particulars for Moe Rosenberg, ex-convict, junk dealer and west side politician, who is charged with violating the income tax laws. Rosenberg, according to the indictment, attempted to evade payment of some $75,000 in taxes.

Moderns Show Right Response to 'Uncle Tom'

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

THE CAST.

Uncle Tom	De Wolf Hopper
Simon Legree	Harry Minturn
Phineas	Victor Sutherland
George Harris	William Pollard
Arthur Shelby	Grant Foreman
Marks	Guy Hickman
Haley	Jack Boyle
St. Clair	Andrew Leigh
Skeggs	Victor Sutherland
Eliza Harris	Margaret Fitch
Marie St. Clair	Frances Carlon
Topsy	Enid Markey
Ophelia	Margaret Slavin
Eva	Marian Palmer
Emmeline	Maxine Garner

And Others.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"You should treat this old play," said Manager Harry Minturn in the address with which he prefaced his revival of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the Studebaker theater last night, "with the respect you would give your grandfather and grandmother at the age of 80 years."

This advice, which neatly disarms the smarties who make a point of snickering at old melodramas, indicates the point of view with which the famous folk-play has been staged. The performance is not a burlesque or a sophisticated whoop-la, but a candid and whole-hearted presentation of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" according to the traditions of its amazing career on the American stage.

The audience found this restoration of a popular classic a decidedly interesting and instructive affair. The response to both its homespun emotional situations and its antiquated touches of would-be humor was warm and genuine.

Mr. Minturn has secured a reasonable version of the much-corrupted manuscript, and has recruited a satisfactory cast. The tradition of "Tom show" acting is still alive, although the play itself is strange to modern audiences, and the company as a whole gives an excellent account of itself. I myself have no standards for the interpretation of this grand old museum piece, for it has not been acted within my view for thirty years, but I believe that in the good old years of the "Uncle Tom" epidemic this production would have been regarded as almost a masterpiece.

The revival places in its foreground, as the long suffering, always faithful hero of its tale of the black man as property, an actor who is himself a legend of the American stage. He is De Wolf Hopper, the Nestor of operettas, the comic colossus of Gilbert and Sullivan [not to forget "Casey at the Bat"], who is now, in his seventy-fifth year, making his debut in the rôle of Uncle Tom.

Mr. Hopper is doing for Chicago what Otis Skinner did for New York last spring, and if you think that his song and dance past does not fit him for the rôle you should remember that he has always had an old school tragedian's voice. His innate quaintness is concealed by the black mask, and he communicates effectively the submissiveness, the stoicism and the touching religious faith of the character. He could hardly go wrong, for no actor ever failed as Uncle Tom, but he submits proof that he has not been miscast.

Enid Markey is surprisingly good as Topsy; she finds the impish glee in the heart of that young limb of Satan. Marian Palmer, a soubrette in operettas last season, is Eva according to the prattling and sentimental tradition of the character. Victor Sutherland is useful to the performance in two rôles—the good Samaritan of Eliza's escape and the auctioneer who puts the St. Clair slaves on the block. Guy Hickman appears to be an expert in the lunatic humor of Marks the lawyer, and Mr. Minturn himself plays Simon Legree as a heavy swell of slave driving brutality.

According to custom, the death of Uncle Tom is accompanied by visions of Little Eva ascending to heaven and the bloodhounds that pursue Eliza are a brace of fancy Great Danes. The Boatner choir sings spirituals and other Negro folk songs in several scenes, and a colored orchestra led by Freddie Williams does well with the musical accompaniment.

As the grandfather of the American drama, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" appears, in this revival, to be an appealing old gaffer not yet ready for extinction.

French Stylist Accepts Shoes from America

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Six smart street shoes that went to Paris and took the town are featured in Chicago . . . leather and suede models that will trot you around from dawn till dusk and even through a quiet dinner date. No less a celebrity than Schiaparelli became enamoured of their sleek slender lines and unusual snap and chose them to accent her newest and smartest fall street suits and dresses.

You can find a modified ghillie, without the funny wind-around strings, that are perfect for trudging down country lanes and over the hills, snappy, good looking country shoes of calfskin with a moderately high-low heel that is the smartest walking oxford ever invented.

Or you can slip your feet into dress slippers with the new wishbone strap that is just what it is called . . . it curves gracefully over the instep from the high ankle strap in the exact shape of the lucky wishbone.

Another angle on the toe section is achieved with contrasting leather streaking off the side in a sixty-forty division, a new asymmetric line that will skin inches off a wide expanse of either suede or leather. Shiny patent leather contrasts suede . . . equally as shiny reptileskin accents others, dull kid does a good job on night-black suede or brown.

Thus American made footwear, designed for the free striding, dashing, fashion-wise American women, has been welcomed to grace the swankiest new French originals as well as other distinctive costumes for early fall and winter.

Critic Praises Opening of San Carlo Season.

CARMEN.

Carmen	Ina Bourskaya
Don Jose	Aroldo Lindi
Micaela	Ethel Fox
Escamillo	Mario Valle
Remendado	Francesco Curci
Dancairo	Natale Cervi
Zuniga	Harold Kravitt
Morales	Francesco Curci
Frasquita	Marie Zara
Mercedes	Bernice Schaiker

Dances by the Serge Oukrainsky ballet.
Conductor ..... Carlo Peroni

BY EDWARD MOORE.

If the auguries of an opening night count for anything, operatic depression went out with a rush last night and operatic prosperity crowded right up into the foreground.

This was a performance to gladden the soul whether that soul turns to musical art or takes its interest in the figures of commerce. Just as an indication of what Fortune Gallo and his San Carlo company mean at this beginning of the season, the Auditorium was competely sold out, and a report from the box office tells that fully one thousand late comers were turned away.

It is probable that no such aggregation of artists was ever gathered together at such prices. In fact it is a great mistake to think of this as dollar opera except as regards the cost of seats. I have heard worse performances of "Carmen" at six dollars than this company gave at one.

Mr. Gallo would seem to have gathered together a good part of operatic America into one organization. As the curtain went up one recognized many of the splendid choristers who for years past have been appearing in Chicago and at Ravinia. Looking into the pit, the orchestra was partly Civic Opera and partly Chicago Symphony, and this means that no better orchestra could be found anywhere. And when Mr. Peroni raised his baton it took only a brief period to discover that he is a conductor with both the power of command and some definite ideas about what constitutes bright tempo, smooth melody, and dramatic contrast and climax.

So here was a first class setting for the admirable Carmen presented by Mme. Bourskaya. She is in full possession of the secret that Bizet wrote into the score. It is not altogether a smooth rendition of the part. Vocally and dramatically she is fond of making a somewhat breathless swoop at her points. But it glows brightly for her. She sings it brilliantly, she makes a distinct and definite characterization, and she is unfailingly charming. Her Carmen is fleshly, persuasive, a raging tempest, an ungrateful minx. You may say that this is entirely obvious. It is. It is also Carmen.

Apparently the San Carlo company is not based on the star system. At any rate, Mme. Bourskaya had some excellent support. Mr. Lindi was for one season a member of the Civic Opera. He was promising then. He is fulfilling his promise now. Perhaps he is not a better actor now than he was then, but he is a singer who last night did a fine job with a fine part.

The performance paused several times last night while the audience registered its approval of the proceedings. One of the times was when Mr. Valle sang the "Toreador" song, one of its best performances, I may add, that these ears have heard in a number of seasons, sturdy, powerful, and yet in a fine singing tone.

Shortly thereafter came the second act quintet and another burst of applause for its swift, accurate alertness. There are several newcomers in the company, and some of them are fairly certain to be well known before the San Carlo season ends. Miss Fox is one, owning a lovely soprano voice. Mr. Kravitt is another. His part was small, but he put a distinct stamp on it.

More than a little intelligence was used in staging the piece. The scenery was seemly, the costumes had been designed with an eye for color, and the stage pictures were put together so that the choristers gave an impression of not being merely a chorus but residents of Seville. Mr. Oukrainsky's dancers fitted expertly into the scene and made a striking impression.

So with a brisk, alert, and sympathetic performance of Bizet's score of pure gold, the San Carlo company got away to an excellent start. "Mme. Butterfly" is the attraction for tonight. Hizi Koyke, Japanese soprano, will make her first Chicago appearance in the name part, with Bernice Schalker, Dimitri Onofrei, and Mr. Valle in other important roles.

Jean Wilhelm Will Bow at Holiday Ball

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE night after Christmas has been set as the date for Miss Jean Wilhelm's debut and the crystal ballroom of the Blackstone has been chosen as the place in which this lovely blonde daughter of the Frank E. Wilhelms will make her bow to society.

The affair will be a ball, and that it will be one of the most brilliant of the season is assured, not only because of the prominence of the Wilhelms and the Cudahys [Mrs. Wilhelm was Jean Cudahy] but because of the popularity of the young debutante. Her parents and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy, will give the party.

Earlier in the season Miss Wilhelm's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy Jr., will give a dinner dance for her at the Casino, either on Nov. 3 or 4. The Cudahy connection is so large that Miss Wilhelm undoubtedly will be one of the most feted buds of the season, for probably all her relatives will want to entertain for her. Her mother has two sisters as well as a brother living in Chicago, Mrs. Austin H. Niblack and Mrs. Vaughan C. Spalding. The fourth of the Cudahy sisters, Alice, now Mrs. John N. Stearns Jr., lives in New York.

Miss Wilhelm is planning to go to Boston next month for a fortnight's visit with Miss Nancy Whitman, but as far as she knows now she will be here all the rest of the season. Last year she was at school in Paris and before that she went to Miss Spence's in New York.

Miss Downs to Bow at Tea Dance

Miss Mary Kay Downs, who is back at home after a summer spent in such far apart places as Ottawa, Canada, and New Orleans, is to be presented formally to society at a tea dance to be given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Downs, on Saturday, Nov. 18, at the Drake, from 4 to 7 o'clock.

Miss Downs finished at the Finch school in New York last spring and plans to be in town for the first half of her first season "out" at least, although she probably will be going south with her parents after the first of the year.

A tea dance also has been chosen by Miss Virginia Thatcher as her debut. It is to be given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. William Thatcher, on Saturday, Dec. 23, at the Blackstone. Miss Thatcher went to Sarah Lawrence last year, but is planning to be at home this winter

Expert Describes Growth of Industry.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Back in 1910 soups were more important to a woman than soaps, and a cleanser meant the Dutch type—not a skin ointment. Miss Antoinette Donnelly, beauty editor of THE TRIBUNE, discovered that much when she began to analyze the reason for the beauty trade ranking fifth or sixth in the list of great industries and why it should have been one of those that survived the depression nobly. At the Edgewater Beach hotel last night she told the delegates to the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists' association the results of her research into the subject.

"Advertising columns are a pretty fair barometer of women's interests," she told a group of several hundred gathered in the Michigan room. "And when I went to work to discover why you have built up the great volume you have I came to realize that it is not because of women's vanity but because you have made yourselves indispensable to us and we can't do without you.

"The women themselves are your best testimony. Certainly, today we have a body of women in this land of ours comparable to no other group of women at any time in history, beautifully groomed, smart, efficient, and extraordinarily good looking, on the whole.

"The files of ads tell the story. That in 1910 women of this country were more interested in other things. I could find no cold cream ad, no wrinkle lotion mentioned. A few stray, meager ads for talcum recommended it for baby but not for mamma. Here is one that indicates the difference in hygienic practices then and now: 'We send hair on approval. If you find switch satisfactory and a bargain, remit promptly; if not, return the switch.'

"Just imagine any such practice being tolerated today either by the trade or the educated public. Those were the days of the magnificent ratted pompadours.

"A fashion note of that era warns the older woman about her hats, referring her to toques and bonnets. Her modern counterpart would laugh that off—Junior is lucky if he gets up early enough in the morning and rescues his beret before his tennis playing grandmamma grabs it.

"Along about 1914 a few face powder ads began to show up—rice powder, mostly—but these in modest form, compared to today's challenges to the blemished skin. The soap people, as I see it, were really the pioneers in the field of beauty advertising, when at this time they began to realize the value of tieing up their product with beauty appeal. The slogan, 'the skin you love to touch,' was given birth around this time.

"In 1914 they were still sending switches on approval, but in 1915, led by the famous shears of Irene Castle, the bobbing of hair did mark a new beauty epoch. At this time, too, reducing began to be considered a healthy practice for the overweight—it still is the leading topic of a beauty editor's mail, with care of the complexion next in importance and volume."

Commending the beauticians for the contributions they have made to feminine happiness, as well as appearance, Miss Donnelly declared that "you have made a tremendous donation to beauty in your modern hair styles. You've arrived at such a point of artistry that it is a very stupid woman indeed who will not submit her head for reshaping, remodeling, and beautifying."

In a general forum following her address delegates to the convention asked Miss Donnelly to carry back to her women readers their unanimous decision that women should give as much attention to care of their skins as they do to hair and nails. There is no proper balance between the two, they declared, most women neglecting complexion care.

Another suggestion from the experts assembled was: "If you need both a scalp treatment and a wave, let the wave go and get the treatment."

School of Domestic Arts Consolidates Classrooms

The School of Domestic Arts and Science, founded in 1901 to give instruction in homemaking, will open all of its departments at 350 Belden avenue for the first time on Oct. 2. Heretofore the school has also maintained classrooms downtown. The location on the north side is an old city landmark, the former home of George E. Adams. Evening classes will convene Oct. 2 and day classes on Oct. 3. Yesterday was the first day of registration for the fall and winter term.

Hold Bishop Sheil Dinner Tonight to Aid C. Y. O.

The annual Bishop Sheil dinner for the promotion of welfare work under Catholic Youth organization auspices will be held tonight at the Congress hotel. The dinner is given by Bishop Sheil of the Chicago archdiocese, and director of the C. Y. O., in the special interest of the Holy Spirit Vacation schools which have been held throughout the city during the last summer.

At Auditorium

Mrs. Jacob Baur was a dinner hostess last night at her Astor street residence and later she and her guests attended the opening performance of the San Carlo Opera company at the Auditorium as the guests of Mrs. Archibald E. Freer, who had the late Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick's box 5 for the occasion.

In the party were Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Mrs. Joseph B. Long, Mrs. Clair E. More, Miss Anna Morgan, M. and Mme. Georges Henri Rivere of Paris and Toledo, Mrs. Baur and Mrs. Freer. Two of the stunning members of the enthusiastic audience that filled the great theater were Mrs. Howard Linn and Mrs. Walter E. Paepcke. Mrs. Linn was wearing a black chiffon afternoon gown, a short cape of silver foxes and black suede wide cuffed gloves.

Mrs. Paepcke's black velvet long sleeved gown that dragged the floor, it was so long, was ornamented with perky white grosgrain ribbon bows, the ribbon about an inch in width, the bows at about three inch intervals from the waist to the high neckline on the front of the bodice and up the sleeves from the wrist to the elbow.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Graham, Mrs. Wentworth G. Field, Dr. and Mrs. Charles King Corsant, Mr. and Mrs. John Goodrich, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Gowenlock, Mr. and Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, and Miss Edna Kellogg were among the other faces familiar to a society reporter.

German Baron Comes to Chicago to See His Family Cross 1st Time

The Baron von Veltheim-Ostrau arrived in Chicago yesterday to view for the first time the patriarchal cross of his family on display at the Art Institute. He was conducted to the relic, which is a piece of the Guelph treasure, by Chauncey McCormick.

The jeweled cross left the baron's family when an ancestor presented it as an offering to the cathedral of St. Blasius in Brunswick where for centuries it was kept. The Duke of Brunswick, son-in-law of the ex-kaiser, inherited the Guelph treasure, which is a collection of Medieval, ecclesiastical art. When the world war started the treasure was removed to Switzerland for safe keeping.

After the war the collection was put on exhibition in Berlin. The German government refused to buy it and eventually the art objects came into the possession of a Frankfort art dealer, who exhibited it in New York, Cleveland and Chicago. The trustees of the Art Institute of Chicago acquired five pieces, one of them the Veltheim cross.

Miss Herma Clark, author of the TRIBUNE feature, "When Chicago Was Young," will give an illustrated story entitled "Dear Julia" at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the Illinois Host House at A Century of Progress. Miss Clark will show pictures and tell anecdotes about such early Chicagoans as Marshall Field, George M. Pullman, John Crerar, Mrs. William Blair, and Mrs. George H. Laflin.

NORTH Clark street pedestrians who happened to look into a barber shop as they passed the other day must have thought the two barbers and their customers had gone mad. The barbers, with scissors and razors in their hands, and the two customers, one with lather on his face and the other bibbed and his hair half cut, were doing what appeared to be dance steps. One young woman—her name is Margaret E. Bowen—was so curious about the whole business she went up to the door and looked in. The radio was turned on and she heard a voice broadcasting:

BLOOD MONEY

By IRVIN S. COBB.

SYNOPSIS.

Uncas Cresap and his Chinese servant are found dead in the upper room of Cresap's boathouse on Kettle pond, near the eastern end of Long Island. Gilbert Jonathan Redd, Cresap's stepbrother, keeps a written private account of developments in the case. A blow on the forehead from a slender, sharp edged implement killed Cresap. The cause of Wong Gee's death is not apparent. Capt. Bray, a special investigator, is an old friend of Redd's. Redd is a former police reporter. Florence Dane, Cresap's niece and an orphan, lived with him. Redd was fond of Florence's mother. He bought a home near Cresap's in order to protect Florence. Cresap made his fortune in the far east. Redd freely admits to Bray his hatred of Cresap, who was a drunkard and a débauché. There seemed to be some secret bond between Cresap and two of his servants, the Chinaman and a dwarf, Sabino. Bray finds a new will disinheriting Florence. As it was unsigned, the old will stands. Cresap disapproved of Florence's moneyless sweetheart, Gregory Thorpe. Thorpe disappears. He is found in a hospital, victim of a hitch-hiker, before Cresap's death, which exonerates him. Florence takes a room in the hospital. Hilda, Florence's maid, tries to leave the Cresap estate and is arrested. Florence leaves the hospital and can't be found. Sabino also disappears.

"With relation to the sensational disappearance in such close juxtaposition first of the Mexican-Apache dwarf and then of Miss Dane herself," Capt. Bray, the alert sleuth, said:

"I am absolutely convinced that when these two are overtaken they will be found either together or while attempting to effect a union. The developments of the last few hours clearly tend to justify the assumption of a mutual plot or pact to that effect.

"I would direct attention to Manuel Sabino's subsequent conduct as dating since Friday last. We know that on Friday evening, although heretofore he had pretended an open hostility for Miss Dane, he secretively followed her to where she had gone to be in personal attendance by the bedside of her wounded fiancé at the hospital. We know that he surreptitiously summoned her to an obscure side door and was in the act of holding a conference with her when an untoward interruption ensued, causing him to scurry off. That was on Friday night.

"On Saturday he twice endeavored, but unsuccessfully, to communicate with her by telephone. Saturday afternoon I am convinced that he sent her a certain telegram, which in due course of time she received. Not until this forenoon, however, did we learn of this. At this moment we are proceeding to trace that telegram with every reason to expect that within a very short time we will have in our possession an accurate copy of it. And likewise are we informed by the evidence of disinterested observers at the hospital that, following the reading of this telegram, Miss Dane tore it into indistinguishable fragments and afterwards evinced a profound preoccupation, as well as an ill-concealed trepidation.

"Now, Mr. Reporter, follow me to the sequel: Sabino, known to have solicitously inquired on Saturday regarding railroad connections and reported as last seen on yesterday evening, was this morning absolutely gone from his accredited haunts. On the heels, as it were, of his disappearance, Miss Dane abruptly departs from her temporary habitat. Can there longer linger then any doubt in the breast of any one not motivated by irrationality that both are seeking a common rendezvous?

"Their description has gone forth to every nook and corner by radio and other media. I feel no hesitancy then, but on the contrary every confidence in advancing the allegation that before many hours both should be in durance vile, and when from them have been extracted the things still unrevealed, we should and will know all!"

Despite that the correspondent's substitute put in Bray's mouth such metaphors as never belonged there or ever issued therefrom, nevertheless I surely think that even through that wordy screen I can trace out the submerged elements in Bray's reasonings, his whole under-the-surface disturbance, almost as clearly as though a cross-section of his cranium were spread before me and it mapped and indexed. I know the man so well. I have so often seen him in action.

I diagnose this aspect of him tonight as reflecting the effect of a bruised vanity working, like old yeast in a new dough, on what ordinarily would be a not-too-easily jostled brain. For me, the chart of his prejudices and their backgrounds stands like this:

Demure Hilda he rather ignored as a trivial by-figure of the original intrigue, if, indeed, he regarded her as capable of being an intriguer at all, and if he regarded the intrigue as being more than an intrigue of evasion. Sabino he primarily had faith in, insofar as it is given a man of Bray's training and trends to have faith in any one. And Florence he unreservedly admired for her spunkiness and her sweetness, and he had a genuine sympathy for her distress over her lover's disappearance with all that this disappearance implied, even though he relaxed no part of his efforts then to bring the crime home to Gregory Thorpe's door.

I see him asking himself questions and out of the pliant chemistry of his nature and the crude but flexible science of his trade, compounding plausible solutions for them. Like this:

Look here, man, Hilda could have no material motive for playing the dissembler and the double-dealer. O, couldn't she, though? What if her devotion to her mistress was a sufficiently swaying impulse to make a liar and a cheat of her? And what if the reward for her connivance was to be a fat slice of Uncas Cresap's coin? All right, so much, inferentially, for Hilda. Now let's take this Florence Dane, with her beguiling ways and her seductive surface sweetness. To be sure there was no pretense about her alarm and her distress when that sweetheart of hers suddenly loomed on the horizon of this case in the potential proportions of a murderer. That fainting spell of hers was not play acting. That was the genuine article. But suppose he had a partial and perhaps a conniving knowledge of what was contemplated for the mortal extinction of Florence Dane's uncle; and she suddenly discerned, or thought she discerned, how it might be that, not content with remaining a passive confederate, he had anticipated the chosen killer and done the thing himself? Wouldn't the shock of that fear for him, all at once taking on the aspect of a seeming certainty, account for her collapse? Why not? And next let's impale that deceitful little bug, Sabino, on a pin and spin him around and see what we get. Assume that Sabino's apparent affection for Uncas Cresap was all pretense, all buncombe and hokum. Assume the same thing to be true of his outward attitude of scorn and hate for every other figure in the inner circle of possible suspects. Assume that all along his aim was to confuse the trail, divert the chase away from his actual co-conspirators, by appearing to be giving service to the law.

On the other hand, even assume that for a bribe of blood money Sabino agreed to deal the fatal blow, and, in fortifying himself against the appointed hour for it, overdid the thing, so that while he lay stupefied with liquor some other plotter had to take the gruesome assignment, whereupon he, growing sober enough to realize what had happened, turned vengeful and ugly because he feared he would never be paid for the murdering job he had failed to perform, and thereafter, relying on his alibi, dared openly to strike against those with whom he lately had been leagued.

Along that line, assume further that, repenting of his impetuous treachery toward those very individuals with whom he had been in allegiance, he made overtures to Florence with a view to extorting from her a cash plaster for the sealing up of his careless mouth. Couldn't that account for his act in sending her off to the vicinity of the Canadian border? It could, especially if in the back part of his head he had the strange idea that blackmail for American currency would not be altogether blackmail if the transaction were completed on the soil of another country. And so on and so forth—and so much by me for Bray's skeleton structure of reasoning as I undertake, first, to dissect it, and, second, to rearticulate it in coherent form.

New Croquinole Wave Permits Many Styles of Hair Dress

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The hair waving profession keeps on thinking up new and better ways of curling the hair, and making that wave last longer. We're not speaking of the permanent at the moment. It's marcel waving that is undergoing a new phase, and a better one, from all accounts.

The first great advantage to it is that the old-time hot iron is ruled out. Instead only a medium warm iron is used. One of the surprises of this particular waving idea is that the curl will last as long as it does, considering the little heat used.

They call it the croquignole wave. Instead of the old form of shaping the hair into a "set" series of waves the new technique allows for the waved hair to be set in a number of styles after the wave is completed. It can be combed straight back, with left or right side part, left straight on top or waved, waved to the neckline, or finished with ringlet curls. Or, if you want to inject a little novelty of your own, that may be done.

But all the time the professional is working, and successfully, too, to relieve woman of prejudices. There are prejudices about the drying effect of the hot iron and about the drying machines, and so on. Also, there are prejudices about those harsh ridges apparent in so many waved heads fresh from a salon. But these are all being overcome gradually, with a resultant new hair beauty.

The dryers, a torture on a hot day, and unquestionably drying to the hair in their old form, are undergoing amazing advance. One need not sit and fidget under intense heat any more. One may read her movie picture magazine quite comfortably and be assured that her hair is not going to suffer dryness under the new order.

Speaking of hair and things connected with it, I was surprised to learn at a recent convention that the hair pin trade is experiencing a boom not known in years. As a matter of fact, I am told the present output of hairpins is far ahead, in tonnage amount, of the long hair days. This because the tiny pins lose themselves more quickly, and again, because many are used to make the hair stay in place.

Cook's Tricks Add to Flavor of Vegetables

BY MARY MEADE.

One of the "fondest things we are of" is vegetables cooked to perfection. And one of the saddest things in the cooking realm is vegetables mistreated and led astray before they reach the ultimate consumer. Which brings us to the truism that there's a trick to every trade, and a whole pack of them to the cooking of our daily vegetables.

First, there's spinach, which many adventurous souls these days are transforming into souffles, croquettes, and similar disguises to accord it full attention. For spinach cooked with lemon juice is quite another thing from the spinach to which we're accustomed, and if you're not familiar with it the next time you are cooking (or heating) spinach add a tablespoon of lemon juice.

Then, did you know that it is the sugar in fresh peas, corn, and carrots that makes them so much better than older ones? If these vegetables have been standing in the market for a day or so much of this sweetness leaves them. So when cooking them, if you are not sure that they are very lately gathered, add one-half teaspoon of granulated sugar to the cooking water. It will give just the flavor they need. Season as usual with salt and pepper.

Another treat in the vegetable family is the combination of potatoes and carrots whipped together. The finished product is a golden yellow and your guests will wonder if you have mashed a pound of butter in with the potatoes. The delicate flavor will set them guessing as to what it really is. Here is the recipe:

WHIPPED POTATOES AND CARROTS.

3 large potatoes
1 cup diced raw carrots
3 tablespoons butter
1-3 cup hot milk
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Peel the potatoes, add the carrots, and cook in boiling salted water until both vegetables are tender. Drain and mash until fluffy, adding the butter, hot milk, and seasonings.

6 tomatoes
1½ cups mashed potatoes
¼ cup broken pecan meats

Cut large hollows in unpeeled tomatoes. Sprinkle with salt and invert them to drain for ten minutes. Place in a pan with enough water to keep them from scorching and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for ten minutes. Remove from the oven and pile the mashed potatoes lightly into the tomato cases. Sprinkle with the pecan meats and return to the oven to bake ten minutes or until the tomatoes are tender.

Parents Display More Leniency with Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Parents are so much wiser and kindlier than they used to be. People who write for them have evidence of it in their correspondence. Here is a letter which proves my point:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans," begins a letter, "will you please send me the Parents' Litany? My husband and I both are a pair of—well, nervous fools, I'd call us. And my boy of 7 shows signs of it already. Perhaps by reading your pamphlet we may both overcome at least part of it.

"You see, Mrs. Bevans, I was brought up strictly. If I didn't jump when I was told to do something I got a whack for it. And my husband the same way. I have been reading your articles on child care and see the mistake in that. I have two lovely children and I try to do my best to bring them up right."

Many people have experienced a similar awakening in mind and feeling from things they have read about the nature and the needs of children. It shows a deep fund of sympathy when men and women who have been too strictly brought up, show leniency and understanding with their own children.

There is another point that comes up as a result of reading this letter. Severity may produce obedience and servile surface respect in a child, but it often sows at the same time seeds of resentment and hatred, and even of nervous disorders.

What Makes for Glamour? Here's Answer

Architect Helps Define Beauty Term.

In next Sunday's Tribune Miss Donnelly will inaugurate presentation of a number of Chicago's Most Glamorous Women. Her article will be accompanied by a portrait in full color.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

What makes the glamorous woman glamorous?

Try that one on the boy friend. But if he says he thinks it would be better if you played a game of backgammon—you'd better take him at his word.

He either knows and does not want to get too personal—or else he doesn't know. He just knows she has this thing called glamour—or hasn't. And that's all you're likely to get out of him.

Of course, you might keep on trying—and find out things. Maybe things you yourself never associated with the word.

Certain associations in a man's own mind may lead him to confide that it is the turn of a head, the way a girl walks, an intriguing little mannerism that was especially hypnotic in his particular case. Only DON'T demand to know the name of the girl. That's not fair! Besides, he'll only tell you what he thinks is good for you to know.

One otherwise fairly honest citizen, pressed for further details, turned a dangerous curve in the presence of his beloved by naming a celebrated painting as his inspiration. He whispered later that he'd never laid an eye on the famous portrait, his naming it then a momentary flash of genius.

Happily there are men who can eliminate the personal safety element and view the subject constructively, like Benjamin Marshall, the architect, who believes a certain warmth of being largely contributory to glamour. To illustrate, Mr. Marshall told of a certain breakfast room, in one of his hotels, constantly ignored by guests of the house. It was a cold room, darkish, sunless. The location of the room was changed to another part of the house. Sunlight flooded it at the breakfast hour. Immediately there was a difference noted in attendance. It's this same quality of giving warmth to a room that's glamorous in women. The elevator boy's tribute, he held, would be a lasting cheer to a warm hearted "Good morning."

It isn't coloring or type or line that creates glamour, in Mr. Marshall's judgment. It's a combination of the whole person—body and soul—and lovely.

"There has to be some invisible spirit to guide you to your unknown destiny," was the enigmatic phrase preferred by the famous architect.

Setting—staging, I gather from an incident related by Mr. Marshall, is a contributory element. He was seated in the office of the late Florenz Ziegfeld one day while a girl with white eyebrows, a girl you'd never notice in a crowd, was under dress experimentation for a place in the follies. Mr. Ziegfeld had bolts of silk of different colors which he held up in turn before the girl, transforming her, Mr. Marshall reports, into something she was was not at all were you to meet her on the street.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Lawler of 5552 Everett avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Sally Ann, to Arthur Celestin Crippen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Rose Crippen of 7240 Jeffery avenue. Miss Lawler was graduated from the Starrett School for Girls and attended Mount Vernon seminary in Washington, D. C. The wedding will take place in the late fall.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE CURRY CASE.

Powerful, six-foot Mike Curry, one of the best liked men on the force, while directing traffic dropped to the ground fatally wounded by a bullet that entered his neck and lodged in his heart.

A second or two later a flashily dressed young man was seen to jump from a sedan and was lost in the quickly gathering crowd. The driver of the sedan, forced to the curb by squad car 245, pulled up and nonchalantly got out.

"There's been a shooting back there," said Sergt. Strong. "What do you know about it? And who was the guy that beat it?"

"The answer," said "Shorty" Lewis, "to both of your questions is nothing and I want you cops to leave . . ."

With that Strong grabbed the gangster, threw him into the squad car and after ordering Shorty's car be brought in for inspection, sped to headquarters.

Prof. Fordney listened quietly while Inspector Kelley interrogated the gangster and put in a question or two himself. Lewis positively refused to identify his companion. After learning all Sergt. Strong had to say and listening to "Shorty's" comments on policemen he handed him a cigaret.

"You'll have to get Lewis on something else, Kelley," he said. "I'm sure neither he nor his unknown friend shot Curry."

[See solution on page 33.]

Party Kissing Identified as Risky Pastime

Caresses, Even for Young, May Be Explosive.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A recent Chicago shooting attempt circling around a "harmless" kissing incident at a country club simply goes to prove that there's dynamite in the kissing pastime. Especially, when somebody's husband is kissing somebody else's wife, or vice versa.

The game were better left to the young folk. It is their game by right. Even with them, carried to extremes, there is still dynamite in the pastime. But the particular incident to which we refer was one that might happen in almost any group of young married folk on pleasure bent, fortified with the fortifier of the day—a cocktail, or two or three.

The hostess gathers a few friends together, all married. They stop at one house for a cocktail, maybe a second, a third. They go along to the club, indulge in a few more drinks—and then, the kiss in the dark. It probably happens a thousand times among thousands of married couples in the course of an entertainment season.

Sometimes nothing comes of it. Nothing happens. Sometimes it is the birth of a new divorce record; sometimes the cause of a bitter quarrel—and longtime suspicion. And sometimes, as in the case referred to, it ends in unpleasant first page publicity and the court—a matter for the state's attorney if the injured husband is known to have brandished a gun.

Disregarding the particular incident, the pastime indulged in so commonly now among married men and women becomes one for women to decide upon. The unmarried girls, it is noted, didn't find the game so profitable after a flapper period trial. They found the alcohol fumed kisses didn't mean a thing in their pursuit of a good, substantial mate. So, they set about a new program, the good old game of not being too easy to get, or to kiss.

True, they all didn't join the new movement, but today's girl is certainly not the Tom, Dick and Harry kissed girl her flapper period sister was. She's choosey and she's pretty cagey about her favors. The smart ones are!

The older ones, then, might take a tip from the smart younger generation and set about a new program, don't you think?

Use Cellophane Dresses to Display Undergarments

Wax models attired in cellophane dresses, in order that the shopper may view the proper undergarments to be worn with the new fall and winter clothing, will be installed at Carson Pirie Scott and company today. It is said to be the first time that a Chicago store has made use of the new advertising device. The so-called X-ray of fashion will reveal that the fashions of the hour call for the Mae Westian bosom, according to store officials, who said that the corset will regain popularity because the figure required by the present styles is not a natural one.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—The Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Woodin, who have been the President's guests at the White House since Thursday, moved this morning to their home on Macomb street, leased from Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schoellkopf.

Mrs. Homer Cummings, wife of the attorney general, returned today to their apartment from Garfield hospital, where she has been for ten days, because of a slight illness.

Mrs. Harry L. Street and her three older daughters, Jeanne, Katharine, and Marjorie, will be moving from their lovely Sheridan road house in Winnetka to an apartment at 1245 Astor street the first week in October. They are coming to town so that Miss Marjorie can enjoy to the utmost her debutante season.

Her mother hasn't decided yet just what she will give to introduce her daughter, but she says it will be something very simple and informal. Harriett, the youngest of the family, leaves on Thursday for her first year at Vassar. Marjorie was graduated from the Mount Vernon seminary in Washington last June.

Invitations were put in the mail yesterday for a luncheon Mrs. William E. Gardner, Miss Mary Gardner, and Mrs. Albert S. Gardner will give on Wednesday, Oct. 4, at the Blackstone for Miss Barbara Shaffer, one of the season's debutantes.

Leave Tomorrow for Thompson Wedding

Six young Chicago men will be in Memphis the end of this week to be in the wedding party of a prominent Memphis Junior Leaguer, Miss Fay Hines, and Charles Clinton Thompson of Chicago and New York. The wedding is to take place Saturday night and will be one of the season's outstanding social events in the Tennessee city.

The popular "Hal" Noble is to be Mr. Thompson's best man, and among the ushers will be Conover and Eugene Talbot III., Bradford H. Whiting, Arthur John Sullivan, and Bertram McKinney. They are all going south tomorrow night to be there for the last of the pre-nuptial parties that will be given for Miss Hines. Conover Talbot and Brad Whiting will leave shortly after they arrive at home for Princeton, for they both are in college.

This morning at 10 o'clock the living room in the William D. Truesdales' home in Winnetka will be filled with young women who are anxious to lend their services to the recently formed junior auxiliary to the Winnetka Infant Welfare society.

This is the first general meeting of the Auxiliary, for although it was formed last spring, the summer has been spent mapping out a course of action instead of in actual work.

Miss Lois Truesdale is the chairman, and the other officers are Miss Jeanné Street, vice-president; Miss Adelaide Atkin, secretary; Miss Elizabeth Sutherland, treasurer; Miss Mira Lee Benoist, publicity manager; and Miss Katherine Roach, Miss Virginia Lamson and Miss Georgiana Fowler, who are on the board.

All the north shore friends of these attractive young ladies are invited to the meeting this morning. The members will be required to work at the Chicago Commons and will also put in several hours a week sewing in their homes for babies.

As Miss Benoist is sailing for England Oct. 15 to spend the next three months, her place as publicity manager will be filled.

Hold Burro Race at Fair Today

If you hear a throng of raucous sportsmen shouting "Fifty-seven" and "Variety" about 3 o'clock this afternoon at the World's Fair, it won't have anything to do with pickles, but it will mean there's a burro race being run. Mrs. Patrick Geraghty, the former Helen Tieken, has consented to be one of the jockeys in the race, arranged by Mrs. Nathaniel A. Owings, and these are the name and number of her mount.

All of the rest of the appellations and numbers by which the betting fans will be able to designate their favorites are quite as amusing. Mrs. Byron S. Harvey Jr. will ride Speed, numbered 100, while Miss Betty Scriven will be on No. 33 1-3, titled Dodo Bird. It is especially appropriate that Mrs. Eugene S. MacDonald should ride Mizpah, with the number 82-O. [The Mizpah, skippered by Commander MacDonald, is anchored in Chicago's front yard]. Mrs. Owings will be the jockey on Schlitz, numbered 3.2.

The first race is to begin at 2:15 in the court of the Hall of States, with Walter Frazier, James Minotto, and Mrs. Neil Cowham trying to judge the winner. This will be followed by a Guatemalan race, in which the last burro in will take the blue ribbon.

"There isn't any point to it," Mrs. Owings is assuring her friends when they ask her what the event is all about. "I just wanted to give you some unusual World's Fair entertainment."

Dinner Tonight for Dr. Neilson

Mrs. L. Sherman Aldrich, Mrs. George W. Blossom, Miss Ellen Holt, Miss Florence Dibell Bartlett, Miss Anna R. Haire, Mrs. Edwin O. Griffenhagen, Mrs. Hugh W. McCulloch, Mrs. Sumner T. McCall, Mrs. Herbert Sanborn, and Mrs. Malcolm Ross Byron will be hostesses this evening at the dinner the Chicago Smith College club and the Evanston North Shore Smith club are to have for Dr. William Allan Neilson at the Union League club.

Dr. Neilson, president of Smith, arrived from Northampton on Sunday with his daughter, Caroline, for a several days' visit to the Fair. He has been especially interested in seeing Smith's contributions to the Exposition which include a booth in the Hall of Social Science and a group of four canvases in the Art institute loaned by the Smith College Museum of Art.

Miss Nettie A. Baumann as president of the Chicago Smith club will preside at this evening's dinner assisted by Mrs. William D. Kirkpatrick, who heads the Evanston North Shore club.

Mrs. William A. Nitze arrived at home yesterday morning after a spring and summer abroad. Mr. Nitze preceded her to Chicago, coming on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gould Ralston and their two small daughters, Joan and Lucille, have returned from Europe, and after a few days in Chicago they are back at Reynolds Wood, their lovely home at Dixon.

Miss Fanny McPherson, daughter of the Donald F. McPhersons of Winnetka, is leaving for Paris on the 26th with a group of girls who will attend Miss Nixon's school in Florence. Miss McPherson will spend the winter with a French family. Her brother, Donald Jr., leaves on the 26th also, for Lawrenceville.

Early the other moring Miss Helen Bell, the Laird-Bells' daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Lackner, set off for the east in Miss Bell's smart little roadster. They will be away at least another fortnight visiting friends on Cape Cod and in and about New York.

The Joseph T. Ryersons will be back in town tomorrow from a summer in Santa Barbara.

The Charles Garfield Kings, who also have been in Santa Barbara all summer, will return about Oct. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Walker arrived in Lake Forest Sunday from New York, where they spent several days after landing from a trip abroad. The children and their nurse reached Lake Forest Friday.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Small blocks of a conventional rose design make a quilt of the "Martha Washington Rose" pattern to immortalize and honor America's first lady. Blocks of the same design form the border of the quilt.

The original example of this design was made in yellow prints. You might modernize it a bit by piecing it of plain colored materials.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Benefit Party.

More than 1,000 persons are expected to attend the card party to be given Friday at the Palmer house for the benefit of the Illinois Chapter of the National Society of the United States Daughters of 1812.

Knitted Sports Wear Finds Great Favor in Paris Modes

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Houses consecrated to knitted sports wear apparel spring up in Paris overnight like a gold rush town. There are several new ones, and the old standbys filling the hectic demand for this kind of clothes.

Eileen Rice and Vera Heller have a knitted sports house in Paris, which is one of the most distinguished. They are featuring the two piece knitted frock for this fall, and making it of a brand new knitted cloky that is going to be hard to copy.

One of their models is sketched. It has the style features that Paris okays. First, there is the striped jumper blouse, with elbow length sleeves. This is made of brown and bright green fancy raised striped tricot, and fastens down the left side front with square brown leather buttons pierced in the center so they can be sewed on like ordinary buttons. The brown leather belt matches them and is buttoned on the square, too.

The scarf is a definite style note. It is in two colors, and stubby. Around the neck it is green, and the ends are brown.

The straight, quite long skirt has a wide panel with plaits under the sides from about half way down.

Ensemble Shows Smart Details in Box Jacket and Sailor Collar

WOMEN'S AND MISSES' JACKET SUIT.

The dress is a simple but smart type, just the thing for general wear, and the jacket has two new features that are attracting much interest just now, the boxy cut and the sailor collar. Oxford gray hairy woolen made the original model, and the upper part of the dress, as well as the coat trimmings, were of a lighter plain gray hairy woolen.

The pattern, No. 2918, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

LEVINSKY FLOORS SHARKEY, WINS DECISION

ROOKIE TIETJE AND WHITE SOX BEAT YANKS, 4-3

Gregory Defeated in Opener, 6-1.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 18.—The White Sox, after making Paul Gregory feel like old times by getting two hits as their contribution to a 6 to 1 beating in the first game of a double header with the Yankees, this afternoon had the pleasure of participating in Rookie Leslie Tietje's 4 to 3 personal triumph in the supper number.

Tietje, though he was relieved in a fit of ninth inning nervousness, pitched a swell game in his first major league appearance.

Young Leslie, fresh from Dallas, and only a year out of Waterloo, in the Mississippi valley league, a class D circuit, held the Yanks to three hits in the first six innings. They ran up a fourth in the seventh on one of those you-take-it outfield mistakes, and added the fifth with two out in the eighth. All these smacks were quite harmless except the third, which was a homer by Gehrig, his second of the afternoon and 29th of the season.

Slip Upsets Tietje.

With one out in the ninth Swanson slipped and fell on the wet sod while going after Pinch Batter Combs' liner and the ball rolled for a triple. This visibly upset the rookie and after Ruffing had driven Combs home with a single, Wyatt was rushed in to relieve Tietje. Wyatt made Walker and Sewell fly to Haas to end the game.

In addition to giving Tietje his chance Manager Fonseca used the two games to enable two rookie outfielders, Milt Bocek and Johnny Stoneham, to show their wares. Bocek had the better of the batting show off with a double, a single and the scoring of the winning run, but his fielding didn't have the professional touch displayed by Stoneham, who played right field in the first game and relieved Bocek in the seventh inning of the second encounter.

Homers Wreck Sox.

The first game was a contest until the latter half of the sixth when Gehrig broke a 1 to 1 tie with his 28th homer of the year. The Yankees made the score lopsided with two out in the eighth when Walker socked his 14th homer with Dickey and Allen on base.

The two Chicago hits, both singles, were made by Swanson and Hayes. Allen made as many hits as he allowed.

FIRST GAME

Walker opened the game with a shot between Swanson and Haas which rolled for a triple. Dixie held third while Sewell filed to Haas and scored on Ruth's single to right center.

The Sox tied the score and had the bases full with one out in the third. Sullivan walked, moved up on Gregory's sacrifice and scored on Swanson's single to left. Haas and Dykes walked, filling the bases, but Appling forced Swanson at the plate and Stoneham fouled to Dickey.

Appling Out at Plate.

The Sox's chance to take the lead vanished in the sixth inning. Appling was safe on Gehrig's error and Stoneham walked. Kress avoided a double play by bunting a foul to Dickey. Hayes singled to left, but Appling was out at the plate on Chapman's fine throw to Dickey.

Having kept the Sox from taking the lead the Yankees took it themselves in their half of the sixth. Gehrig did it with that No. 28 homer.

The Yankees put on a flurry in the eighth, making four runs, three of which came after two were out. Chapman singled to center, moved to second on Lazzeri's sacrifice, took third on a wild pitch and scored on Dickey's grounder to Dykes. Dickey was safe on Dykes' wide throw. Crosetti filed to Swanson. Allen singled to center. Walker knocked a homer into the right field stands, scoring Dickey and Allen ahead of him.

SECOND GAME

The Sox stepped out for a three run cluster in the first inning. Bocek walked and went to third on Haas' single to center. Dykes bounced to Ruffing and Bocek was run down, Ruffing to Rensa. Appling forced

GOLF LOOKS SO EASY; THAT'S WHY THE DUB STICKS

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 18.—The most fascinating trait of this obsession called golf which occupies so much expensive acreage and consumes so many man hours, so much money and emotional power, is its bland pretense that suckers can play it. This is something which is not true of any other game that I am familiar with.

JOHNNY FARRELL.

If a man can't swim more than twice his own length and gets the heebies when he looks down from high places he recognizes at once that he is not cut out for water polo or fancy diving and contents himself with strutting his figure on the sand and an occasional daring splash off the the float. If he can't sit a horse he doesn't attempt to play polo, and unless he has very good reason to regard himself as a fair sort of ball player he doesn't touch a baseball after he has passed the age of 21.

All the other athletic pursuits have their natural deterrents. The legs aren't quite up to tennis, so, if the victim plays the game at all, he plays it just for exercise and without illusions or ambitions. Or he doesn't box because it takes too much wind and entails a risk to his teeth, nose and eyes.

But the novice golfer, being entirely innocent and natural, usually contrives to hit two or three satisfactory smacks or sink some long chip shots or putts on his first attempt, and from that time on he is, in his own mind, as good as the best of them. Golf is a game in which people just walk slowly around a five mile staggered route with a pause every now and again to wave a small and facile bludgeon at a small and frisky missile.

All You Golfers Have Said This Very Thing.

The physical strain is not negligible, as some people think, but it is subtle and gradual, and I will not be told that there breathes a soul so dead as never to himself has said some time on a golf course, "There was a shot that Bobby Jones couldn't have hit any better."

I have been a victim of this vice myself and do believe that if I could remember and then could assemble into a consecutive round of 18 holes all the best shots that I have ever hit, that collected round would equal the best single round that the best golfer on earth has ever played. I have sunk a chip shot from 50 yards, which, if it had occurred in a national championship tournament and a Hagen or a Dutra had hit it with 10,000 people looking on, to win a match and a title, would have lived in the memory of all present as one of the greatest strokes ever delivered in sport.

I think my friends in the press tent might have written something about the red badge of courage in connection with some of the shots which I have made. I have sunk a putt of 25 yards which would have set the customers to jabbering and tearing their clothes if it had occurred in just the proper dramatic circumstances in a great tournament. But in doing so I have come up with a count of from eight to 13 for that particular hole and the putt has been just an exasperated slap at a ball which had come to represent all the things that I resented on this earth.

Now and again I have even hit, by accident, I am quick to say before you do, some very beautiful tee shots and brassies and some magnificent recoveries from weeds and rocks and the deep tangled wildwood.

Nobody Ever Has Done Better than a Hole in One.

My friend John Farrell, if he lives a thousand years and improves with all the years, can never hit better blows than some that I have performed. And if you challenge this, then I know that he never will make a better score on a certain par three

CUBS' BASEBALL SCHOOL FLOPS AS DODGERS WIN, 6-4

Phelps, New Catcher, Is Only Star Pupil.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Prof. Charles Grimm formally opened the Cubs' rookie school yesterday and discovered without much of a wait that at least a couple of his pupils were in the wrong class room. However, the discovery was somewhat painful, because the Brooklyn Dodgers did enough damage to the youngsters to annex a 6 to 4 game, thereby lessening the Cubs' hopes of getting in on the world series second place money. It was the Dodgers' second victory in ten attempts at Wrigley field this season.

The first of the pupils to meet up with a series of unfavorable happenings was Leroy Herrmann, who was promoted to the rôle of a starting pitcher. The Dodgers gave the lad a short, snappy lesson which was concluded before the third inning was finished. Five runs were directly traceable to the Herrmann régime. Later on Roy Henshaw was assaulted for the other run. Then at the last minute Prof. Grimm abandoned the school idea and sent Guy Bush into action in the ninth, but the Cubs' weren't able to collect the tying run the professor had anticipated.

Phelps Makes Two Hits.

The deeds of Gordon Phelps, another pupil, were more satisfactory. The bulky youngster made his first appearance in big league catching equipment and was able to produce two of the hits yielded by Van Lingle Mungo. Both hits figured in the limited harvest of runs. Phelps also provided the 1,800 in attendance with a bit of defensive speed. He fairly leaped 15 feet down the foul line to grab a pop bunt off Frey's bat and whip it to first in time to double Boyle, who had hopes of being sacrificed to second.

There was no noticeable lost motion by the Dodgers in the scoring of two runs in the first inning. Boyle opened the game with a single to center. He waited on first while Frey was flying out to center and then a wild pitch by Herrmann gave him a free ride to third base. Frederick assured the two runs by blasting a homer into the right field bleacher.

The hilarity in the Brooklyn third began when Boyle walked. He scooted to third on Frey's single to right. Frederick also singled to right, moving Boyle across the plate. Manager Grimm immediately decided the day's lessons would continue without Herrmann. Pupil Henshaw was summoned. Hutcheson grounded to Billy Herman, who threw to the plate to head off Frey. Frey jogged back and forth until Koenig hit him in the head with the ball. Frey scored and Frederick took third. The latter registered on Wright's long fly.

Cubs Get Two in Fourth.

The Cubs were more or less, principally less, futile against Mungo until the fourth, when two of them reached the plate. Demaree walked after Cuyler had been tossed out. Camilli sin-

KINGFISH CATCHES, BUT HE PITCHES, TOO

BY WILFRID SMITH.

King Levinsky whipped Jack Sharkey, ex-heavyweight champion of the world, last night at Comiskey park. The Kingfish, an easy going, good natured lad out of the ring, flew at Sailor Jack in the first round, knocked him down for a count of seven seconds, and then made the pace for the remainder of the ten rounds. He earned a unanimous decision.

The fight, first major professional bout held outdoors in Chicago in five years, was a financial success. The paid attendance [commission figures], was 20,317, but at least 5,000 more saw the battle. From nightfall until Sharkey and Levinsky reached the ring shortly after 10 o'clock, hundreds of boys and men clambered over the iron picket fence of Comiskey park. Others crashed unprotected gates.

Gross Receipts $52,996.40.

The gross receipts were $52,996.40. Taxes cut this to $43,997. Of this Sharkey will receive $25,000 in recompense for his beating. The King will receive 20 per cent after all expenses are paid.

Judge William Battye, 53 to 47 for Levinsky.
Judge Edward Klein, 56 to 44 for Levinsky.
Referee Phil Collins, 55 to 45 for Levinsky.

By his exhibition last night Sharkey's stock in his attempt to retrieve his heavyweight title from Primo Carnera dropped to zero. Sharkey, the boxer, was expected to outpoint Levinsky in 10 rounds. There were many who believed that Sharkey might stop Levinsky in the closing rounds.

Makes Sharkey Hang On.

But Levinsky, who had boasted he would knock out Sharkey, while failing to make good, outpunched Sharkey in nearly every exchange. When the fighting was hardest, it was Sharkey who backed away or came in and held on.

While Jack did not realize it, the fight was over as far as he was concerned in the first 30 seconds. Jack met the King in the center of the ring with a stiff left jab to the face. The blow touched off the dynamite. Levinsky whirled his right hand over head and let fly. It cuffed Jack soundly beside his left ear. Sharkey stepped back. Again Levinsky wound up and threw his right. This time it struck low on Jack's jaw. Sharkey crumpled sideways to the canvas, but at the chant of the time-keeper's "three" came to one knee.

King Too Excited to Land.

Levinsky waited, leaning against the ropes. At "seven" Sharkey stood erect, left arm extended. The King rushed. He plunged forward with both hands working like pistons. In his excitement he missed more times than he landed. Sharkey, still dazed, finally clinched in a neutral corner to stop his buzzing opponent.

Levinsky Rushes In.

Jack shifted his offense to the body in the fourth, and when Levinsky covered up and stalled, Sharkey took the round. His left hook to the body in the fifth round landed below Levinsky's belt and Referee Phil Collins warned Jack. The King stepped in and aimed a right at Jack's knees to get even, for which he immediately apologized. Again the fighters kept on after the bell had rung until they were forcibly separated by Collins.

Sharkey Rallies, Then Fades.

Sharkey's best work was done in the sixth and seventh. The King's middle slowly turned red under Jack's short thumping punches. Sharkey also was boxing better and, with three rounds left, it seemed he might even up the point score.

Suddenly the tide of action flowed to Levinsky. He found new strength and Sharkey, never noted for his gameness under fire, plainly eased up as if conceding the result. The King punched from a half clinch to Sharkey's body and then hooked his right hand to the head. Twice he pinned Sharkey against the ropes, only to miss with tremendous roundhouse swings.

Sharkey on the Run.

Sharkey was on the run in the last round. Levinsky took aim twice and rocked the sailor with his right hand. Jack scarcely fought back in the final seconds, so intent was he on evading Levinsky's attack. The King leveled six blows without a return just before the final bell.

National Polo Tournament to Open Saturday

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Officials of the United States Polo association announced today that the postponed national open championship would start Saturday at the Meadowbrook club.

The draw remains as it was for the start planned on the past Saturday when rain caused the postponement, but there has been some shifting of plans. The doubleheader planned for last Sunday is to be played Saturday instead.

Under the revised schedule the games will be played as follows: Saturday, Greentree vs. Templeton; Sands Point vs. Westbury. Sunday, Hurricanes vs. Aurora. Wednesday, Sept. 27, winners of Greentree-Templeton vs. winners Sands Point-Westbury. Saturday, Sept. 30, final round. All the games are to be played at Meadowbrook.

On Thursday, Sept. 28, the first game of the Monty Waterbury Memorial Cup tournament will be played between the losers of the first two games in the open championship.

In the Wake of the News

POT POURRI.

WHAT'S the matter with the Cubs? That question has been asked The Wake probably 100 times since hopes of the north siders for the National league pennant waned. It probably has been asked of Irving Vaughan and Ed Burns, baseball experts, more than 1,000 times. The same question is being propounded in Pittsburgh—you remember the Pirates were general choices to win this year. It also is being asked in St. Louis.

There usually are three or four teams, sometimes more, with real or fancied flag chances. Only one can win. Hence the queries. Finishing in second or third place by the Cubs corresponds pretty closely to dope, although New York was not the team picked for the top rung. The Cubs might have been first if they had obtained the "breaks," but they didn't.

Injury to Cuyler, absence of Manager Grimm from his accustomed post were factors. Pitchers did not hold up as well as expected behind a team which lacked batting punch when punch was required. Several players are slow when they do get on the paths. There are plenty of reasons, or excuses, or alibis, whichever you want to call them. Some one else will have to explain the wide difference in effectiveness between trips on the road and home stays.

To us the Cubs are not busts in 1933. They simply are not champions in 1933.

Saturday's football game between the professional Chicago Bears and Notre Dame graduates did not clear the argument whether pro or college football is the stronger. It simply proved that other things being equal, greater power in the back field will win. There was no more contrast in the type of play than is seen almost any Saturday afternoon on any college gridiron between teams coached under different basic systems. For so early in the season it was an interesting game to watch, despite the weather conditions.

Big Six conference colleges have banned the football broadcast. The effect on attendance will be watched with interest. Broadcasts of any sports event probably do affect attendance, especially in inclement weather, and also during a time of depression when money for gate admissions is scarce. Baseball games occurring 77 times on the home lot each season make up that loss at

Prize Fight Business Is Booming Again

BY ARCH WARD.

The NRA must be working. Nearly twice as many turned out for the Sharkey-Levinsky bout last night as attended the last boxing show at Comiskey park. Less than 15,000 saw Mickey Walker win a close decision from Ace Hudkins in the boom days of 1928. The receipts, however, were twice the amount taken in last night. The Walker fight drew $128,000 and the promoter, Jim Mullen, lost money.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly, accompanied by Patrick A. Nash, Emmett Whealan and Thomas Courtney, arrived during the second preliminary bout. The ringside ushers had difficulty locating their seats and the mayor had to squat at a corner of the ring until the end of the round.

At least 1,000 boys saw the show without paying. They were going over the iron fence on 35th street near

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Harry Cooper and George Dawson, golfers who have done considerable to keep the name of the Glen Oak country club in front the last few years, collaborated yesterday to win the fourth annual pro-amateur championship of the Chicago district golf association at the Park Ridge Country club with a 36 hole best ball score of 64—67—131, nine under par.

The par-smashing performance of the Glen Oak twosome was almost matched single handed by Tommy Armour, Medinah professional, who turned in a 67—66—133, with Ralph Reedy of Medinah as his partner. The card was Armour's own for Reedy did not win a hole for the pair during the 36 holes. Tommy's card established a new Chicago district record for the 36 hole competition.

Foulis, Armstrong Shoot 133.

Tied with Armour and Reedy for second place were Jimmy Foulis and Tom Armstrong of Ruth Lake, who finished with a best ball of 67—66—133. George Smith and Dexter Cummings of Onwentsia and Sam Bernardi, Briargate and Tom Robins of Park Ridge tied for third place with 67—67—134. Bernardi won the title last year with Dick Martin, shooting a 143 at Medinah. A field of eighty, the largest in the history of the event, competed, with every leading professional in the district taking part.

Both Score Birdies.

Cooper and Dawson both scored birdies on the fourth hole in the morning, Harry reaching it in 2, while George was close to the pin with his third shot. Dawson sank an eight footer for a birdie at the seventh. George was over at the tenth, but Harry got a par 4. Dawson was two feet from the cup for a birdie 3 at the 11th, and chipped one in from 40 feet for a birdie at the 13th. He sank a 15 footer at the 14th for a 2. Cooper nearly had an eagle at the 15th but went away with a birdie. Dawson earned a 3 for the pair at the 17th where Cooper was trapped, and Harry got a par at the 18th where George was short with his second shot.

In the afternoon George was over par at the second, but Harry got his par and both again birdied the fourth, Harry reaching it in 2, while Dawson made a fine niblick shot over a trap for his. They followed par to the 11th where Harry ran down a 15 foot side hill putt for a birdie. Harry was trapped at the 12th but George, after sending his drive over the green, chipped back and sank a 15 footer for his par.

R. S. FISHER WINS GRAIN DEALERS' GOLF TOURNEY

R. S. Fisher of Keokuk, Ia., yesterday won the annual golf tournament of the National Grain Dealers association at the Ravisloe Country club. His score was 76. Thomas E. Hosty of Chicago was second low gross with 79 and L. T. Sayre, Chicago, was third with 84.

The low net winners in the tournament included P. H. King, Chicago, 90—19—71; C. W. Dempsey, Chicago, 102—31—71; Otto Bast of Omaha, 88—16—72, and H. A. Volz of Louisville, Ky., 85—13—72.

P. G. A. Names Harlow Tournament Manager

New York, Sept. 18.—(AP)—George R. Jacobus, president of the Professional Golfers association, announced today he had appointed Robert E. Harlow manager of the tournament activities of the association and also assistant business administrator. Harlow will organize the winter schedule of open tournaments and will make his headquarters in St. Petersburg, Fla.

WISCONSIN LIFTS LID ON UPLAND GAME SEPT. 30

BY BOB BECKER.

Wisconsin is going to offer an interesting program of upland game hunting this fall, according to the regulations issued by the conservation commission. The hunting includes ruffed grouse, prairie chicken, pheasant, quail, and Hungarian partridge.

The open season starts at noon on Sept. 30 for the ruffed grouse or partridge, the prairie chicken and the sharp tailed grouse.

Bag Limit of Four Per Day.

In the counties of Ashland, Barron, Bayfield, Burnett, Douglas, Florence, Forest, Iron, Langlade, Lincoln, Marinette, Oconto, Oneida, Polk, Price, Rusk, Sawyer, Taylor, Vilas, and Washburn, the ruffed grouse, prairie chicken, and sharp tailed grouse season opens at noon, Sept. 30, and closes Oct. 12. The bag limit is four birds per day and the possession limit is eight.

The counties in this Sept. 30 to Oct. 12 open season include a big part of the lake country where good fishing also is offered. This zone extends through the northern part of Wisconsin.

A slightly shorter season is provided for the counties of Adams, Chippewa, Clark, Columbia, Dunn, Eau Claire, Green Lake, Jackson, Juneau, Marathon, Marquette, Monroe, Outagamie, Pierce, Portage, St. Croix, Sauk, Shawano, Trempealeau, Waupaca, Waushara, and Wood, where the open season is from Sept. 30 at noon to Oct. 8. The same season prevails for the counties of Buffalo, Crawford, Door, Kewaunee, La Crosse, Manitowoc, Pepin, Richmond, Sheboygan, Vernon, and Washington as regards ruffed grouse only.

Pheasant Shooting Also.

Hunters in several counties in the lower part of the state are going to be able to bombard the pheasants. The list includes Columbia, Dodge, Fond du Lac, Green Lake, Juneau, Marquette, Sauk, Sheboygan, Washington, Waushara, and the towns of Poygan, Winneconne, Vinland, Oshkosh, Algoma, Omro, Rushford, Nepeuskun, Utica, Nekimi, and Black Wolf in Winnebago county. The season starts at noon, Sept. 30, and ends Oct. 2. Pheasant cocks only may be shot and two per day is the limit.

A season two days longer is provided for in the counties of Barron, Buffalo, Burnett, Chippewa, Dana, Dunn, Eau Claire, Green, the town of Moscow in Iowa county; Jefferson, Kenosha, the towns of Wayne, Gratiot, Wyota, Darlington, Argyle, Lamont, Blanchard, and Fayette in Lafayette county; Pepin, Pierce, Polk, Racine, Rock, St. Croix, Trempealeau, Walworth, Washburn, and Waukesha.

Golf Looks So Easy the Dub Keeps Playing

hole than one which was somehow made by a lady of my acquaintance, of rising 60 years, who waggled a blade on the tee and somehow tagged her golf ball on just the correct nerve center to drop it on the green and trickle it straight into the hole for an ace. You cannot do better than an ace on any hole of golf. Nobody can. But did any lady of rising 60 years ever hit a home run in a major league ball game or win a big tennis match or did any man of equal years ever win a fighting championship or a marathon or score the winning touchdown for Notre Dame?

One time at a national championship meet I saw Bill Mehlhorn take nine strokes on a hole of golf which I had played the day before in five, and I have other beautiful memories of holes which I have played in fewer strokes than some of the great experts required in certain moments. But I don't believe I ever could have pitched any such ball games or single innings as Carl Hubbell has pitched this year and I have never seen Bill Terry look bad on any play as compared to anything which I might have done on the same ball. Nor do I ever cherish an idea that I could have popped Tony Canzoneri in the center as hard as Barney Ross did many times in their fight last week and make his tongue pop out.

That is why I resent this golf. It kids the victim along. It makes him think until his dying day that there is hope for him when the evil gods of a treacherous game have decided long ago that he is hopeless.

Northwestern's Sophomores Stop Varsity in Scrimmage

Northwestern's first football scrimmage yesterday revealed that the much heralded sophomores warrant the nice things said about them, at least from a defensive point of view.

The new players, of whom there is an abundance, didn't get much of a chance to show their ability offensively but they were equal to the task of bottling up the varsity attack most of the afternoon.

Perhaps the varsity's failure to get going was due to the fact that practice has been underway only three days, but much credit must be given to some new linemen, including Irwin Popecky, 200 pound tackle from Morton High, Cicero; Jim Berg, a 185 pound end from Detroit, and Irving Goldstein, a guard from Marshall High school.

Wally Cruice, sophomore half back from Milwaukee, playing at right half on the first team, broke away for several runs and tossed a few of his left handed passes for sizeable gains.

The players nominated for the first team yesterday were Leeper and Cruice, half backs; Augustson, quarter; Olson, full; Manske and Kostbade, ends; Riley and Heuss, tackles; Kawal and Whalen, guards, and Hajek, center.

COOK STARS FOR ILLINI.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Dave Cook, 200 pound back from St. Louis, after a year's absence from the Illinois varsity lineup, today showed that he has his mind set on a regular position. He gave a convincing demonstration of defensive work at full back. On offense he shared the passing with Jack Beynon.

Ken Meenan of Oak Park, former back at Northwestern, enrolled at the university today and appeared in the freshman football squad practice. Meenan will be eligible for the Illinois varsity after a year of residence. He played one year, 1931, at Northwestern.

MAROONS GET SERIOUS.

Three pleasant days of romping through plays will come to a halt today for the University of Chicago football squad. A hard session of blocking, forerunner to several days of drill on fundamentals, is scheduled for this morning.

Coach Clark Shaughnessy indicated yesterday that he expects versatility. He proposes that every man learn two positions. Yesterday he shifted Capt. Pete Zimmer to an end position and pulled Rainwater Wells into the backfield at full back. Barton Smith, another end, also has been galloping through the full back routine. Wells, a native of California, spent the summer as a movie extra in Hollywood and returned to Chicago weighing 196 pounds. He is likely to see a good deal of service this autumn, since he is rugged and fast and an expert pass receiver.

NOTRE DAME SEEKS PUNTER.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—The search for a punter opened in the Notre Dame football camp today. Steve Banas, senior full back, despite the fuss over his sophomore rival, Don Elser, indicated that he may retain his varsity position on the merits of his kicking.

Elser does a bit of kicking, but he was erratic in today's drill. He has not shown himself to be a passer as yet.

PURDUE SPEEDS UP.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Coach Noble Kizer ordered full speed ahead for the Purdue football squad this afternoon as the Boilermakers reported for their third practice session. Line scrimmage and an intensive session of blocking for the backs occupied most of the time.

BUCKEYES JUGGLE BACKS.

Columbus, O., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Ohio State's football coaches spent most of today's two practice sessions working out with the back field men in an effort to discover which combination would work best in the modified Warner offensive. Coach Sam Willaman is planning.

Cramer, Oliphant, and Pincura were drilled at quarter back, while Wetzel held down the full back post. Jones, Smith, Vogelsang, Heekin, Keefe, Thomas, Vidis, Boucher, and Fisch were worked at the halves.

IOWA SQUAD GROWS.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Football prospects at the University of Iowa were brightened today when two outstanding linemen reported for the first time.

Walter Liggett, Rockford, Ill., a 230 pounder, was given a trial in the first string line. Liggett, a former freshman star at Illinois and promising tackle on the freshman team here last year, is regarded as one of the best of the sophomores. Voris Dickerson, Lincoln, Mo., major letter end, was the other newcomer.

SPEARS LABORS ON LINE.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 18.—(AP)—The sophomores upon whom Coach Spears depends for guards and tackles at Wisconsin this year were given particular attention as he sent the football squad through another hard scrimmage today.

Mario Pacetti, regular guard last year, was at tackle in the first major shift Spears has made in an effort to get power into the green line. Five sophomores were in the line of the first squad during the workout.

INDIANA STRESSES PASSES.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—The Indiana university football squad went through a brisk drill this afternoon for its game on Sept. 30 with Miami university.

TWO GOPHERS OUT.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Ailments kept two Minnesota varsity football players on the side lines today while the squad gave a lot of time to kicking and protection of punts.

WOLVERINES SCRIMMAGE.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Coach Harry Kipke looked over the chart listing the weights of the Michigan football candidates at noon today and then ordered a surprise scrimmage for this afternoon. The first scrimmage of the season had been announced for Wednesday. Most of the men expected to get into competition this season were used in the workout, and among those who stood out were Everhardus, Renner, and Bolas. Pete Remias, Chicago sophomore, also showed some of the form that made him a star in high school.

Kipke switched Jerry Ford, center, and Willard Hildebrand, tackle, to guards because guards lead the interference in the Michigan system. Graduation of two of them last June leaves only two experienced men, Kowalik and Savage, available.

LEVINSKY BOUT SHOWS THAT RING BUSINESS BOOMS

Aside from the occupants of the ringside section few knew the identity of the preliminary workmen. There was no amplifying system and the announcers could be heard only for 15 or 20 rows.

Leo Rodak, three time Golden Glove champion, looked as effective in the professional ranks as he did in the amateur. He gave Johnny Fitzpatrick of New York, a thorough drubbing in four rounds. He scored a knockdown. Rodak turned professional a month before the international Golden Glove bouts with Ireland.

Barney Ross, lightweight champion, spoke a word of encouragement to Rodak after Leo returned to his dressing room. They have something in common. Both joined the pros after winning their Golden Gloves.

Shortly after the program opened hundreds of general admission patrons made a rush for the ringside. Ushers and police tried unsuccessfully to shoo them back to the left and right fields stands. They stood en masse at the north end of the ringside section, partly obstructing the view of box seat customers in that area.

Levinsky arrived at Comiskey park at 8:30, ten minutes ahead of Sharkey. His trainers tried to make him rest on a cot until it was time to dress but the king would have none of it. He paced up and down the dressing room nervously.

Matt Dour beat Bobby Millsapp [4].
Popeye Huber beat Tom Moon [4].

Levinsky Gets Decision Over Jack Sharkey

Larry Johnson, down for a count of four in the second round, won a six round decision over Bob Moody, a Negro heavyweight from Boston. Georgie Turner stopped Nick Taft in the first round. Both are Chicago heavyweights.

REPHOLZ WINS IN CADDY MASTERS' GOLF TOURNEY

Forty of the boys who see that caddies are ready for duty competed at the Evanston Golf club yesterday for the Chicago District Golf association's caddy masters championship. Jake Repholz, of Bob O'Link proved to be the best of the field with a card of 76—37—113 for 27 holes. Al Favelli, of Lake Shore took second place with 73—44—117, and Frank Jordan of Beverly was third with 82—37—119.

DUKELSKY OUT TO HALT TONELLI'S STREAK TONIGHT

Solly Dukelsky, Chicago welterweight, and Laddie Tonelli of Marseilles, Ill., will meet in a six round bout tonight at Western stadium, Western and Devon avenues. Tonelli has won 20 straight matches. This winning streak may be halted tonight by Dukelsky, who recently whipped Jackie Purvis of Indianapolis, Ind. Supporting bouts are:

Steve Selgrat vs. Adolph Wiater [4]. Leo Ranieri vs. Mickey Joy [4]. Johnny Morris vs. Willie Davies [4]. Johnny Rich vs. Frankie White [4]. Tony Canzioni vs. Frank Whitey [4]. Freddy Mitchell vs. John Pekovitch [4].

Jackie Sharkey, Minneapolis, Minn., featherweight, finished boxing yesterday for his 10 round encounter tomorrow with Young Geno of La Salle, Ill., at Northwest stadium. Sharkey went six rounds, three each with Harry Booker and Jimmy Eliopoulos. Geno is scheduled to arrive today. He will endeavor to halt Sharkey's winning record of eight straight.

The Illinois athletic commission yesterday suspended two boxers and two wrestlers for violation of rules. Hassan Ahmed and Mike Mantich, the wrestlers, were banned for 90 days. Bud Saltis, Chicago middleweight, was suspended for 60 days and Fritz Heinz, Saginaw, Mich., was suspended until he appears before the commission.

MAUREEN ORCUTT IS MEDALIST IN NEW JERSEY GOLF

Springfield, N. J., Sept. 18.—(AP)—New Jersey's two ranking women golfers finished one two in the 18 hole qualifying round of the eleventh annual state championship tournament today, Maureen Orcutt adding the medal to her collection of prizes and Charlotte Glutting, the defending champion, assuming the runner up role.

Miss Orcutt carded 39—42—81 to lead the field of 97 starters. Miss Glutting was three strokes behind with 43—41—84, just a step ahead of Jane Brooks, the Knickerbocker club star who dethroned her in the state medal play tournament in June. Miss Brooks finished with 42—43—85.

MT. CARMEL AND ST. RITA TO PLAY IN CHARITY GAME

Two of the leading Catholic high school football teams in the Chicago region, Mount Carmel and St. Rita, will play their regular game this year for the benefit of St. Bernard's hospital, 6337 Harvard avenue, it was announced yesterday. The game will be held Sunday, Oct. 8, at Soldier's field.

CARDS' RUN IN EIGHTH DEFEATS GIANTS, 4 TO 3

Victory Delays New York March to Flag.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Tex Carleton's single off Carl Hubbell in the eighth inning scored Leo Durocher, who had tripled, with the run that gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 4 to 3 victory over the New York Giants today and delayed the settlement of the National league pennant race.

With victory meaning the pennant, as the Pirates broke even in a double header, the Giants jumped into an early lead only to have the advantage fade as the Cards bunched their hits off Herman Bell and Hubbell in the closing innings. Fred Fitzsimmons started the game for the Giants but was forced out in the second, when he was hit by a batted ball. Score:

COLUMBUS WINS 7 TO 5; LEADS IN TITLE SERIES, 3-2

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Five home runs helped Columbus to a 7 to 5, ten inning victory over Minneapolis today and a 3 to 2 edge in the seven game playoff series for the American association championship.

Minneapolis scored three runs in the ninth to tie the score at 5 all, when Glenn hit a home run over the fence with Harris and Holland on base.

Browns Slow Senators' Rush to Pennant, 4-2

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Sam Gray, the St. Louis Browns' veteran pitcher who lost a chance to get a slice of world series coin a few weeks ago by confessing a sore arm, pitched a 4 to 2 victory over Washington's Senators today.

Clark Griffith, Washington owner, who turned Gray back to the Browns after the pitcher admitted his arm was sore, must have regretted the move today as he watched the Senators swing vainly at the old timer's offerings. Gray yielded only eight hits in eight innings, Hadley finishing after the first Senator up in the ninth got a hit.

A victory for Washington today would have brought the pennant race within a few fraction points of its end. As it is, the Senators need only two more victories out of nine games. Score:

YAROSZ DEFEATS VINCE DUNDEE IN TEN ROUND BOUT

Newark, N. J., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Teddy Yarosz, Pittsburgh middleweight, showed he was made of championship timber tonight by outpointing Vince Dundee of New Jersey for the second time in a 10 round battle at Dreamland park.

A crowd of 7,000 paid $9,334.80 to see the 23 year old Pennsylvanian repeat the surprise decision victory he scored over Dundee recently in Pittsburgh. Weighing 158¾ to Dundee's 159¾, Yarosz was faster than his 29 year old foe and peppered him with so many punches from the second to the sixth rounds that Dundee, never before defeated in this state, was unable to make up lost ground despite a determined rally in the late sessions.

Sox Lose to Yankees, 6-1; Then Win, 4-3

A nice play by Appling brought about the retirement of Walker in the Yankee half. Sewell singled to right and then Ruth and Gehrig walked, filling the bases. Tietje steadied and Chapman and Lazzeri lifted easy flies to Swanson.

Bocek Hits Double.

The Sox exceeded their first game hit total in the second inning when Bocek clicked a double to right with two down, his first major league hit, and the Sox's third off Ruffing. Haas ended the inning with a liner to Chapman.

Walker again was disposed of to start the Yank third. Sewell got his second hit off Tietje. Ruth then hit into a double play, Kress to Appling to Tietje, who covered first.

Tietje's goose egg string ended in the fourth when Gehrig knocked his second homer of the afternoon. Chapman then lined to Appling and Lazzeri walked. Rensa fouled to Kress and Crossetti lined to Swanson.

Another for Rookie.

Bocek's second hit was an infield single which led off the fifth. Haas followed with a single to right which put Bocek on third, whence he scored while Dykes was forcing Haas.

The Sox stirred up a little fun in their sixth, but strikeouts stopped them short of production. Hayes opened with a single and stopped at second on Berry's single. The pair moved up on Tietje's sacrifice, but Bocek and Haas fanned.

Byrd walked after a three and two count to start the sixth. Gehrig hit into a double play which involved some neat work by Hayes and Kress. Chapman popped to Appling.

Watch Ball Fall.

With one down in the seventh Rensa got credit for the Yanks' fourth hit when his easy high fly plunked among Haas, Bocek, and Hayes, who gaped at each other while the ball came down. Crosetti filed to Haas. Walker bounced to Appling to force Ruffing.

The Yanks scored only one run in the eighth after Tietje had pushed off to a bad start. He walked Sewell and Byrd and then again made Gehrig hit into a double play. Chapman singled to left, scoring Sewell. Tietje threw out Lazzeri.

Sox and Yankees Play Two Today; Jones Seeks No. 12

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 18.—There will be another White Sox-Yankee double header tomorrow. Sam Jones, who pitched the two Sox victories on the present trip previous to arrival here, will go after No. 12 in one of the games.

Al Simmons' absence from the opening lineup was his first miss in two seasons. He could have started today if any importance had been attached to the outcome.

Phoenix fancy sox

Color and pattern are the words in sox. Nothing wild, but neat figures, pin stripes (both horizontal and vertical), subdued all-over designs—and you'll be agreeably surprised at the quality Phoenix has managed to crowd into 50c—especially remarkable in this day of rising costs.

Terry Has Faced Senators Before, Hitting .429 in 1924

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

It will be no novelty for William Harold Terry, better known as Bill, to meet up with the Washington Senators in the impending world series. Bill has met them before, and not to his sorrow, even though the Giants were beaten when a batted ball took a trick hop over the head of Freddy Lindstrom at third base. But there'll be one new thing for Bill in the impending venture. He'a the Giant manager now, but in 1924, the year the infield pebble decided the world baseball title, he was just a young man trying to get a start in the

CONSTANT WIFE CHASES BLUES OF DIXIANA STABLE

BY FRENCH LANE.

The power of Charles T. Fisher's Dixiana stable was again evident in Chicago racing yesterday when Constant Wife carried the popular red jacket to victory in the Mount Greenwood purse at Lincoln Fields.

The victory bolstered the morale of the Dixiana stable forces, which was at low ebb since neither Mata Hari nor Far Star was able to get to the post in the Belmont Futurity last Saturday.

But it has been that way as far as Dixiana stable is concerned all season. When one of the three speedy fillies failed—Far Star, Mata Hari or Constant Wife—one or other of the trio picked up the job of running and came scampering home in front.

Dogmata Closes Fast.

It was Constant Wife's turn to do the trick yesterday, and she did it in a most handy manner. She left the barrier in front, speeded along a length in the lead of her rivals for nearly the entire trip of the six furlongs and wound up by lasting long enough to beat Speedy Skippy by a head.

A length and a half back of the two leaders, running faster than any of the others, came Dogmata. This son of Dozer no doubt would have won in a few more strides. Constant Wife had put everything she had into her effort.

Speedy Skippy had been the favorite. There also was quite a last minute plunge on Mr. James, a colt which had just arrived at Lincoln Fields from Coney Island. He showed some early speed, but was weakly ridden by Jockey South and cut off time and again. Finally he dropped back out of the money.

Her Backers Celebrate.

The interference had cost him a chance to finish up near the leaders. He is a son of St. James-Wonderful One. Early in the spring in Kentucky Mr. James was rated as one of the good 2 year olds in the country.

Constant Wife ran the six furlongs over a track that was fast in spots and rather dull in other places in 1:12 1-5. The time was nothing for her or any of the Dixiana stable folks to boast about. In the mutuels she paid $15.76 to win, which caused her backers to put on a right lively celebration.

Desert Call, a son of Busy American-Polly Bunting, just up from the meeting at the Dade Park track in Kentucky, won the Riverdale purse without much effort.

Plunge on Desert Call.

There was a great plunge on Desert Call throughout the betting period. As a result he paid $4.84 to win, but won like a 1 to 2 shot. Once he started running he never left the result in doubt and was going so easily when challenge after challenge was thrown at him in the stretch that Jockey Wright never had to apply the whip.

Desert Call races for Laffoon and Yeiser, of Kentucky, who maintain an extensive string of racers.

C. E. Chase Drops from Philadelphia Span.

Assistant chief engineer of the Delaware river bridge, between Philadelphia and Camden, N. J., he was clambering beneath the roadway, planning a $10,000,000 high speed transit line, at the time of the accident.

Probably Blown off Bridge.

Chase was believed by his companions to have been caught by a gust of wind as he lost his balance. He glanced off a stone pier of the suspension bridge, crashed onto a parked automobile and bounded to the pavement of Delaware avenue.

Chase had shared in the designing of bridges as far apart as New York and Alaska, Detroit and New Orleans. One of his latest tasks was that of consulting engineer on the structure which is to span the Mississippi at New Orleans.

Member of Noted Firm.

Chase, who was born in Omaha 45 years ago, is survived by a widow, the former Helen Kelsey, of Toledo, and three children. He was a member of the firm of Modjeski, Masters & Chase of New York, having been taken under the tutelage of Ralph Modjeski in 1908, while still a student at Cornell university. In 1911, a year after his graduation, he was sent to Oregon to supervise construction of the Oregon Trunk railway.

He worked on the McKinley bridge, crossing the Mississippi at St. Louis; supervised the design for the Ambassador bridge, between Detroit, Mich., and Windsor, Ont.; designed the Klingle Valley bridge, Washington, D. C., and also handled jobs at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Toledo, O.; Louisville, Ky.; Rochester, Pa.; Cincinnati, O., and the Tanana river, Alaska.

STANLEY KUNZ BEFORE COURT TO ANSWER SUIT

Stanley H. Kunz, former congressman, appeared before Municipal Judge Nuncio J. Bonelli yesterday in answer to a petition to discover assets filed against him by John Hertz, who holds a judgment for $1,500. The judgment was obtained two years ago after Kunz failed to pay for Landvogt, a race horse which he bought from the Hertz stable in 1928 for $1,500.

Attorney Morris Sider made little progress in his efforts to discover Kunz's assets, and the hearing was continued to Sept. 26, after the attorney had asked permission to summon the politician's wife and sons to court. Several other creditors of Kunz appeared at the hearing.

"I have drawn about $17,000 from the government in the last 18 months," said Kunz, who was defeated for reelection in November. "But I spent most of it trying to get elected again, and now I'm a poor man. I owe my wife $5,000 and have no income of any kind."

"How many horses have you?" asked Attorney Sider.

"None, now," said Kunz, "but I did own about 50 of them. I had one winner in eight years, made about $800 on him. The rest were a total loss."

MRS. PETERSON, LUTHER LEAGUE SECRETARY, DEAD

Mrs. Minnie Peterson, 42 years old, executive secretary of the Luther League of Illinois, died yesterday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Bertha L. MacGregor, 450 Blackstone avenue, La Grange. She was well known to young people in the United Lutheran and Methodist Episcopal churches.

Mrs. Peterson was born in Germany and was brought here while a small child. She was graduated from the public schools and attended Northwestern university. For six years she was office manager in the World Service offices of the Methodist Episcopal church, 740 Rush street, and in that position recently made a tour of the United States.

FRENCH FOREIGN MINISTER UNDER CLEMENCEAU DIES

Pichon served as a senator for about 20 years and was five times foreign minister. He retired ten years ago, a nervous invalid, and was treated at a sanatorium where he, the late Rene Viviani and several other former ministers were patients at the same time, all suffering from overwork.

Pichon was one of the French representatives at the Versailles peace conference and later was named one of those empowered by France to sign the Austrian peace treaty.

HOSPITAL CHIEFS MEET TO STUDY THEIR PROBLEMS

First Institute of Its Kind in U. S.

The hospital business, which rates seventh among the big industries of the United States, with a turnover of a billion dollars a year, is being studied in all phases of management and operation at the American Hospital Association institute, which opened a course at the University of Chicago yesterday to last until Oct. 6.

Two hundred hospital administrators, including superintendents of most of the large American hospitals, superintendents of nursing and administrators from foreign hospitals, are attending the lectures and clinics. The institute is sponsored by the hospital association and several members of the University of Chicago are on the lecture staff.

"This is the first time that such an institution has been held in this country," said Dr. Michael Davis, chairman of the curriculum committee and director of the medical service of the Julius Rosenwald Foundation. "In every other great business there are courses of training offered, but hospital administrators have come up through the school of experience.

Seek the Best Methods.

"It is to coördinate the best methods in management that this institute is being held. The hospitals, like every other business, are suffering from shortage of income. Tax funds have been sharply reduced and patients have lost their ability to pay. The question of how bills may be budgeted, through installment payments or through hospital insurance, will be discussed. Another problem is the more economical utilization of the existing plants."

The hospital insurance plan, under which persons pay $9 or $10 a year for this sort of protection, is growing in the smaller cities of the country, Dr. Davis said. In Dallas, Tex., there are 12,000 subscribers to this method. Newark, N. J., is another example of widespread use of this method. It has not yet taken hold in New York or Chicago because the hospitals have not come together on a plan.

Hospital rates have been reduced somewhat during the depression, Dr. Davis said, but he added that they have always been close to cost. How to bring costs down is one of the problems to be considered.

Superintendents from Abroad.

Miss Almena Wuerther, superintendent of the Presbyterian hospital, San Juan, Puerto Rico, and Henry V. Lacey, superintendent of Foo-Chow Christian Union hospital of China, are among the foreign visitors.

Dr. Nathaniel W. Faxon, president of the American Hospital association and director of Strong Memorial hospital, Rochester, N. Y., delivered the address of welcome yesterday and the objectives were stated by Dr. Malcolm W. MacEachern, director of hospital activities of the American College of Surgeons.

After the morning lectures the members of the institute are taken to the Chicago hospitals which are members of the association for afternoons of clinical work.

A WORM HUNTER TURNS AFTER A SHOWER OF PANS

Angered because she found him digging worms in the back yard for a fishing expedition, Mrs. Barbara Schubert showered him with kitchen utensils, Fred H. Schubert, 1019 North Leamington avenue, charged yesterday in a bill for divorce filed in the Superior court. His bill, filed by Attorney Harry X. Cole, states that he was struck on the elbow by a frying pan, on the head by a coffee pot, and in the midriff by a soup kettle. Judge Rudolph F. Desort issued a temporary injunction restraining Mrs. Schubert, who lives at 1026 South Massasoit avenue, from disposing of any of her husband's assets, which they have in a joint safe deposit box.

E. H. BLASHFIELD, AT 85, ENDS WORK ON MURAL PAINTING

New York, Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Another link with the past—the past of Sargent and of John La Farge, the past of the mauve decade and the world's fair of 40 years ago—has been severed.

For 35 years Edwin Howland Blashfield, dean of American mural painters, had occupied the largest studios in Carnegie hall. There in glowing oils on vast canvases he built his fame.

The name "E. H. Blashfield," in chipped gilt letters, still adorns the door, the entrance to 819-823, but it will not be there long. On Oct. 1 Mr. Blashfield's lease expires and for the first time in a generation it will not be renewed. For Mr. Blashfield is retiring.

At 85 he is still ambitious, and he is building a new studio at South Dennis on Cape Cod. But he is attempting only small canvases now. The president of the National Academy of Design told a friend some time ago that "my trade is finished."

Miss Helen A. Sears, a daughter of the late Joseph Sears, founder of the village of Kenilworth, left an estate valued at $150,000, it was learned yesterday when her will was admitted to probate by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to the probate judge. Miss Sears, who was 55 years old, died on Aug. 1 in her apartment at the Drake hotel.

The will bequeaths $10,000 to the Women's Symphony orchestra of Chicago and small amounts to other musical organizations. The remainder of the estate is equally divided among two brothers, J. Alden Sears of Kenilworth and Philip R. Sears of Seattle, Wash., and a sister, Dorothy Sears of Winnetka. Miss Sears was the music leader at Hull house.

Seven wills were admitted to probate by Clerk Mitchell C. Robin yesterday as follows:

EMMA OLSON, died July 24. Estate, $7,100, to one son, two daughters, one grandson, and two granddaughters, Florence O. Fleming, a daughter, is executrix.

CARRIE W. LEWIS, died July 9. Estate, $5,000, to son and grandson. Dunbar W. Lewis, the son, is executor.

MARIE MUELLER, died May 4. Estate, $50,000, to three sisters, five nieces, and thirteen nephews. The First Union Trust and Savings bank is executor.

LUCIUS G. PARDEE, died Aug. 27. Estate, $4,500, to widow, Hannah Pardee, who is executrix.

FRANK J. REINER, died July 23. Estate, $6,000, to sister-in-law, seven nephews and eight nieces. Richard L. Lovery is executor.

HERTHA J. HUTCHINSON, died July 24. Estate, $9,500, to widower and nephew. William J. Hutchinson, the widower, is executor.

SIDNEY S. LEVY, died July 18. Estate, $3,000, to three brothers, two nephews, and one niece. Allen A. Levy, a brother, is executor.

Funeral Services Today for Dr. Charles C. Peck

Funeral services for Dr. Charles C. Peck, 62 years old, former coroner of McHenry county who died on Sunday, will be held today at 1:30 o'clock at the family home in Harvard and at 2 o'clock from the Methodist church. PERFECT BEAUTY PREPARATIONS

IN every neighborhood, Chicago families realize the nearness, the remarkable promptness and superiority of Hursen service in directing funerals.

New York, Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Bond prices plunged sharply on the stock exchange today, many domestic corporation issues of all shades of credit rating losing 1 to 6 points, with corresponding losses in some sections of the foreign bond group.

Trading was heavy, totaling $13,377,000. United States government bonds, too, were unsettled, closing unchanged to off 7-32ds point on a turnover of $1,255,000. From the character of the selling it was evident that sizable blocks of high grade bonds were coming out of investment accounts.

Rails Suffer Most.

Low grade bonds have been for some time vehicles for speculative activity, so that liquidation of these is considered of minor importance marketwise. In general the railroad issues suffered the major declines, with the utilities and industrials following in that order.

The weakest spots in the foreign list included German loans, most of the Scandinavian issues, and the majority of the Latin-American loans. Kingdom of Italy 7s broke 1⅝ points, Austrian government 7s, due 1943, 3 points, and City of Rotterdam 6s, 4 points.

Some Move Higher.

On the upside of the market Dutch East Indies issues rallied 3⅜ to 4¼ points for the record highs since issuance, French government 7s 3⅜ points t o a record high at 148, and the French municipal loans fractionally to 5½ points to new record highs since issuance.

Curb bonds were weak at the close, with but few issues able to make any headway against the general downward trend. The losses for the day ran the gamut of fractions to more than 5 points, with one or two issues losing more. High priced as well as low priced domestic issues were included in the list of the heaviest losses. Trading was more active than it has been in several days.

Kentucky Utilities.

Investors' Guide: Will you please advise me whether Kentucky Utilities junior preferred stock is O. K.?—U. F. N.

Answer: Kentucky Utilities company is a subsidiary of Middle West Utilities company. The latter is in receivership. Kentucky Utilities is a holding company whose subsidiary, Old Dominion Power company, furnishes electricity, gas, and water to 70,640 customers in Virginia and Tennessee.

Net income for the first half of 1933 was $339,000, which was 1.49 times preferred dividends, but only 59 per cent of junior preferred dividend requirements.

Operating revenues for 1932 totaled $5,765,000, against $6,818,000 for 1931 and $7,166,000 for 1930. Net income in 1932 was $1,217,000, equal to $16.01 per share of 6 per cent preferred and $7.03 per share of junior preferred. In 1931 net was $1,783,000, or $23.11 per share of 6 per cent preferred and $11.33 per share of junior preferred. Net in 1930 was $1,894,000, against $1,973,000 for 1929.

At the close of 1932 current assets were $3,035,000 and current liabilities were $1,285,000. Funded debt, none of which matures prior to 1948, aggregated $32,112,000.

There are outstanding 76,011 shares of 6 per cent $100 par preferred and 108,183 shares of 50 par 7 per cent junior preferred. Dividends are currently being paid on both classes.

Canadian International Paper.

Investors' Guide: Will you please send me the present status and data on Canadian International Paper first 6s?—T. O. T.

Answer: Canadian International Paper company is controlled by International Paper and Power company. It produces newsprint.

Earnings in recent years have been affected not only by falling prices but by reduced volume. In 1932, for instance, the company turned out 493,433 tons of newsprint and 119,251 tons of sulphite pulp, which compared with 644,841 tons of newsprint and 131,099 tons of pulp in 1931.

Including a profit of $287,000 on redemption of bonds and debentures, net loss for 1932 was $4,695,000. Only 16 per cent of charges was earned. Charges were earned 1.28 times in 1931, 1.49 times in 1930, and 1.02 times in 1929.

At the close of 1932 current assets, including $17,964,000 inventories and $399,000 cash, totaled $20,338,000, and current liabilities, including $3,494,000 secured bank loans, aggregated $5,423,000.

Funded debt totals $93,564,000. The $23,750,000 first 6s, due 1949, are speculative.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Cotton goods were active and advancing today. Wool goods markets showed improvement in prices and sales. Rayon was steady and active. Burlap was firm. Silk prices were higher but trading was slow.

BANKS EXPAND CREDIT, RESERVE REPORT SHOWS

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Anxious to do everything within their power to accelerate business recovery, but refusing to take any action that might impair their position, banks throughout the country are mulling over the administration's credit expansion program as disclosed at the recent bankers' convention in Chicago.

MELVIN TRAYLOR.

Figures released by the Federal Reserve bank yesterday disclosed that in the week ended Sept. 13 there was the largest expansion of commercial loans by member banks since July 12.

Commercial loans reported by member banks in 90 principal clearing house cities throughout the country increased 33 millions for the week. In the preceding week an increase of 23 millions had been reported by these leading banks.

This expansion has been very moderate in view of the total of 4 billions 323 millions of total commercial loans outstanding, but is interpreted in banking circles as a reversal of the trend of banks loans.

Banks Explain Action.

Bankers are quick to explain that the loan increase has been due to the increase in business activity and the demand for more bank funds by borrowers entitled by reputation and financial standing to obtain bank money. There has been no tendency whatever, they say, to assume greater risks merely to put excess bank reserves to work.

The bankers, however, are getting their heads together to discover ways and means of assisting the administration's credit expansion program without getting their necks out. All over the country bank officers and directors are meeting to discuss the administration's plan as disclosed at the convention here two weeks ago by Gov. Eugene Black of the federal reserve board, Controller of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor, and Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Of chief interest are the Jones' demand that banks increase their available funds by selling preferred stock to the RFC and the guaranty of deposits provisions of the banking act of 1933.

Meet in Washington.

Members of the federal reserve advisory council, a group of private bankers who counsel the federal reserve board, are meeting in Washington this week to discuss these matters together with problems of government financing and the open market operations of the federal reserve.

The reserve people in Washington have been extremely anxious to get the viewpoint of these men who are actively engaged in the banking business. They have particularly desired to get their reactions to the measures proposed by the Washington spokesmen at the Chicago convention.

An Informal Session.

Meanwhile individual banks are talking over the same propositions. A group of directors of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company yesterday afternoon held an informal meeting to discuss the preferred stock proposal and the guaranty of deposits provision. Bank officers said, however, that no quorum was present and that no action with respect to sale of stock to the RFC was considered or was likely to be considered in the near future.

Along La Salle street the opinion was expressed that if the big banks in New York, Chicago and other cities decided to go along with the administration's plan to sell preferred stock to the RFC the step will be taken by a number of leading banks simultaneously.

Yesterday's federal reserve report on member bank position also disclosed that bank deposits are still mounting. Gross deposits of the leading banks in 90 principal cities advanced an indicated 175 millions in the week ended last Wednesday. Their excess reserves carried with the federal reserve increased 86 millions, despite the 33 million dollar increase in commercial loans.

The report shows that the banks are still reducing their holdings of government bonds, the decline in such holdings last week being 39 millions for the reporting member banks.

Seen as Buck Passing.

The chief objection to the preferred stock plan raised by the big city banks is that it may prove to be merely a device on the part of the administration to pour money into banks in need of more liquidity just so they may qualify under the deposit guaranty plan.

Many of the bankers suspect that the preferred stock idea is a buck passing arrangement and that its aim is not to expand credit for business by putting the banks in possession of more cash, but that the fact that some banks need RFC help is to be disguised by forcing all the banks to take it so that nobody may discover who took it for reasons of patriotism and who actually needed it.

Frank Gordon Calls Security Act a Failure

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 18.—Federal legislation governing the sale of securities has "failed to satisfy," Frank M. Gordon, president of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, told members of the National Association of Securities Commissioners, assembled in convention at the Schroeder hotel here. He spoke at the annual banquet tonight.

His address was centered on the federal securities act passed by the last congress, and on other legislation regulating securities. "Thus far all securities laws, both here and abroad, have necessarily been a series of legalistic experimentations which even now fail to satisfy," Mr. Gordon said.

He pledged coöperation between investment bankers and securities commissioners "for the purpose of preventing fraud in the creation and distribution of securities, and in furthering the sound and protective uses of credit."

"The fact that securities laws have not seemed wholly satisfactory does not argue that they are of no value nor that such efforts are futile, however," Mr. Gordon said.

Failure of Legislation.

The failure of federal securities legislation has revealed four salient weaknesses in the system of the distribution of securities, he told the commissioners.

First, he said, many alleged frauds are not frauds or "bucket shop" operations. Because some one has lost on an investment, it does not follow that he has been defrauded, Mr. Gordon asserted. The percentage of losses by securities investors is lower than those suffered by investors in real estate, farm products and merchandise.

Second, "headline" allegations as to losses through the sale of "worthless" stocks make interesting reading, but are out of proportion to actual facts.

Third, too much is expected of securities laws. "Regardless of the detailed requirements of the securities laws, fraud is never brought before the securities commissioner for leisurely inspection," Gordon pointed out.

Fourth, inexperienced investors have been led to believe that the state or the federal government, through the securities commissioner, is doing their investment thinking for them.

Makes Some Suggestions.

Gordon also demonstrated that the delegation of discretionary but arbitrary powers to pass on the worth of securities as advocated by some legislators would not be effective because it is "based on the premise that any man knows the future as well as the present."

Mr. Gordon advanced some suggestions:

Remember that laws are not self-enforcing, utilize present laws rather than formulate new ones to complicate the situation.

Educate the public that it must take care of itself as far as investments are concerned, that it must not depend too much on the state to do its thinking.

Put teeth in securities legislation, that fraud may be prosecuted vigorously and promptly.

Halts New Issues.

The federal securities law has resulted in a halt in the issuance of new securities, Gordon declared. Issuers and underwriters are willing to assume their own risks, but "must refuse" to be responsible for others.

The flood of beer stocks brought by the legalization of the brew caught Illinois unprepared, William J. Howard, Springfield, appraiser for the securities department of Illinois, told the convention today. The principal rule for which his department demanded strict adherence is that promoters of beer stock must have not less than 15 per cent interest in their company, and that this interest must be kept at least two years. The nation, he said, has recovered from its first thirst for beer and has settled down to "more steady drinking."

N. Y. CENTRAL, PENNSYLVANIA SPEED UP TRAINS

With the discontinuance of daylight saving time next Sunday both the New York Central and the Pennsylvania yesterday announced changes in schedules and the speeding up of running time of certain trains between Chicago and New York City.

The New York Central's Fifth Avenue Special, east bound, will cut 15 minutes off the running time. The Wolverine of the Michigan Central will cut its scheduled time by 45 minutes. The New York Central's Iroquois will reduce its running time on the west bound trip by 45 minutes.

On the Pennsylvania, the Manhattan Limited and the Rainbow will run on faster schedules, the latter by nearly 1½ hours.

PRICE OF WHEAT HITS DOLLAR; THEN RECEDES

Profit Taking Cuts Early Advance.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Buying of wheat yesterday lacked the extreme breadth which characterized the trading late in July but was sufficient to restore the dollar quotation to the blackboards for the greater part of the day. May sold up to $1.01¾ at the opening, the highest level since Aug. 11, and 13⅛ cents above the low of last week. Inflation talk was again the dominating subject of consversation among train traders, and the steady advance in the price of free gold, as announced by the treasury department, added fuel to the bullish enthusiasm.

Many operators who bought grain late last week took advantage of the rapid upturn to secure profits on the early bulge, and the outside buying, while persistent, was not sufficiently large to absorb the offerings and keep the market on the upgrade. Final trades were ⅛ to ¼ cents higher, with September closing at 92 cents, while December was 95⅝ to 95¾ cents and May 99¾ to 99⅞ cents.

Hedging Sales Affect Corn.

Heavy hedging sales in addition to liberal profit taking brought about a good reaction in corn after an early advance and the finish was ¾ to 1¼ cents lower, with December closing at 55 cents and May at 61⅛ to 61¼ cents. Oats were unchanged to ⅜ cents higher, December being 41⅞ to 42 cents at the last while rye was ⅜ to ½ cent lower with December at 76⅞ cents. Barley was strong and ⅝ to 1¼ cents higher. December closed at 59½ cents, or around 20 cents below the outside figure asked for choice malting grain.

Trade gossip indicated the free selling of long grain during the day had been based largely on the belief public buying as yet was not sufficient to keep the market steadily on the upgrade despite the highly sensational inflation news. However, many leading professionals express the belief higher prices will be witnessed ultimately.

Winnipeg Closes Higher.

There was not the concentrated buying in wheat which was so effective on Saturday, and some of the houses with eastern connections who bought late last week were fair sellers. Winnipeg, however, closed 1¼ to 1½ cents higher, with December at 72 cents in Canadian funds. The latter sold within 2 cents of par during the day, the smallest discount of the year.

There was no letup in the foreign demand for Canadian wheat during the day, with the continent taking 1,250,000 bushels in all positions despite recent claims of record breaking crops there. A revised German report placed the wheat crop this year at 203,000,000 bushels, or 19,000,000 bushels in excess of 1932, while the rye crop is 342,000,000 bushels, or 15,000,000 bushels larger than last year, both establishing new records.

Report Poor Crops.

Reports of disappointing wheat yields were received from northern Alberta during the day, and Winnipeg messages indicating the possibility of a sharp downward reduction in the crop of the three provinces.

Farmers apparently are satisfied with the outlook for the new corn crop and sold 450,000 bushels to arrive during the day, making around 4,000,000 bushels disposed of to the local market in about a week. Hedging of this grain has a depressing effect on futures. Failure of frost to materialize over the week-end in western Nebraska and the Dakotas, with announcement that nearly 2,000,000 more pigs would be slaughtered by the government, also were factors in inducing selling.

LOAN POLICIES RESERVE TOPIC; NO STATEMENT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—The federal advisory council, composed of representatives of each of the federal reserve districts, today discussed various economic issues. Most serious consideration was said to have been given to the Reconstruction Finance corporation bank loan policy.

Gov. Eugene Black of the reserve board said the board had received the suggestions of the council with much interest and welcomed its recommendations. Members of neither the reserve board nor council would say what matters had been considered or what recommendations had been made.

The R. F. C. loan policy has aroused wide discussion in banking circles. Banks whose capital has become impaired would be able to obtain loans through the subscription of preferred stock by the R. F. C. in order to become eligible for entry into the deposit insurance fund.

SILVER FUTURES ADVANCE TO NEW HIGHS FOR YEAR

Inflation talk, with especial emphasis placed upon proposed government action to aid silver, and the continued advance in gold lifted silver futures yesterday to new highs for the year. Trade was extremely heavy with sales of 14,300,000 oz. Prices advanced rapidly and closed at net gains of 0.72 cents to 0.90 cents. In the last two sessions prices were up 1.47 cents to 1.75 cents. Closing prices follow: September, 40.37c nom; October, 40.37c bid; December, 40.82 to 40.85 trading; January, 41.15c trading; March, 41.70 to 41.75c trading; May, 42.20 to 42.25c.

Chicago Bids for Financial Leadership

A committee of sixteen bankers, brokers, and business men has been organized by the Chicago Association of Commerce to promote the city's standing as a financial center, particularly in the field of stock trading.

The chairman, Mark A. Brown, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, issued a call yesterday for a meeting Thursday at which the committee is expected to consider the prospects of persuading the New York Stock exchange to transfer its headquarters to Chicago, thus escaping the New York state and municipal stock transfer taxes which have impelled the exchange to talk of moving.

Others on Committee.

Prominent on the committee with Mr. Brown are F. O. Hale, president, Illinois Bell Telephone company; Arthur Andersen, president of Arthur Andersen & Co., public accountants; E. F. Wilson, packer; Paul H. Davis, former president of the Chicago Stock exchange, and Peter B. Carey, president of the Chicago Board of Trade.

That New York brokers expect increased activity soon on the Chicago Stock exchange is indicated by the recent rise from $4,400 to $10,000 for seats on the Chicago exchange. Ten seats have been exchanged in the last week, among the purchasers being Wright & Sexton, Gammock & Co., Scholle Brothers, and Anderson, Block & Co., all New York houses with no Chicago memberships heretofore.

Plenty of Room Here.

Whether the Association of Commerce committee will issue a formal invitation for the New York exchange to move here, Mr. Brown declined to say. It has been pointed out that Chicago has ample banking, telegraph, and building facilities to accommodate the exchange, advantages believed to be lacking in the cities of Newark, N. J., and Wilmington, Del., which have already offered the exchange a new home.

Talk of moving the big board out of New York grew loudest recently when the New York municipal board of estimate voted to impose a 4 cent tax on each share of stock transferred. In addition to similar federal tax of 4 to 5 cents imposed everywhere New York state imposes a 4 to 5 cent tax. In Chicago only the federal tax is imposed.

Whitney Won't Talk.

At a meeting of the New York board of estimate Sept. 8 Arthur G. Somers, one of the governors of the New York exchange, was quoted as saying the members were determined to move if the municipal tax were adopted. Asked to comment on the statement, Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, shrugged questions away.

The Association of Commerce committee is represented as regarding the possibility of the New York exchange's removal as somewhat uncertain. In the event the exchange does not move the committee is said to feel that the Chicago exchange may be enabled to gain profit and prestige by attracting big accounts here. A program is reported in the making to relist locally a number of stocks now on the New York board and build up active trading in them here.

STUDY MOVE IN EAST

New York, Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Mayor Meyer Ellenstein of Newark, N. J., where a group of New York stock exchange members plan to locate the newly incorporated National Stock exchange, visited the trading floor here today to learn the mechanics of operation.

Richard Whitney, president of the stock exchange, explained the workings to him. Later this week, it was announced, a committee of Newark business men and political leaders plan to make a further study.

The National Stock exchange, it was learned today, plans only a trading flor in Newark. Brokers' offices will remain here and the clearing and banking facilities now in use will be unchanged under the program.

Although Newark has offered the Center Market building for the floor, Jersey City also plans to offer a site, closer to Wall street, it was said today, and the plan of that municipality to bring the exchange there probably will be forthcoming this week.

Seats on Board of Trade Sell at $10,500; Up $1,000

Board of Trade memberships are higher, with sales yesterday at $10,500, an increase of $1,000 over the last trade. At the close bids were $10,100, with $10,750 asked.

PAY ROLLS IN STEEL DISTRICT HERE NEAR PEAK OF 1929 BOOM

Steel mill pay rolls in the Indiana Harbor-East Chicago district are now carrying nearly 12,000 persons, the highest employment since the 1929 peak. Employment by the two major plants, the Inland Steel company and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, is within striking distance of the 1929 peak of 13,000 workers.

Inland is currently carrying between 7,000 and 7,200 men on its pay roll, against 7,400 in 1929. Youngstown is employing 4,500, against 5,600 in the steel industry's banner year.

The NRA has accounted in a large measure for the increased number of workers, according to H. R. De Holl, Inland general superintendent. The plant is now on a forty hour week, while formerly a general forty-five hour week prevailed for most workers, with shopmen putting in sixty hours. The slash in the working time has resulted in the reëmployment of several hundred men.

All workers received a 15 per cent wage boost on July 15 and shopmen got another increase last Saturday.

KANSAS BANKERS FIGHT DEPOSIT GUARANTY PLAN

Topeka, Kas., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Kansas bankers, both state and national, holding their group meetings at seven points this week, are tightening lines to oppose the government's deposit guaranty plan. Recently about 250 bankers met and organized an educational campaign through which they hope to convince the banking public that the federal insurance plan, which goes into effect after Jan. 1, will not work.

Jay F. Close of Topeka was named chairman of the Allied Independent Bankers of Kansas, and the purposes as set out in resolutions adopted are to conduct an intensive publicity campaign by press, radio and circular, in addition to meetings with depositors.

Chairman Close says that, with few exceptions, the Kansas bankers oppose the guaranty plan. Kansas has a state guaranty law for fifteen years. It was repealed in 1925, with a loss of approximately $5,000,000 to depositors.

IRON AND STEEL INSTITUTE MAY SHIFT LINEUP

New York, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Changes in the makeup of the American Iron and Steel institute's official family are expected to be considered this week at meetings of the organization's executive committee and board of directors.

It was understood today that, because of the considerable amount of work involved in administering the NRA code of fair competition, there may be some switching of the directing heads, together with a number of additions to the staff of the institute.

Whether a successor will be chosen for Robert P. Lamont, whose resignation will come up for acceptance by the directors, is said to be still a matter for discussion. In some quarters it was thought that, under a new plan, an executive secretary might be appointed as the working head of the institute.

BRUCE R. ALLEN REPORTS STEADY TELEGRAPH GAIN

Telegraph volume has shown a steady and rapid increase all summer in Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Ohio, according to Bruce R. Allen, director of sales of Western Union. Mr. Allen is in Chicago to meet managers of Western Union offices in the five states and to confer with A. C. Cronkhite, general manager of the lake division.

"Our barometer of business activity is the most comprehensive available, since our offices are in 4,313 places in these five states, compared with 266 places which also receive telegraph service from other companies," Mr. Allen said.

"This larger telegraph volume indicates greater activity in ordering raw materials, expediting factory production, and buying by wholesalers.

Sloan Writes a Letter and Wins Friend

Many of the larger corporations are making as sincere efforts to maintain the good will of their stockholders as is the modest business man who endeavors to hold his customers through personal service and close contact. An instance of how one of the nation's largest corporations—General Motors—made a friend was told yesterday.

A Chicagoan who recently sold a small block of General Motors stock—at a profit—shortly after the deal was transacted received the following letter, signed personally by Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president:

"I would not wish to appear to be inquiring into any personal reasons, voluntary or involuntary, that may have prompted you to relinquish this stock. However, if the disposal of your holdings was due, even in a small measure, to any unsatisfactory treatment on our part, I hope that you will do me the favor of writing me in detail, since it is our desire to retain your friendship even though you are no longer a holder of General Motors securities.

"It is of course quite possible that you may have assigned your stock for use as collateral. If such is the case and you would like to receive information of general interest issued out of this office from time to time, please let me know, and I will be glad to arrange to have your name continued on a special mailing list for a period of twelve months."

"I call that an unusually friendly gesture—and also good business," said the stockholder in telling about it.

Stories jibing bankers are still going the rounds. Here's one that cropped up yesterday:

"What are you going to do with the money?" asked the banker.

"I'm going to spend it on firewater and poker," replied the honest aborigine.

"No good. What else?"

"I've got 200 good ponies."

Four days later the Indian returned, peeled two five hundred dollar bills off a big roll, and announced he was redeeming his loan. He still had $6,000 left. The poker game had been highly profitable.

Although the dollar flopped to another low yesterday the stock market didn't go up as has been its custom when the dollar declines. Dopesters set about trying to discover why. They discovered that among other gossip that was buzzing over brokers' wires was a rumor to the effect that "inflation has been fully discounted." Apparently this theory had found followers, although experts described it as a "crazy idea."

In the commodity markets this rumor didn't find many believers. Traders were more impressed with the recent statement from Washington to the effect that farm prices are still 50 per cent too low.

U. S. to Pay .11 of One Per Cent on $100,000,000 Loan

The government will pay an average rate of .11 of 1 per cent for the $100,000,000 which it borrowed last week through the sale of 91 day treasury bills. Acting Secretary of the Treasury Hewes announced last night subscriptions for the issue amounted to $256,750,000, or 2½ times the amount available. The lowest bid accepted represented an interest rate of .08 of 1 per cent on an annual basis. The highest bid represented a rate of slightly more than .11 of 1 per cent.

Dollar Price Falls to New Low Record

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 18.—The fall of the dollar, reflecting the rising clamor for inflation, was carried further today, bringing the United States monetary unit to a new low price in terms of gold and the gold standard exchanges. It came within a narrow margin of the lewest price thus far reached in terms of sterling since the suspension of the gold standard here.

In recognition of the cheapening of the dollar in foreign exchange, the treasury fixed a price of $31.44 an ounce, a new high, for newly mined gold purchased from producers or sold to the arts and industry. This compared with a price of $30.41 an ounce on Friday and with the statutory price of $20.67 an ounce.

Franc Above 6 Cents.

The decline of the dollar lifted the French franc above 6 cents for the first time since stabilization in 1928. At its high for the day French exchange was quoted at 6.04½ cents, compared with parity of 3.92 cents, indicating a gold value for the dollar of 64.81 cents. The franc closed close to its high at 5.99¾ cents, a net gain of 14¼ points on the day. At the closing price of the franc the dollar had an indicated gold value of 65.32 cents which was a net loss of 1.59 cents on the day.

Sterling reached $4.82 in this market, which was the highest price since July 19, when $4.86½, or approximately parity, was recorded. The pound closed at $4.77¼, a net gain of 5¼ cents.

Although it rose against the dollar, sterling fell in terms of gold. The sterling franc rate fell below 80 francs to the pound, despite reported supporting efforts. The open market price of gold bullion in London reached a new high at 131s 9d an ounce, a gain of 1s 4d. At this leve lthe London value of gold in the open market showed a premium of about 8 pence an ounce over the price, converted into sterling, at the current rate at which gold can be purchased from the Bank of France. The premium reflected the eagerness of continental purchasers to secure gold for hoarding without going to the Bank of France where their purchases would be made a matter of record.

Canadian Dollar Rises.

The Dutch guilder soared to 62.37 cents in dollar terms and closed at 61.82 cents, up 157 points; the Swiss franc reached 29.85 cents and ended up 77 points at 29.72 cents and the Belgian belga went to 21.60 cents and closed at 21.40 cents, up 50 points.

Canadian dollars went to a new high since December, 1931, at 98 cents and closed at 97.82 cents, up 1.07 cents. Marks rose 1 cent net to 36.70 cents; lire were up 19 points to 8.05 cents and the Scandinavian exchanges all gained 30 to 31 points.

There were no news developments to account for the further cheapening of the dollar except for the continued advices received by bankers from Washington and other sections of the country indicating that a determined effort will be made to induce congress to make inflation mandatory upon the President instead of leaving it to his discretion.

British Are Alarmed.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Alarmed by the violent break in the dollar and by the rapid trend toward inflation in the United States, Prime Minister MacDonald today held a long discussion in Downing street with three of Great Britain's foremost economists. The three were Sir Josiah Stamp, Sir Walter Layton, and Sir Arthur Salter, whom irreverent reporters at once dubbed "Britain's brain trust." Their visit was so unusual that it aroused intense interest in financial circles and was even regarded as heralding new decisions by Great Britain in fields of financial economic policy.

It became known tonight that the chief purpose of their visit was to advise the prime minister on events in the United States and their possible repercussions here. The swift decline in the dollar to within three points of old parity has raised in acute form the old question of whether the pound should follow the dollar down hill or be held steady to the detriment of Britain's export trade.

ASK TEXAS CORP. STOCKHOLDERS TO EXPAND BOARD

A recommendation that the board of directors of the Texas corporation be enlarged by twelve members in order to place control in the hands of a more representative group of stockholders is made in a letter sent yesterday to share holders of the oil company

The change is asked by a newly organized stockholders' committee headed by J. S. Crosbie, Tusla, Okla., oil man. Seven other stockholders are members of the committee. Several of the members have been stockholders "since the inception of the company in 1902," according to the letter.

The letter criticizes the present board for removing R. C. Holmes as executive head of the company early this year by electing him chairman of the board. Holmes resigned as chairman after being removed as president.

STOCKS HIGHLY IRREGULAR IN ACTIVE TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Trading in stocks continued active today, but highly irregular price movements attested to Wall street's current fit of nerve over the economic situation in general and inflation in particular.

Strength in the oils and the gold mining shares featured the market throughout the day. The list for the most part was strong at the start, prices spurting 1 to 3 points in active dealings. Before noon, however, selling resistance was encountered and prices gradually settled back to near their previous closing levels. A turnover of around three million shares indicated that the urge to trade was there.

Gold Mining Strongest.

While oils and mining shares, especially the latter, displayed outstanding strength on consistent demand, they were forced to negotiate the rally virtually alone, the rails, utilities, and pivotal industrials showing little or no willingness to join. It was largely the failure of these latter leading groups to share in the upturn that dampened whatever speculative enthusiasm that appeared at the opening on renewed demands for inflation in Washington.

The market merely gave another bit of evidence that the prospect of inflation, in so far as a rapidly falling dollar in the exchange market presages it, has lost much of its earlier lure for scurity traders.

Much Inflation Talk.

The output of inflation talk continued heavy, but definite word was yet to come from Washington as to what the administration intends to do about it. The report by Senator Thomas of Oklahoma on his canvass of congress showing that about 95 per cent of the membership favored inflation seemed to bring only a yawn from the ticket reading fraternity.

By far the best play was in the gold and silver shares, based on the sharp drop in dollars and the strong London gold market, the metal touching a new high price. Homestake continued its high bouncing antics, getting up more than 15 points to a new record peak.

Others in Advance.

Other sharp advances were scored by such issues as Alaska, Juneau, Dome, American Smelting, Federal Mining, McIntyre, H. S. Smelting, and International Silver. The coppers and, in fact, nearly all the mining stocks had a good market. International Nickel was especially active.

Buying of oil shares came out quickly in the news that a minimum price for petroleum products was a probability in the near future. The standard and leading independents were turned over in heavy volume at moderately higher quitations. Standard of New Jersey was a feature at a new year's high of 43¼.

Reaction at Noon.

Elsewhere movements were grouped more than usual. Early gains in rails, utilities and headline industrials were erased all along the line in a speedy and sharp reaction around noon.

One glaring weak spot was U. S. Steel, which retreated nearly 2 points before meeting support and rallying slightly. The setback in steel brought sympathetic selling in other shares in the industry. The turndown in the steel division was attributed to reports in the trade reviews showing a declining rate of operations and a further eating into orders on hand.

American Can was virtually the only prominent industrial to come through with a gain on the day. The stock's net appreciation of 1⅞ points was in sharp contrast to recessions in Du Pont, General Motors, Radio and Westinghouse.

Rails Rise, Then Retreat.

A fairly good car loadings showing furnished incentive for early buying of rails, but the carriers retreated en bloc in subsequent selling, issues of the class of New York Central, Santa Fe, Lackawanna, and Union Pacific posting losses running from fractions to more than 2 points.

A similar rise and fall characterized the course of the public service issues. When Consolidated Gas slumped to less than 3 points from its year's bottom, there developed sympathetic selling in United Corporation, Public Service of New Jersey, Columbia Gas, and others.

Meeting with offerings on all the bulges National Distillers and other liquor stocks closed lower, and the same was true of other groups. Woolworth was an exception to the rule in the merchandise section, rising more than a point on the day in good volume.

HELP IS URGED FOR HOLDERS OF FOREIGN BONDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 18.—The Federation of Foreign Trade Associations, which comprises foreign trade and export groups throughout the country, added its voice today to the growing chorus urging that American holders of foreign bonds be protected by the formation of the Corporation of Foreign Security Holders as provided for in the federal securities act of 1933.

The federation, as a result of a survey, reports that foreign bonds totaling about 7 billion dollars are outstanding in the United States of which more than one billion 500 million are already in default.

The survey points out that there has been no effective agency qualified to take care of the bondholders up to the present, and that the situation is steadily growing worse. Remittances of interest, it is asserted, have, in some cases, been unnecessarily withheld and the market price of the bonds thus artificially depressed, with the result that many bonds have been repurchased at sacrifice prices to the prejudice of the bondholders.

Stating that about 500,000 American citizens hold foreign bonds, the survey estimates that about half are now losing about $100,000,000 a year.

Eugene P. Thomas, president of the National Foreign Trade council, in a statement today, said that it is believed by foreign traders generally that the administration should act with reasonable promptness in setting up the organization provided for under the securities act. This corporation, he said, is the only means now possible by which united action and effective cooperation of all interests can set to work to clear up the confusion surrounding our foreign investment situation.

Affects Foreign Trade.

"This matter has a direct relationship to our foreign trade," said Mr. Thomas, "and American foreign traders are not only keenly interested in having the administration initiate this protection of our bondholders as soon as possible, but in their own interest realize that providing the means for settling bondholders' difficulties in defaulting countries at the same time stimulates the growth of our foreign trade by reducing the effect of one of the most persistent barriers to world trade.

"American foreign traders have seen the good effects in Brazil following the removal of the dead weight of blocked foreign balances by the agreement for the payment of the larger balances in six years and of the smaller ones in cash in ninety days.

"Almost half of the bonds now in default have been issued by national governments and almost three-quarters have been issued by either state, municipal or provincial governments, the defaulted bonds having divided into the following groups:

Municipal governments	196,222,400
Banks	121,560,000
Corporations	238,321,400

"In addition to the foregoing it is understood that there is between 100 and 200 million dollars of bonds in some degree in technical default."

EGG FUTURES HIGHER

Butter and egg futures closed with slight advances on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday, butter gaining ⅛@⅛c and eggs, ⅜c. Egg trading was active, largely due to switching. While statistical news continued favorable, buyers are inclined to want the longer delivery time and liquidation of October and purchasing of Novembers went ahead actively. The four markets moved out 7,100 cases more eggs than last year. Butter continued dull. Statistical reports showed the ten market surplus gained 4,000,000 lbs last week and the four markets reported an increase of 445,000 lbs in the daily movement. Sellers of futures hold back because of the uncertainty as to whether stabilization efforts are to continue in the future. Sales: butter, 47 cars; eggs, 309 cars. Prices follow:

GRAIN AND FEED MEN CONSIDER NEW DEAL POLICY

All Must Work Under One Code, Convention Hears.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Grain and feed dealers of the nation, whose industry is as essential to agricultural production as is the farm implement business, opened a three day session at the Congress hotel yesterday out of which they hope to unite on a policy of operations under the federal NRA and AAA.

Speakers at the outset made it clear that the delegates were far from a single purpose, but that from the six business codes already submitted, three for the grain trade and three for the feed dealers, one code for the industry would be expected by government officials in Washington.

Frank Theis, chief of the wheat processing and marketing division of the AAA, who speaks this morning, and Secretary of Agriculture H. A. Wallace, in his address tomorrow, are expected to stress the need of a single code for the entire industry that can be "policed" by its own membership.

"New Deal" Beats Farm Board.

"The 'new deal' in government is obviously far better for agriculture and the grain trade than the intolerable farm board conditions," declared George E. Booth, president of the Grain and Feed Dealers' National association. "Conditions in agriculture and the grain business have improved."

Mr. Booth pointed out that the association had opposed the new farm adjustment plans and the domestic allotment plan for wheat, but since incorporated into law, the membership is making an attempt to comply.

He reported that a national federation of country grain elevators, representing about 20,000 elevators or warehouses, had been set up and a code adopted. In this instance, as well as those codes now under consideration, the labor features come under the NRA and the trade practices features under the AAA, he said.

Warns of AAA Scrutiny.

A. F. Seay of St. Louis, chairman of the code committee for the American Feed Manufacturers' association, warned the retail feed trade that no price schedules set up in an industry code would be subject to special scrutiny by the AAA. One proposal made yesterday to regulate feed prices was that to the cost of the materials entering into the feed be added the transportation and a fixed sum to cover overhead costs.

"Now that the matter of code preparation is nearly out of the way," said Charles Quinn of Toledo, O., secretary of the association, "the question of policing and making the codes effective becomes of paramount importance." He indicated that the convention must decide upon how to enforce the trade agreements.

In welcoming the delegates yesterday, Peter B. Carey, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, credited agriculture and the grain business with having made "a remarkable improvement."

HOGS IN SHARP RISE ON MODEST RECEIPTS HERE

Top Quotation of $5 Is 30c Above Saturday's High.

Hog prices advanced yesterday in the sharpest one day rise since July 3. The top price reached $5, showing 30 cents gain over the Saturday high mark, while the general average for the day at $4.35 was 20 cents higher than on Saturday and 5 cents above last Friday, the high day of last week.

Top sales were no higher than they were early Friday, but the undertone of the market was entirely different. Buyers withdrew hurriedly last Friday as the $5 quotation came into view and prices dipped sharply later that day, whereas yesterday's market accumulated strength when the top again touched $5 and was threatening to go over that line on late rounds.

Supply Below Expectations.

Offerings on the market after government pigs and directs had been deducted from the receipts were smaller than the trade had expected. Only about 12,000 commercial hogs remained for sale after packers took out their 13,000 directs and had obtained the 33,000 pigs sent in for the account of the government.

Cooler weather the last few days has evidently whetted the public's appetite for fresh pork. Much of the recent upturn in the hog market is traceable to the better call for fresh pork which has gone up in value in the wholesale trade in the last few days. Pork loins selling yesterday at 8½ to 14½ cents a pound were worth about half this amount less than three months ago.

Pork Loins Higher.

Yesterday's pork loin quotations were up one to two cents at the various leading points. The rise in the east has been sharper than in Chicago, at New York the high point for top loins was 17 cents. Boston reported 16½ cents and Philadelphia 16 cents.

The 33,000 pigs in the yards yesterday intended for the government were sold in short order by packers who were eager to get on the market for the quota of commercial swine, which kept increasing in value all forenoon. The last buyers had the highest average costs on their droves of regular market swine. Practically nothing remained in the pens at the close. To reach the new goal of almost 6,000,000 pigs before the end of the month the government must receive them at the rate of 200,000 daily. The total for the entire country is already about 3,700,000, only about two days slaughter away from the 4,000,000 mark which was the original goal of the A. A. A. plan to reduce pork supplies for the coming winter.

Chicago Quota Raised.

The failure of the farmers to sell their piggy sows is the chief cause for the change in plans, members of the trade contend. Chicago packers expect to slaughter about 410,000 pigs for the government before the end of the month, their quota having been increased from 25,000 daily to 35,000 daily. Some packers contend it is possible to handle more at this point.

The twenty leading markets received 154,000 pigs for the government yesterday against 129,000 the previous Monday. The total at the twenty markets for the year to date stands at 3,050,000.

Cattle Point Lower.

Eastern demand for cattle was lighter on yesterday's market and all but the cheaper grades of light steers, which were comparatively short in numbers, ruled weak to lower, some of the long fed stock at the finish indicating losses of as much as 25 cents, compared with the high point at the close of last week. Generally, action was slower than it has been for several days, a marked contrast to the final sessions of last week.

A new low Monday top of $6.85 was established. A week earlier top steers were sold at $6.90. These are the only two Mondays in several months on which top steers were sold below the $7 line.

Cheaper Kinds Strong.

While weak to lower prices were the rule in the rank and file of steers yesterday some of the cheaper grades indicate gains of as much as 15 to 25 cents. Most presure came in the medium and weighty offerings. The cattle market is getting less support from the hide trade lately. Heavy steer hides have gone down 2 cents per pound in the last three weeks.

Buyers and sellers in the sheep house yesterday were at grips over prices until late in the afternoon, about 60 per cent of the available oefrings remaining in first hands until near the 3 o'clock deadline. Scattered early sales were steady to 25 cents lower in the native lambs. Small buyers paid up to $7.75 for a "handful" of picked strongweights, while larger houses limited their bids to $7 for natives. At a late hour the bulk of range lambs cashed within a range of $6.50 to $7. Shippers paid up to $7.25 for one string.

LARD HIGHER

Hogs were up to $5, which inspired buying of lard and bellies for future delivery, and, with cotton higher, provisions moved up and closed well toward the top, with futures on lard 17½ to 25 cents higher at the close, there being only a moderate reaction from the top, particularly on December lard. Bellies were up 2½ to 15 cents, and a fair general trade was on. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 3 pence higher. Regular lard advanced 22½ cents to $6.12½, with loose 15 cents higher for the day at $5.40, while leaf jumped 10 cents, with the close at $5.25. Dry salted clear bellies were taken more readily, the close at $6.12½, an advance of 17½ cents. Fresh pork loins were in active demand and higher at 10 to 15 cents, with New York market showing increased activity. Hog receipts were heavy, largely exceeding the previous week. Prices follow:

Be a Leading Beautician

Marinello Beauticians have always shown the way. They have many imitators—but there is nothing that takes the place of a Marinello Certificate. It unquestionably establishes its holder's leadership and authority.

Armed with a Marinello certificate, you can depend upon being placed in the best positions. It gives you preference because of Marinello reputation for graduating the best operators in the profession.

Moler's Private Lesson Course in BEAUTY CULTURE

It will continue after the NRA code of shorter hours and guaranteed salaries is accepted.

But the Half Rate Offer

will be eliminated because of the minimum tuition. All codes must be accepted by Oct. 1st, and the half rate offer will probably be accepted before—so if you can't start right now it is safer to make your reservation. Let Moler's World Fair diploma and Century Certificate be the means of obtaining the better job or your own shop.

Jury Picked to Try Harvey Bailey and 11 Others for Kidnaping—Insull Bankruptcy Hearing Delayed Again

HARVEY BAILEY AND ELEVEN OTHERS GO ON TRIAL FOR URSCHEL KIDNAPING; JURY COMPLETED THE FIRST DAY. Scene in courtroom of Federal Judge Edgar S. Vaught in Oklahoma City yesterday as trial for kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, wealthy oil man, got under way. Those numbered are: (1) E. E. Kirkpatrick, ransom go-between; (2) Urschel, the victim; (3) Arthur Seeligson, go-between; (4) Mrs. R. G. Shannon; (5) R. G. Shannon, upon whose Texas farm Bailey was caught; (6) Harvey Bailey, and (7) Albert Bates, co-defendant. The courtroom was constantly under guard. (Story on page 5.)

View of the mile of new boulevard on the north side lake front, which will be opened to traffic this week, as it appeared yesterday with the new "clover leaf" grade separation at Montrose avenue in the foreground. On the "clover leaf" separation all pavements are for one way traffic only. Similar construction is nearing completion at Wilson and Lawrence avenues. The Lincoln park commissioners are rushing work on the entire project.
